U.S. Begins Enforcing 200-Mile Fish Limit

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the Gulf of Alaska, off the coast of New England and in waters shared with Cuba, the government today tried to enforce the new U.S. 200-mile limit on foreign fishing vessels. The Coast Guard beefed up its staff, aircraft and vessels for the chore, and in Washington, Adm. Owen Siler, Coast Guard commandant, said, "The Coast Guard is ready and accepts the challenge."

Until today, the limit was 12 miles. Under complaints from the U.S. fishing industry that foreign fishermen were ruining their livelihood, Congress adopted the 200-mile zone and the Ford Administration a year ago approved the legislation. There were doubts about the immediate effectiveness of the limit. "Most fishermen are all the same. If they think they can beat you, they'll cross the line a little," said fisheries agent Ken Creamer.

Creamer is one of 11 National Marine Fisheries Services agents responsible, along with the Coast Guard, for enforcement along the Alaskan coastline — the nation's largest and richest fishery. In Boston, Daniel Russ, a Commerce Department official in charge of enforcement from Canada to North Carolina, said he still was waiting for instructions about issuing permits to foreign vessels before they can fish inside the limit.

The government's first task is stopping for two months all foreign fishing off the Pacific Northwest, except for tuna. It also must limit foreign fishing in the North Atlantic to only hake and squid, for the time being, and halt all fishing in the Gulf of Mexico where no countries have applied for licenses.

Japan, South Korea, Spain and the Common Market nations already have signed agreements to allow their fishermen to get permits from the Commerce Department, but Congress must still approve them.

A State Department spokesman said those countries agreed to suspend fishing in U.S. waters until Congress did approve the agreements. An agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union has been ratified and Soviet vessels with permits will be allowed to fish within the zone.

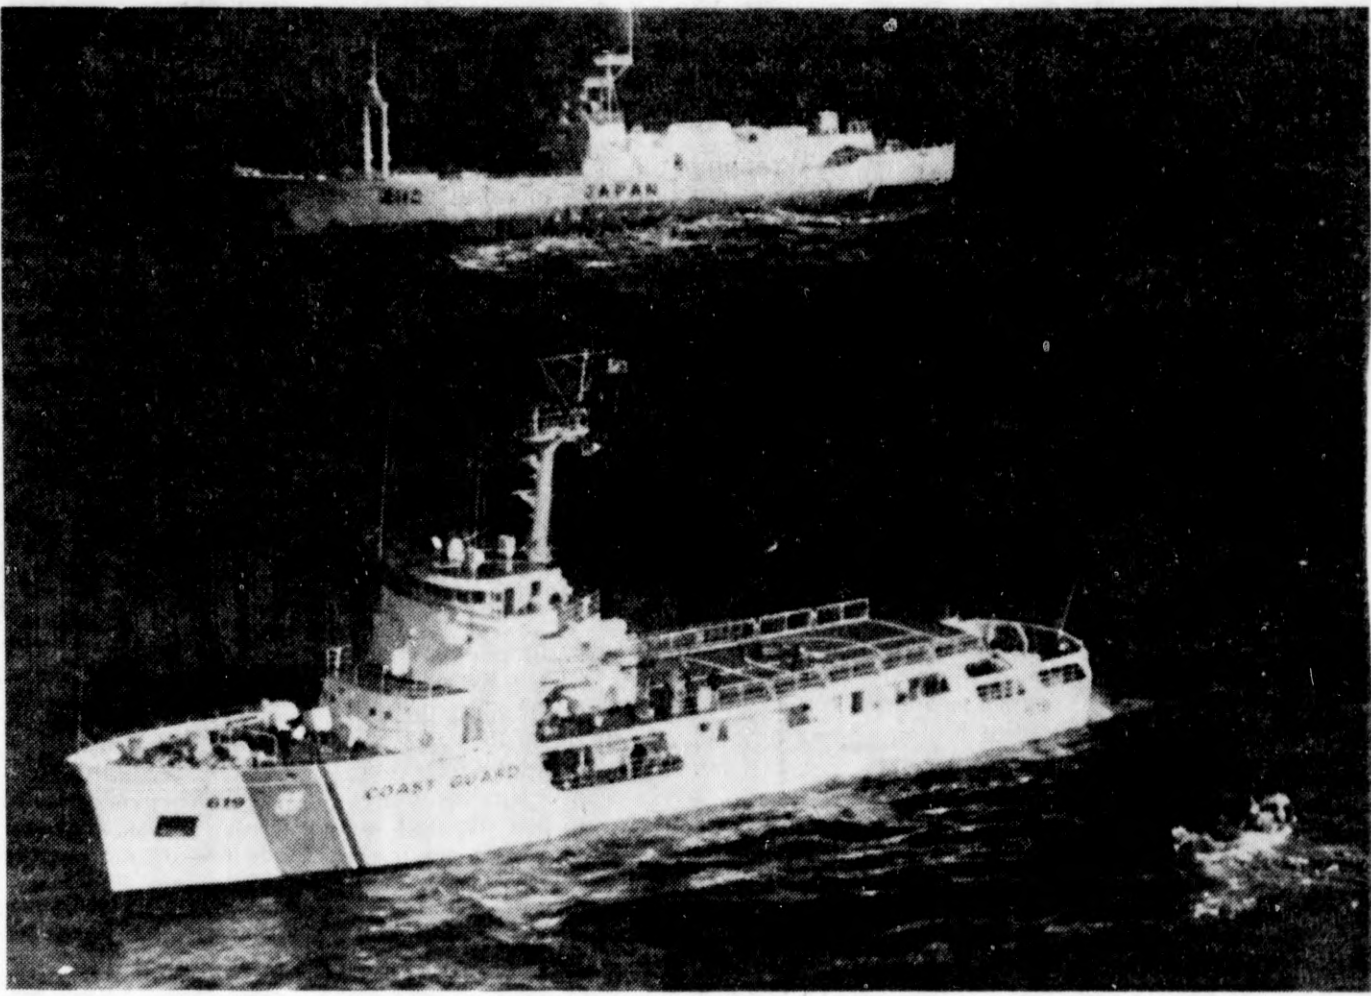

Several other nations also have declared 200-mile fishing or economic zones. Cuba did so on Monday. Among the others are Japan, Canada, the eight maritime nations of the European Common Market and the Soviet Union. Hours before the limit took effect at midnight, Creamer sighted six Japanese vessels, all within 60 miles of shore, although the Japanese government reportedly ordered its ships to leave the area.

The Coast Guard cutter Confidence boarded two of the ships, the Tomi Maru No. 88 and the Koyo Maru No. 21. Some illegal king crab was found aboard the Koyo. The ship was not fined. Additions to the base at Kodiak have made it the largest Coast Guard base in the nation, says base commander Capt. Charles Clark.

Lt. Cmdr. Jeff Hamilton of Kodiak, asked how effectively the Coast Guard would enforce the limit, said: "We're going to have to define how effectively we want to cover that area. I think we are covering the area to where we get an idea of what's out there every two weeks. That's pretty good. The fishing is stable." But Creamer said skippers could circumvent this. "It's a question of how cooperative they want to be. We have to find that out."

Amin Backs Down; Yanks Free To Go

By BRIAN JEFFRIES

Associated Press Writer
NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — President Idi Amin retreated some more today from his confrontation with the United States. He lifted his order banning Americans from leaving Uganda after postponing for the second time the meeting to which he summoned all U.S. citizens living in his East African country.

Amin said Americans in Uganda "are now free to go anywhere they wish, such as going for holidays or going about their normal business, be it inside or outside Uganda," Radio Uganda reported.

Amin forbade the estimated 240 Americans in Uganda from leaving the country last Friday and ordered them to meet with him on Monday at the international conference center in Kampala, his capital.

During the weekend the meeting was moved to the Entebbe airport, 19 miles from Kampala, and postponed it until Wednesday. And on Monday Radio Uganda announced the meeting had been put off indefinitely, with a new date to be announced later.

Ugandan sources in Kampala, reached by telephone, said Amin "is keen to improve good relations with the United States." They said the delay would give the two countries "a chance to resolve their current difficulties."

Several Arab and African governments, including those of Zaire and Saudi Arabia, were reported to have urged Amin to postpone the meeting. It was believed the U.S. government asked them to intercede.

The State Department canceled plans to send diplomatic troubleshooter Talcott Seelye to Uganda.

Amin's initial orders presumably were prompted by condemnations of his regime by President Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance following reports that the Anglican archbishop of Uganda had been murdered after his arrest for allegedly plotting against him and that Amin was massacring members of two Christian tribes. Amin also charged that the United States, Britain and Israel were planning to drop paratroopers into Uganda to support a plot to overthrow him.

After the detention order last Friday, U.S. officials expressed fears for the safety of the Americans, most of them missionaries, but Amin and his spokesmen gave assurances they would not be harmed.

Amin then began backing down, saying he only wanted to honor the Americans for the "good work" they were doing for his country. He spoke of giving some of them medals. But at the same time he warned the United States against trying to emulate the Israeli raid on the Entebbe airport last summer that freed more than 100 Jewish hostages held by pro-Palestinian air hijackers.

Tenants' Law Now In Effect

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — From now on, Michigan landlords can't lock tenants out of their homes or apartments without a hearing.

If they do, renters can collect $200 or more in damages under a new tenant rights law that went into effect today.

The new law spells out what landlords can and can't do in evicting tenants, and sets out a procedure for aggrieved renters to go to court for damages.

Formerly, the law prohibited landlords from physically throwing a renter out. The new provisions also ban the removal of a renter's property, changing locks, boarding up the premises or cutting off utilities unless a court order authorizes it.

Sponsored by state Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, the measure was passed by the legislature and signed by the governor in December.

Carter Rubs Some States Wrong Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is assuring the nation's governors they will have "a working relationship" with his administration, but there are signs of strain in that arrangement.

Even as Carter was pledging the governors a role in federal policymaking, a handful of governors were complaining that the administration had abruptly canceled water development projects in their states without telling them about it.

Carter did not alter that budget decision, although he did tell the dissatisfied governors the states involved will get a hearing to prove, if they can, that the projects should be reinstated.

The President, Vice President Walter F. Mondale, and members of the Cabinet spent 2½ hours with the governors on Monday. Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, said they came away delighted with the prospect of an administration more attentive to their views and needs.

The governors are winding up their two-day Washington conference today with a round of meetings with Cabinet officials and congressional leaders. Then it's back to the White House for a black-tie dinner with the President, who didn't have much use for such conferences when he was governor of Georgia.

Askew said the Monday session, at long tables arrayed in the State Dining Room, was the beginning of a dialogue between

Figlus Pleads Guilty In St. Joe Murder

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON

Sixteen-year-old David Figlus this morning pleaded guilty in Berrien Circuit court to second degree murder in the rape-murder of Dona Jean Armstrong of St. Joseph last December.

Figlus made the plea before Judge Chester J. Byrns, who remanded him to the county jail to await sentencing of up to a maximum of life in prison. No date for sentencing was set.

Figlus, of 912 Botham avenue, St. Joseph, last Friday was waived from juvenile court to adult court to face an open charge of murder. Berrien Prosecutor John A. Smietanka said that at the time of Figlus' arrest he offered the youth "the opportunity to plead guilty to second degree murder in return for a full statement of how the killing occurred."

Miss Armstrong, 20, was stabbed to death in her home Dec. 10. Police said Figlus, who was 15 at the time, spent the preceding night in the home as a guest of the girl's brother. Miss Armstrong lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Armstrong, at 1209 Lane drive. The parents were on vacation the day of the murder.

Byrns instructed Figlus to tell in his own words what happened Dec. 10. Figlus related his story in a halting, barely audible voice.

He said he stayed at the Armstrong house the night of Dec. 9 as the guest of Miss Armstrong's brother and in the morning, left after being awakened by the brother. He said he returned to his own house, about four blocks away, listened to some records, then went back to the Armstrong residence. He told Byrns he had intended to return to the Armstrong house and took a hunting knife with a four-inch blade with him.

When Byrns asked why he took the knife, Figlus replied: "Because it was the weapon I was going to use."

Byrns queried, "To kill her," Figlus said.

Figlus said before he entered Miss Armstrong's room, "I took off all my clothes so they wouldn't have blood on them, then I raped and stabbed her."

"Did she resist?" Byrns

Milliken Has Shaky GOP Support On Income Tax

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Republicans won't necessarily line up with Gov. William Milliken on the increasingly divisive issue of what to do about the state income tax rate, a House leader said Monday.

Minority Leader Dennis Cawthorne, R-Muskegon, said the GOP caucus will support a lower tax rate unless Democrats give more ground than they have on a so-called rainy day fund.

The income tax rate is scheduled to roll back from 4.6 per cent to 4.4 per cent on July 1. Milliken and Democratic leaders are backing legislation to keep it at the current level.

Opposition surfaced last week when Sen. Patrick McCollough of Dearborn, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and a Democratic candidate for governor in 1978, said he'll oppose efforts to stop the rollback.

Cawthorne voiced dissatisfaction with the modified position of House Speaker Bobby Crim, D-Davison, on whether to put money aside for hard economic times in a budget stabilization fund.

Unless Crim agrees to put aside more than the $20 million to $40 million he mentioned recently, "I doubt if the Republican votes will be there" to block the rollback, Cawthorne told a news conference.

Milliken wants to set aside nearly $130 million for the rainy day fund and to shore up the state's cash balance. Crim, after saying the state can't afford to put any money aside this year, last week said he could support a fund of $20 million to $40 million.

Cawthorne predicted backing of the 4.6 per cent income tax rate with heavy support of the rainy day fund. Milliken, who supports both, has attached no either-or provision to the two questions.

Cookie Jar Yields $2,375 To Thief

A 74-year-old Hagar township woman told Berrien county deputies Monday that $2,375 she saved over the years from social security checks for her children and grand-children was stolen from a cookie jar in her house.

The money, mostly $50 bills, was among $5,700 worth of goods reported stolen from Mrs. Anna Rose of 3465 Carolyn drive, Sgt. Jack Knuth said. Included in the loot were three pistols, Knuth reported.

Mrs. Rose reported the cash was missing along with three diamond rings, two women's watches and a pistol she kept in a cookie jar hidden in her dresser drawer.

Knuth said two pistols along with two watches and a Farmers & Merchants National Bank book with a $1,500 balance were also reported missing.

Sheriff's deputies were called to the Rose home by James Rose, 50, also of 3465 Carolyn drive, about 8 p.m. Monday. Rose, a son, said the theft could have occurred any time within the last three weeks.

Knuth said Mrs. Rose kept the money in envelopes marked with her children's and grand-children's names. A diamond ring with a silver band valued at $1,200 and two other diamond rings, both with gold bands, valued together at $2,000, were kept with the envelopes of money in the cookie jar, Mrs. Rose reported.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Insulating Against Waste: Some Varied Approaches

Making allowance for the unpredictability of whether March, in the words of the old saw, will come in like a lion and go out like a lamb or reverse the procedure, it is reasonably apparent the solid wintry grip through January and February is yielding to an alternating cold-warm cycling as a prelude to an uncertain spring.

This two-month severity already has prompted a spate of writings, some supported by scientific research and deductions and other hypothesized from knee jerk columnists, if it is an aberration which visits the land at uncertain intervals or if it signals the beginning of a new norm as a prelude to the next Ice Age.

Whatever that approximation may be, only in the winters of 1942-43-44-45 did the country experience this season's combination of extreme cold and a close call with energy shortages.

The World War II difficulty applied mainly to oil fired residential properties. Worst hit were the New England states where the thermometer dipped the farthest and the government's wartime rationing priorities of petroleum products were the lowest.

The homeowner's one consolation is that pinch was the government's rigid price control on all goods and services.

This season has been one of leapfrogging heating costs and in most of the industrialized midwestern and northeastern states a near shutdown in natural gas supplies.

This jousting with the weatherman has been sufficient to convince the American public there is an energy pinch. The opinion contrasts sharply with that of three years ago and still prevalent that there is no actual shortage of gasoline to run the family bus.

If left to their own devices, the suppliers of energy could find a solution.

The problem, however, has become so politicized that having in large measure led the nation into the wilderness the federal government and to a lesser extent the state governments seem to be the only available Moses to lead us out of it.

While waiting for Jimmy Carter to sketch a master map for that purpose, an interim solution has drawn considerable attention.

This is a war on waste. By some estimates, up to half the energy used to heat a home is dissipated into the outdoors through the roof, windows, doors, fireplace openings, and so on.

Faulty construction, inadequate insulation and the architectural stress on vast window areas create this heat loss.

Wrapping the home in a thermal blanket easily comes to mind as one answer to the energy uncertainty.

Giving the homeowner a tax credit for improving the insulation in his house is one suggestion.

This voluntary approach is intriguing but it is doubtful if the Administration would recommend it or that Congress would accept that kind of assault upon the Internal Revenue Code.

Speaking unofficially through its chairman, the Federal Energy Administration proposes a mandatory plan reminiscent of the iron fist in a velvet glove.

Uncle Sam would adopt roof insulating standards, then hand over to the local utilities the responsibility and authority to upgrade existing insulation and supervise new construction pursuant to the code. Having done that, the utility would bill the cost to the homeowner through its normal monthly invoicing.

Several state governments are thinking along similar lines and conceivably Carter will include the scheme in his overall energy program.

Presumably this requirement would extend beyond the electric and gas companies to the furnace oil supplier and that vanishing species, the coal dealer.

Appointing one segment of the public to police all others goes against the grain, but the precedent is firmly established.

Employers have been income tax collectors from their employees since Congress adopted the withholding system during World War II. Numerous other examples exist.

Such schemes work out well for Uncle Sam and for what it may be worth they hold down on the necessity to add a flock of payrollers to Washington's bureaucracy.

In a roundabout fashion, though, the public doesn't save much from this escape in padded payroll.

The employer picks up the tab for the paperwork and packs the expense into the price he charges for a product or service.

The concept of mandatory insulating goes against all principles of individual liberty, yet the energy situation cannot be argued away.

There's Good News For College Seniors

College placement offices have some cautious good news for next June's graduating class. If corporation recruiting interest is a guide, the job outlook for next year's class will be an improvement over this year's.

Not only is interest in recruiting up sharply on many campuses, but employers willing to commit themselves say they expect to hire an average of 16 per cent more graduates next year than they did this past June. As has been true for several years, much of the recruiting interest is centered in a few disciplines, with lukewarm interest or none at all being shown for others.

Engineering, accounting and business graduates rank at the top. Also placing high are the sciences, math and technical fields. Liberal arts graduates are in the lukewarm category and education graduates are at the bottom of the list.

Dropping elementary grade enrollment is blamed for the lack of teaching opportunities. That is a trend now seen as continuing for years.

Promoting Deuce May Backfire

As predicted by many, the U.S. Treasury is finding public acceptance of its latest $2 bill somewhat less than exuberant and is considering a public relations campaign to boost the currency.

What it will do is remind the public that the $2 bill was supposed to replace the inflation-ravaged $1 bill. If money erosion continues, does that mean the $2 bill is a $3 bill?

PEOPLE SHOULD HELP THEMSELVES

Editor,
I see in letters to the editor numerous mention of welfare frauds; those on welfare being able to get on welfare and making more than average working man; being able to buy things with food stamps that average workers have to do without; a letter stating that some make $16,000 a year and still get welfare. Why is this possible?

As a Christian, I have a few points that would help solve the problem. In fact, I feel it would solve it almost entirely. Here it is.

Although we are enjoined to strengthen the hand of the poor and needy, we are not to support men and women in idleness. The Lord does not require a hard-working man to support those who are slothful. All should be taught as far as possible to help themselves. Ancient Israel provided for the poor and destitute. God had commanded them to do so. But it was largely a self-help type of ministry. Certain portions of the fields were reserved for the needy and it was ever the right of the poor to glean it at the time of the harvest. But the needy had to do the work themselves.

If they wanted grapes, they had to pick them. If they wanted barley and wheat, they had to garner them. A self-help type of ministry helps to guard against the unfortunate results of an abundance of idleness.

The apostle Paul had no patience for those who did not work. "For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat." (2 Thess. 3:10)

There are, of course, times when, because of unfortunate and unavoidable circumstances, a man cannot provide for his own. Naturally, he should be helped. But why is it that people on welfare can be driving a 1977

Cadillac, Oldsmobile or what-not? Why are people on food stamps able to buy all the junk foods? Why aren't dietitians asked to make a list of essentials and all other junk foods be put on the list with beer, wine and whisky?

A short while ago, I followed a woman through the grocery line. She purchased $12 with food stamps and out of the $12 over $6 was for different kinds of pop. I can't even afford the junk. In Germany, people get welfare but if they are able to work they have to do something for it. For example, an old widow woman may be living by herself but if she is physically able she at least has to keep streets clean in front of her house. I have been told that there is no such thing as cluttered, junky alleys and vacant lots. The cities are kept clean.

As Captain John Smith said in colonial times, "If a person doesn't work, he shouldn't eat." I have a nurse friend that was telling me she knows three families that haven't worked for three generations. What kind of welfare is that?

U.S. Charges Big Distiller

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two New York subsidiaries of the nation's largest distiller face a government-ordered suspension for providing free Jamaican holiday trips to employees of wholesale liquor distributing firms.

Rex D. Davis, director of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, announced the three-day suspensions Monday against the subsidiaries of Joseph E. Seagram and Sons, Inc.

Moore Ruffles Hill's Feathers

WASHINGTON — President Carter may be forced to throw a longtime member of his inner circle to the wolves to salvage his hopes of developing a close working relationship with Congress.

Frank Moore, chief of the White House congressional liaison team, is so unpopular on Capitol Hill that some key members of the House and Senate now simply refuse to deal with him.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate panel that will handle Carter's government reorganization plan, became so fed up with Moore's ineptitude that he reportedly refused to talk to the White House aide at a recent social event.

He and others are taking their troubles directly to Carter, his cabinet officers or, increasingly, to Vice President Walter F. Mondale and his Hill-seasoned aides.

Criticism of Moore and his staff has reached such a crescendo that Hamilton Jordan, Carter's top political troubleshooter, has privately told friends on Capitol Hill that "something's got to be done about him."

The problem is that Carter, despite all his talk about competence, thus far refuses to acknowledge that Moore is not only in over his head but shows no aptitude for swimming in the treacherous currents of congressional politics.

Moore served as executive secretary and liaison to the state legislature when Carter was governor of Georgia but had no Washington experience prior to last year's campaign, when he was assigned to babysit potentially useful Democratic congressmen.

His efforts then drew uniformly rotten ratings, but press accounts of the adverse reaction merely stiffened Carter's resolve to keep Moore in the liaison post. The President mistakenly expected the grumbling to subside once members realized Moore had his full confidence.

Part of Moore's troubles stem from simple inexperience. It takes years to learn the ropes on Capitol Hill, to know which of 535 squeaky wheels require immediate greasing and which can wait a few days, to distinguish a pro forma request from a serious demand, to separate routine gripes from earnest warnings.

But some things are rudimentary. You don't have to be around long to know it is unwise to keep Senate Finance Chairman Russell Long, D-La., cooling his heels for half hour in a White House reception room. Or to learn that telephone calls from senators and House members should be returned immediately, if not sooner. Or to realize Democratic leaders should be consulted before an emergency energy bill is unveiled. Or even to see the virtue of inviting Republicans to the White House once in a while.

With Moore persona non grata, Mondale has been "thrown into the breach," as one White House source put it, in an effort to smooth ruffled feathers. In the space of a few days this month, Mondale invited key members of the House Ways and Means Committee to his home for breakfast with Carter's top economic advisers; joined Moore in fielding complaints from a House Democratic leadership group; scheduled a similar session with House freshmen and met with Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd. When he wasn't dashing from one congressional office to another, the Vice President was fielding phone calls from frustrated members.

But Mondale is in a very delicate position. Both he and his staff, most of whom are Hill veterans trusted by those in Congress, are acutely aware that he must tread a narrow line between helping unclutter communications between Carter and Congress and usurping Moore's assigned responsibilities.

Carter cannot use Mondale forever in a staff-level job. Sooner or later, he will either have to replace Moore or put a top-flight professional into the liaison operation for six months or so while the chief of the team undergoes some more on-the-job training.

Arms Policy Based On Faith

The Carter Administration has now decided to test a controversial theory advanced by Paul Warnke — that the Soviets will respond to Unilateral U.S. military cutbacks with matching cutbacks of their own.

As a "signal" to Moscow, the Administration proposes to slow the B-1 bomber and MX mobile missile programs and cut the Ford military budget by $2.75 billion.

It would be foolish to assert categorically that the Soviets will not respond as desired, but all evidence from past experience weighs against the Warnke theory. The theory therefore rests purely on faith.

As has been amply documented, the Soviets have responded to previous U.S. unilateral slow-downs and cuts not with marching "restraint" but with a furious effort to achieve superiority in men and materiel. Thus the Warsaw Pact now deploys 26,000 tanks, more than three times the NATO figure, plus twice as many troops and planes. Tank production by the Soviets remains five times that of the U.S.

What is more, there has now come to light a speech delivered by Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev in 1973 in which he declared detente a ruse and defined the Soviet goal as decisive superiority.

Brezhnev made the speech in early 1973 in Prague. British intelligence managed to get extensive quotations from one of the participants at the meeting, and evaluated the speech as comparable in importance to Khrushchev's 1956 speech denouncing Stalin.

Furthermore, though this sensational item makes chilling reading today, and though the Boston Globe made it a page one story in its Feb. 11 edition, so far as I can tell, it has caused not a ripple in the rest of our major media.

According to the Globe story, Brezhnev told his East European comrades the following:

"We are achieving with detente what our predecessors have been unable to achieve with the mailed fist... Trust us comrades, for by 1985, as a consequence of what we are now achieving with detente, we will have achieved most of our objectives in Western Europe. We will have consolidated our position. We will have improved our economy. And a decisive shift in the correlation of forces will be such that, come 1985, we will be able to exert our will wherever we need to."

Now it is hardly surprising to find a politician boasting about his record, but actual Soviet behavior seems completely consistent with Brezhnev's statements. Across the board, in both conventional and nuclear weapons, the Soviets have been making an enormous national effort. Only recently, the 1968 "Brezhnev doctrine" received an official reformulation, which appeared to extend its scope beyond the borders of the present Soviet empire. The Soviets now have a theoretical justification for intervention on behalf of the "socialist camp," anywhere at all. They are also acquiring the means to do so.

It is shocking that Brezhnev's Prague speech has not received more public attention. It is depressing, to say the least, that the Carter Administration, busy sending "signals" to Moscow, appears to have so little appreciation of the realities described above.

BH Seeks Ownership Of Fidelity Building

MENU AWARD: James Ford, manager of Berrien Hills Country club, displays plaque awarded him at recent 50th annual convention of Club Managers Association of America in Chicago. He was presented Outstanding Club Menu award for best printed menu entered in national contest. Menus were judged on appearance, originality, layout and content. The City of Benton Harbor may soon become the owner of the six-story Fidelity building and 48 other properties that have reverted to the state because of delinquent property taxes.

The city commission last night approved an application to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to purchase the 49 parcels of land for a total price of $1.

City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. said about eight parcels are commercial and 41 are residential. The owners of the 49 parcels have not paid property taxes for at least three years, Farmer said.

After property taxes are delinquent for three years, ownership reverts to the state. The city gets the first opportunity to buy the delinquent properties before the state sells them at auction. Last year, the city acquired 35 parcels of land through the state tax sale.

David C. Madison, of Madison Real Estate company, closed the 50-year-old Fidelity building at 169 Michigan street in December.

Farmer said the city wants to acquire the properties and resell them so delinquent property taxes can be recovered and the property returned to the tax rolls under private ownership.

In other action, the commission approved a $1.28 million Community Development grant application with major allocations for home rehabilitation and commercial development.

The application approved by the commission includes $451,000 to continue the city's code enforcement and home rehabilitation program, $264,170 for commercial development, $174,000 for street improvements, $81,700 for the recreation center and parks, $86,000 for three social service programs, and $171,130 for administrative costs.

The third-year Community Development grant will go to the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission for review and to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development for final approval. Money for the third year grant will become available July 1.

The $264,170 for commercial development includes $100,000 to purchase 44 acres of urban renewal land in the Riverview drive and old fruit markets areas from HUD, $100,000 for salaries and administrative costs of the city's economic development department, and $64,170 for demolition of downtown buildings and paving of several downtown parking lots.

The $174,000 for street improvements includes repaving of Broadway from Pipestone to Empire and construction of Cross street from McAllister avenue to Ogden avenue.

Recreation funding includes $32,700 to build an access road and parking lot at the new recreation center, $49,000 for salaries and administrative costs of the recreation center staff, and $10,000 to make improvements to Broadway park.

The three social service programs, to be funded at $22,000 each, are the Benton Harbor senior citizens center, the Community Parents Child Care center, and the Dental Clinic.

The commission approved a $45,283 contract with John G. Yerrington Construction company to re pave Pavone street. Funds for the repaving will come from the city's second-year Community Development grant.

Owners and employees of Rampart and Action ambulance companies appeared before the commission to question why the city commission approved joining the Community Emergency Service (CES), the public-owned ambulance service which has begun offering ambulance service in the Twin Cities and surrounding communities.

Leonard Reed, of 759 Broadway and father of Stephen L. Reed, president and manager of Rampart, asked the commission members why they voted to join CES which is competing with a business located in the city (Rampart).

"You talk about keeping businesses in the city, but when you take away your support, it's impossible for us to keep going," Reed said.

Mayor Joel Patterson said the ambulance issue could not be resolved in a public debate and said he would respond to the ambulance companies' questions in a letter.

The city commission voted to join CES Jan. 10 and will pay a share of the $96,360 annual subsidy to operate the new ambulance service in 10 municipalities.

State Updating Freeway Safety

A multi-million dollar freeway safety improvement program is getting underway along I-94 from the Indiana line to the Jackson county line in Michigan and along I-196, from I-94 in Benton township, north to Holland. Clyde Maylath, assistant district construction engineer for the Michigan State Highway department at Kalamazoo told The Herald-Palladium details of the program.

Maylath said traffic won't be impeded during the project, scheduled for completion next fall, "but you'll see some activity just about every mile."

Most of the work will be flattening slopes off freeway shoulders and replacing existing guard rails along freeway shoulders with higher and stronger guard rails. Maylath said. He said no median guard rails are to be installed in this area.

Maylath said the earth moving work in some instances will extend drainage ditches. He said this will require installation of new drainage tiles.

Maylath, headquartered in the department's Kalamazoo district office, said the entire program will cost several million dollars.

SEVEN FLEE BLAZE: Seven people, including four children ranging in ages from one to six years old, escaped injury when fire erupted Monday in a two-story apartment house, 525 Niles avenue, Benton Harbor firemen said. Witnesses told firemen that a kitchen gas range exploded in the kitchen of the lower apartment, sending smoke and fire into both floors of the building. Firemen set the damage estimate at $9,000. Parole Officer Raps Capital Punishment

By LARRY MACINTYRE
Staff Writer

Is capital punishment a deterrent?

"Only to the one being punished," says a man who has dealt with quite a few murderers in the past 11½ years.

According to Lester Knickerbocker, a state parole and probation agent for Berrien Circuit court, capital punishment until now has been mainly used in crimes of passion.

"Crimes of passion are not going to be deterred by anything," he said yesterday

during a luncheon talk before the Twin Cities Rotary club at St. Joseph Elks lodge.

He said that for any punishment to be an effective deterrent, it must be inescapable and immediate. Capital punishment is neither, he said.

Knickerbocker, 35, has been a parole/probation agent in Berrien county since 1965. The holder of a master's degree from Western Michigan university, Knickerbocker is also an instructor for police recruits at Lake Michigan college.

In his talk, he outlined the workings of the criminal justice system in Berrien county and offered his views on some of the more controversial aspects of the system.

He said that before a convicted felon is sentenced by a Circuit court judge, the parole and probation office completes a pre-sentence investigation report to aid the judge in determining a sentence.

The report covers the felon's background, past criminal record and chances for rehabilitation.

"We do about 10 or 12 hours of work on each and every convicted felon we investigate," Knickerbocker said. "We take it very seriously."

Knickerbocker is one of 12 parole/probation agents working under Berrien's four Circuit judges.

He said he believes the system works well in Berrien county because the court takes the necessary time to deal properly with offenders.

Statistics show that efforts to rehabilitate inmates are proving successful in Michigan, he said.

At present, 75 per cent of all felons placed on probation stay out of jail for the next five years, he said. For those released from prison on parole, 60 per cent are successful at staying out for five years.

"So where do we get all the new crime waves? We keep raising them," he said.

More crimes are committed by 15-year-olds than any other age, and many of those 15-year-olds graduate from juvenile court to Circuit court when they turn 17, he said.

Knickerbocker said he did not think television police shows were helping the situation any. A person 14 or 15 has a very difficult time distinguishing between the fantasy of those shows and reality, he said.

The only police show that comes anywhere near reality is Barney Miller, he said. "It's the only one I allow my kids to watch."

He said inmates in Michigan prisons are not being overly coddled with soft living conditions.

"Being locked up is punishment enough," he said. There is no need for inhumane or uncomfortable living conditions.

He said he would like to see conjugal visits permitted.

BH 4-Mill Tax Would Be For Year

A four-mill tax increase the Benton Harbor board of education is asking in the March 15 special election, as one of three proposals on the ballot, would be for only one year.

A story in the Feb. 22 edition of The Herald-Palladium incorrectly said the four-mill levy for additional operating revenue would be for five years.

Two other nullage requestions the ballot are for five years. One is for renewal of 21.35 mills for operations and the other is for one mill for school building maintenance. The 21.35-mill renewal would extend for five years the operating taxes that expired with the end of 1976. The one-mill maintenance proposal is new.

Laetz Is Moved To Memorial

Walter B. Laetz, vice president and secretary of Auto Specialties Manufacturing company, was transferred yesterday to St. Joseph Memorial hospital from Benton Harbor Mercy hospital where he had been sustaining a heart attack Feb. 11.

Laetz, 61, of St. Joseph, was reported in "improved" condition, but a Memorial hospital spokesman said visitors are restricted to members of his immediate family. Laetz is a member of the Memorial board of trustees.

Morrison Channel Marina Contract Okayed By SJ

The St. Joseph city commission last night approved a contract with the state Department of Natural Resources to jointly finance construction of a 70-slip marina in the Morrison channel of the St. Joseph river.

Under the contract, the city and DNR will each provide $200,000.

An additional $200,000 is to be sought from the U.S. Department of the Interior's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

If that application is approved, there would be a total of $600,000 available for the marina project which is to begin this summer.

If the application is rejected, the project will be scaled down to $400,000, according to City Manager Jerry Hepler. Additional slips would then be added as financing became available, he said.

Plans for the project were first announced last May. Since then, city officials have been meeting with representatives of the DNR's waterways commission to draft the contract approved last night.

Of the city's share of the cost, $150,000 is to be raised through the sale of revenue bonds. The bonds are to be repaid from slip rental fees. Each slip is to rent for $260 a season, Hepler said.

The remaining $50,000 of the city's share is to come from funds already accumulated in operations at the city-owned West Basin marina.

According to preliminary plans, slips in the new docking facility are to be 30 feet long and are to angle into the channel for easier access. The piers will all be floating and will be removed from the water in winter.

The new facility will be just upstream of the new Morrison channel bridge and will stretch along the west bank of the channel.

A sewage pumping facility, fresh water and electricity will be available to boaters. There will also be a parking lot.

The land along the shore was recently purchased by the city from the bankrupt Penn Central railroad in a deal that saw the city gain 20 acres for about $20,000. A portion of the land will be used for the marina.

If construction begins as planned this year, the facility would be opened for the summer of 1978. It would be operated by the St. Joseph Harbor Authority.

Under the terms of the city's contract with the DNR, the authority cannot give priority in slip rentals to city residents.

The first rentals will be chosen from an existing waiting list for docking facilities. After that, it will be first come, first served, Hepler said.

In other business last night, the commission approved on second reading an ordinance rezoning a 4.65-acre parcel at 1401 Langley avenue for single-family residential use.

The land had previously been zoned for multi-family use.

Commissioners passed the ordinance on first reading Jan. 24. Since then, the planning commission recommended that the commission take final action to rezone the land single-family.

The owner of the parcel, Michigan Baptist Homes, Inc., of Detroit, has protested the rezoning on the grounds it would spoil an agreement to sell the land for $75,000.

Leonard Smith, president of the Leonard Smith Construction Co., held an option to purchase the property. His proposal to build apartments there was rejected by the commission. His latest proposal to build duplexes on the property is prohibited by the new zoning.

The commission awarded a $12,624 contract to the Beaudoin-Stuekel Electric Co., St. Joseph, to install outdoor lighting at the Riverview Park boat ramp. The firm was lowest of three bidders.

The commission voted to apply to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for an approximate $8,000 grant that would be used for resurfacing six tennis courts in Kiwanis park in 1978. The grant would cover 50 per cent of the project cost.

Appointed to represent the city on the Board of Harbor Commissioners were Joe Carver, of 1408 Manley court, and Patrick McMullen, of 1100 St. Joseph drive.

The board is made up of two representatives each from St. Joseph, Benton Harbor and Berrien county. It was created to consider area-wide harbor planning. It is not related to the St. Joseph Harbor Authority which operates the city-owned marina.

The commission agreed to allow the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph council of the Knights of Columbus to hold a fund drive April 1 and 2. Money raised will be donated to programs for the mentally retarded.

Two Are Charged With Radio Thefts

BUCHANAN — Two Niles men were arrested here early this morning by the Buchanan police in connection with the reported theft of citizens' band radios from the autos of a Buchanan policeman and two other residents.

Arrested on three different counts each of larceny from a vehicle were Harry Lockridge, 22, and Samuel Murphy, 21, both of Niles.

Lockridge was also arrested on charges of driving while his license was suspended and on a traffic warrant from the Niles police department charging him with speeding.

Police reported they arrested two men shortly after a neighbor of police dispatcher Martin Skopec, 124 South Detroit street, called to report a radio was being taken from an auto parked at the officer's home.

An auto containing two men was stopped about two blocks from Skopec's home at 2:30 a.m. Confiscated from the auto were three CB radios, all believed stolen and valued at $300, police said.

One of the radios matched the description of one taken from Skopec's auto, while the other two matched description of radios subsequently reported as having been taken from the autos of Robert Jackson, 603 South Oak street, and Frank Wettrow, 608 Jordan street, police said.

Ex-Owner Sues Ambulance Firm

The former owner of Action Ambulance has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court against the ambulance company and its principal stockholders seeking $35,119 he claims is owed to him.

The plaintiff, Peter M. Huttenga, of Kent county, claims that in March, 1976, he agreed to sell his 25,000 shares of stock in Action for $21,119 but has only received $8,000. He also contends he was hired by Action as a consultant, and was allegedly to receive a total of $24,000 beginning in May, 1976, and running until April, 1981.

Named defendants besides

Action were Gary Fleetwood and Raymond Peterson, identified as principal stockholders and officers.

Huttenga contends Fleetwood and Peterson have only paid $2,000 of the consultant fees and claims a breach of contract in not fulfilling that contract or the one for the stock.

The suit identifies Action's principal office as 4751 Niles road, St. Joseph. Action is still in operation but recently lost some municipal subsidies when Twin Cities area communities formed the Community Emergency Service Corp. for ambulance service.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Insulating Against Waste: Some Varied Approaches

Making allowance for the unpredictability of whether March, in the words of the old saw, will come in like a lion and go out like a lamb or reverse the procedure, it is reasonably apparent the solid wintry grip through January and February is yielding to an alternating cold-warm cycling as a prelude to an uncertain spring.

This two-month severity already has prompted a spate of writings, some supported by scientific research and deductions and other hypothesized from knee jerk columnists, if it is an aberration which visits the land at uncertain intervals or if it signals the beginning of a new norm as a prelude to the next Ice Age.

Whatever that approximation may be, only in the winters of 1942-43-44-45 did the country experience this season's combination of extreme cold and a close call with energy shortages.

The World War II difficulty applied mainly to oil fired residential properties. Worst hit were the New England states where the thermometer dipped the farthest and the government's wartime rationing priorities of petroleum products were the lowest.

The homeowner's one consolation is that pinch was the government's rigid price control on all goods and services.

This season has been one of leapfrogging heating costs and in most of the industrialized midwestern and northeastern states a near shutdown in natural gas supplies.

This jousting with the weatherman has been sufficient to convince the American public there is an energy pinch. The opinion contrasts sharply with that of three years ago and still prevalent that there is no actual shortage of gasoline to run the family bus.

If left to their own devices, the suppliers of energy could find a solution. The problem, however, has become so politicized that having in large measure led the nation into the wilderness the federal government and to a lesser extent the state governments seem to be the only available Moses to lead us out of it.

While waiting for Jimmy Carter to sketch a master map for that purpose, an interim solution has drawn considerable attention.

This is a war on waste. By some estimates, up to half the energy used to heat a home is dissipated into the outdoors through the roof, windows, doors, fireplace openings, and so on.

Faulty construction, inadequate insulation and the architectural stress on vast window areas create this heat loss.

Wrapping the home in a thermal blanket easily comes to mind as one answer to the energy uncertainty.

Giving the homeowner a tax credit for improving the insulation in his house is one suggestion.

This voluntary approach is intriguing but it is doubtful if the Administration would recommend it or that Congress would accept that kind of assault upon the Internal Revenue Code.

Speaking unofficially through its chairman, the Federal Energy Administration proposes a mandatory plan reminiscent of the iron fist in a velvet glove.

Uncle Sam would adopt roof insulating standards, then hand over to the local utilities the responsibility and authority to upgrade existing insulation and supervise new construction pursuant to the code. Having done that, the utility would bill the cost to the homeowner through its normal monthly invoicing.

Several state governments are thinking along similar lines and conceivably Carter will include the scheme in his overall energy program.

Presumably this requirement would extend beyond the electric and gas companies to the furnace oil supplier and that vanishing species, the coal dealer.

Appointing one segment of the public to police all others goes against the grain, but the precedent is firmly established.

Employers have been income tax collectors from their employees since Congress adopted the withholding system during World War II. Numerous other examples exist.

Such schemes work out well for Uncle Sam and for what it may be worth they hold down on the necessity to add a flock of payrollers to Washington's bureaucracy.

In a roundabout fashion, though, the public doesn't save much from this escape in padded payroll.

The employer picks up the tab for the paperwork and packs the expense into the price he charges for a product or service.

PEOPLE SHOULD HELP THEMSELVES

I see in letters to the editor numerous mention of welfare frauds; those on welfare being able to get on welfare and making more than average working man; being able to buy things with food stamps that average workers have to do without; a letter stating that some make $16,000 a year and still get welfare. Why is this possible?

As a Christian, I have a few points that would help solve the problem. In fact, I feel it would solve it almost entirely. Here it is.

Although we are enjoined to strengthen the hand of the poor and needy, we are not to support men and women in idleness. The Lord does not require a hard-working man to support those who are slothful. All should be taught as far as possible to help themselves. Ancient Israel provided for the poor and destitute. God had commanded them to do so. But it was largely a self-help type of ministry. Certain portions of the fields were reserved for the needy and it was ever the right of the poor to glean it at the time of the harvest. But the needy had to do the work themselves. If they wanted grapes, they had to pick them. If they wanted barley and wheat, they had to garner them. A self-help type of ministry helps to guard against the unfortunate results of an abundance of idleness.

The apostle Paul had no patience for those who did not work: "For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat." (2 Thess. 3:10)

There are, of course, times when, because of unfortunate and unavoidable circumstances, a man cannot provide for his own. Naturally, he should be helped. But why is it that people on welfare can be driving a 1977

Cadillac, Oldsmobile or what-not? Why are people on food stamps able to buy all the junk foods? Why aren't dietitians asked to make a list of essentials and all other junk foods be put on the list with beer, wine and whisky?

A short while ago, I followed a woman through the grocery line. She purchased $12 with food stamps and out of the $12 over $6 was for different kinds of pop. I can't even afford the junk. In Germany, people get welfare but if they are able to work they have to do something for it. For example, an old widow woman may be living by herself but if she is physically able she at least has to keep streets clean in front of her house. I have been told that there is no such thing as cluttered, junky alleys and vacant lots. The cities are kept clean.

As Captain John Smith said in colonial times, "If a person doesn't work, he shouldn't eat." I have a nurse friend that was telling me she knows three families that haven't worked for three generations. What kind of welfare is that?

Two Benton Harbor high school seniors, Lynn M. Wendt and David G. Titman, are among 14,200 finalists in National Merit Scholarship competition. The finalists represent approximately the top one-half of one per cent of the nation's 1967 graduating high school seniors. About 2,300 of the finalists will be selected as scholarship winners to be announced in May.

Hartford — It will cost the Hartford school board close to $300,000 to build a new 15-room grade school on North Center street. Present plans call for 15 rooms, one office and kitchen. Liberal use of folding walls take care of the need for a community room. The board has hopes to put the first students into the school for the second semester of next school year.

The Community Players group has selected for its first production, to be given in the Benton Harbor high school auditorium April 8, the late play, "Meet the Wife," by Lynn Starling. This witty comedy enjoyed a long New York and Chicago run and since that time has been played widely in stock. Those playing leading roles will include Mrs. Constance Coombs, Clyde Ireland, Mrs. Robert Avery, L.D. Barnhart, Larry Sizer, A.B. Lewis, Dorothy Tillstrom, and Arthur C. Lewis.

Within the next six days it will be decided whether Benton Harbor will have a summer Chautauqua this year or not. Yesterday, a committee of citizens consisting of George S. Avery, Seely McCord, J.N. Reed, William Rupp Jr., and J.N. Klock visited Winona park at Warsaw, Ind., and saw the largest Chautauqua in the west. They came back determined to give Benton Harbor a duplicate of the wonderful summer city that has been built on the edge of Eagle lake within the past seven years.

After three days of hard fighting in the Grange hall of Royallton, Commissioners Hollinsake, Kieth and Schultz have decided that the Big Meadow drain is a necessity. The drain will run through Oronoko and Royallton townships and will be the biggest ditch ever dug in this part of the state. It will cost nearly $18,000. There was considerable opposition to it and the commissioners were in session thirty hours.

U.S. Charges Big Distiller

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two New York subsidiaries of the nation's largest distiller face a government-ordered suspension for providing free Jamaican holiday trips to employees of wholesale liquor distributing firms.

Rev. D. Davis, director of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, announced the three-day suspensions Monday against the subsidiaries of Joseph E. Seagram and Sons, Inc.

Moore Ruffles Hill's Feathers

WASHINGTON — President Carter may be forced to throw a longtime member of his inner circle to the wolves to salvage his hopes of developing a close working relationship with Congress.

Frank Moore, chief of the White House congressional liaison team, is so unpopular in Capitol Hill that some key members of the House and Senate now simply refuse to deal with him.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate panel that will handle Carter's government reorganization plan, became so fed up with Moore's ineptitude that he reportedly refused to talk to the White House aide at a recent social event.

He and others are taking their troubles directly to Carter, his cabinet officers or, increasingly, to Vice President Walter F. Mondale and his Hill-seasoned aides.

Criticism of Moore and his staff has reached such a crescendo that Hamilton Jordan, Carter's top political troubleshooter, has privately told friends on Capitol Hill that "something's got to be done about him."

The problem is that Carter, despite all his talk about competence, thus far refuses to acknowledge that Moore is not only in over his head but shows no aptitude for swimming in the treacherous currents of congressional politics.

Moore served as executive secretary and liaison to the state legislature when Carter was governor of Georgia but had no Washington experience prior to last year's campaign, when he was assigned to babysit potentially useful Democratic congressmen.

His efforts then drew uniformly rotten ratings, but press accounts of the adverse reaction merely stiffened Carter's resolve to keep Moore in the liaison post. The President mistakenly expected the grumbling to subside once members realized Moore had his full confidence.

Part of Moore's troubles stem from simple inexperience. It takes years to learn the ropes on Capitol Hill, to know which of 535 squeaky wheels require immediate greasing and which can wait a few days, to distinguish a pro forma request from a serious demand, to separate routine grapes from earnest warnings.

But some things are rudimentary. You don't have to be around long to know it is unwise to keep Senate Finance Chairman Russell Long, D-La., cooling his heels for half hour in a White House reception room. Or to learn that telephone calls from senators and House members should be returned immediately, if not sooner. Or to realize Democratic leaders should be consulted before an emergency energy bill is unveiled. Or even to see the virtue of inviting Republicans to the White House once in a while.

With Moore persona non grata, Mondale has been "thrown into the breach," as one White House source put it, in an effort to smooth ruffled feathers. In the space of a few days this month, Mondale invited key members of the House Ways and Means Committee to his home for breakfast with Carter's top economic advisers; joined Moore in fielding complaints from a House Democratic leadership group; scheduled a similar session with House freshmen and met with Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd. When he wasn't dashing from one congressional office to another, the Vice President was fielding phone calls from frustrated members.

But Mondale is in a very delicate position. Both he and his staff, most of whom are Hill veterans trusted by those in Congress, are acutely aware that he must tread a narrow line between helping unclench communications between Carter and Congress and usurping Moore's assigned responsibilities.

Carter cannot use Mondale forever in a staff-level job. Sooner or later, he will either have to replace Moore or put a top-flight professional into the liaison operation for six months or so while the chief of the team undergoes some more on-the-job training.

Arms Policy Based On Faith

The Carter Administration has now decided to test a controversial theory advanced by Paul Warnke — that the Soviets will respond to Unilateral U.S. military cutbacks with matching cutbacks of their own.

As a "signal" to Moscow, the Administration proposes to slow the B-1 bomber and MX mobile missile programs and cut the Ford military budget by $2.75 billion.

It would be foolish to assert categorically that the Soviets will not respond as desired, but all evidence from past experience weighs against the Warnke theory. The theory therefore rests purely on faith.

As has been amply documented, the Soviets have responded to previous U.S. unilateral slow-downs and cuts not with marching "restraint" but with a furious effort to achieve superiority in men and materiel. Thus the Warsaw Pact now deploys 26,000 tanks, more than three times the NATO figure, plus twice as many troops and planes. Tank production by the Soviets remains five times that of the U.S.

What is more, there has now come to light a speech delivered by Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev in 1973 in which he declared detente a ruse and defined the Soviet goal as decisive superiority.

Brezhnev made the speech in early 1973 in Prague. British intelligence managed to get extensive quotations from one of the participants at the meeting, and evaluated the speech as comparable in importance to Khrushchev's 1958 speech denouncing Stalin.

Boston Globe made it a page one story in its Feb. 11 edition, so far as I can tell, it has caused not a ripple in the rest of our major media.

According to the Globe story, Brezhnev told his East European comrades the following:

"We are achieving with detente what our predecessors have been unable to achieve with the mailed fist... Trust us comrades, for by 1985, as a consequence of what we are now achieving with detente, we will have achieved most of our objectives in Western Europe. We will have consolidated our position. We will have improved our economy. And a decisive shift in the correlation of forces will be such that, come 1985, we will be able to exert our will wherever we need to."

Now it is hardly surprising to find a politician boasting about his record, but actual Soviet behavior seems completely consistent with Brezhnev's statements. Across the board, in both conventional and nuclear weapons, the Soviets have been making an enormous national effort. Only recently, the 1968 "Brezhnev doctrine" received an official reformulation, which appeared to extend its scope beyond the borders of the present Soviet empire. The Soviets now have a theoretical justification for intervention on behalf of the "socialist camp" anywhere at all. They are also acquiring the means to do so.

It is shocking that Brezhnev's Prague speech has not received more public attention. It is depressing, to say the least, that the Carter Administration, busy sending "signals" to Moscow, appears to have so little appreciation of the realities described above.

Luncheons will be held at the First United Methodist church and will be served at noon by women of the church at cost.

Men from all Buchanan churches, as well as men who live or work in Buchanan, are invited.

A program will be presented at each luncheon by laymen from the various churches. Programs will conclude at 12:50 p.m.

More Consumer-Farmer Joint Action Seen As Step To Improve Food System

HARTFORD — Laura Heuser, Hartford area national director of the Agriculture Council of America (ACA), reported that an overwhelming number of consumers see joint action with farmers as a major step in improving the nation's food system, according to a nationwide survey of 2,500 consumers.

Results of the survey sponsored by the ACA were announced during a special news conference at ACA's Washington, D.C., office.

"Consumers all over the country are very concerned about the price, quality and nutritional value of food that reaches the supermarket," said ACA chairman Dale Hendricks, a dairy producer from Bloomfield, Iowa.

"They are looking for solutions and are anxious to work with the food producer to do something about the situation. I am particularly encouraged by the fact that 81 per cent say they feel the interests of farmers and consumers are similar enough to warrant joint action."

Hendricks also explained that the questionnaire is being used as a tool in a comprehensive effort to identify ways farmers and consumers can work together. "The results of this project, have set the stage for concrete action," he said.

According to the questionnaire, which was distributed by teams of farm couples who traveled to major metropolitan centers in the United States, a majority of consumers are seeking changes in the food system. Many of the consumers seemed to be calling for a "no frills supermarket" as an alternative to the supermarket.

An overwhelming majority favor less convenience preparation and packaging and want more bulk purchasing. Similarly, more than 73 per cent want less service and more price competition in food processing and retailing. Less government regulation in food production and processing was cited by 42 per cent as a way to cut food costs, although written comments indicated wide support for health and safety standards.

A large majority of consumers are apparently dissatisfied with food prices, and 90 per cent see more direct farm to consumer marketing as a possibility for cutting costs. But in addition to food costs, the quality and nutritional value of food is a big concern. Less than half said they were satisfied with the quality and nutritional value of food, and written comments on the questionnaire served to emphasize their concern. One man wrote, "We'd probably fare better eating the package and throwing the food away."

Dissatisfaction to a large degree seemed to be directed to what consumers apparently feel are over-processed and highly-advertised "empty foods." Although a slim majority opposed reducing the variety and number of food items carried by supermarkets, written comments indicated that many want more unprocessed foods. A Berkeley respondent said, "There's too much plastic food and preservatives. I'm concerned with the lack of variety of fresh foods."

Opinions on trade were also asked on the questionnaire. A slim majority of consumers favored food exports, and an almost equal number said farm export decisions should be made by farmers.

"There seems to be a great deal of confusion on some aspects of the trade issue," Hendricks said. "For example, cross tabulation of the data shows that among those people who oppose farm exports, a large majority say farmers should make farm export decisions."

Consumers are about evenly split on the question of restricting the importation of food products that are cheaper because they are subsidized by foreign governments, with 39 per cent in favor of restriction and 44 per cent opposing it.

A cross-tabulation of questions relating to trade indicates that opinions are split on ideological grounds of either "free trade" or, as one man said, "America first — the heck with foreigners."

Among those who opposed exports, the sentiment, as judged from written comments, tended to be anti-foreigner, anti-communist or nationalistic. One man wrote, "Let them eat oil," while another commented "Let the Russians eat Communism."

Referring to the comments, Hendricks said they often were valuable in analyzing the computerized data. He also pointed out that the questionnaire did not employ a rigid statistical and demographical approach because it was seen as an extension of the direct communications by the teams of farm couples who visited the cities polled. The relatively large sample also increased the questionnaire's validity. More than 2,500 of the 20,000 questionnaires distributed were completed and returned. This 12.5 per cent response is particularly high, as most questionnaires have a one to three per cent response rate average.

The fact-finding tour and distribution of the questionnaires were preceded by a National Conference last November, at which time 40 prominent farm and consumer leaders began identifying potential areas of agreement. One outgrowth of the attempt so far has been the formation of a "Farmer/Consumer Roundtable" that will seek solutions to problems confronting farmers and consumers on a continuing basis. The Roundtable members, including farm and national consumer organization representatives, have already begun planning a major national conference for April 6 and 7 in Washington, D.C.

Several topics that offer promise for joint action have already been identified, and they will be further explored at the April conference. The conference is expected to identify, more specifically, areas of cooperation and to provide the understanding and impetus necessary for farmers and consumers to work together on a regular basis.

The questionnaires were distributed in supermarkets and shopping centers between Nov. 15 and Dec. 11 in the following areas: Pittsburgh, Albany, Boston, Kansas City, Dallas, Denver, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Chicago, Phoenix, Sacramento, Berkeley, Portland, Atlanta, Memphis, Jacksonville and northern Virginia.

The Agriculture Council of America, a non-partisan, non-legislative organization founded in 1973 is supported by individual farmers, farm and commodity organizations and companies that supply farmers. Its purpose is to improve communications between farmers and urban consumers.

March Birthstone Is Aquamarine

Mirror, mirror, on the wall, what birthstone is most magic of all? March's birthstone — the aquamarine might well be, reports the Jewelry Industry Council.

During the Middle Ages the aquamarine was used in telling fortunes by suspending it on a string and hanging it over a bowl of water. The bowl was marked on the sides with letters of the alphabet. After a question was asked, the stone spelled out answers by moving from letter to letter.

While soothsayers took advantage of the aquamarine's powers, it is possible Hippocrates, the father of medicine, was telling his patients to take aquamarines, get plenty of rest and contact him in the morning, because the Romans regarded the stone as having medical and healing powers.

Later, in Germany, eyeglasses were made of aquamarine which was thought to cure short-sightedness before regular glass lenses were used.

According to an old Roman legend, aquamarines came from the sea where they were washed ashore from jewelry caskets on the sea floor. The blue-green aquamarine is found all over the world with the best source in Brazil. In fact, in the 1930's, the Brazilian government presented a large stone of rare quality to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

During the 1920's and 30's, the aquamarine was popular in a setting of rubies and diamonds in gold. Today, aquamarines are still most exciting set with diamonds.

Aquamarines are most attractive suggests the council, when the gem is surrounded by a rich diamond pave, which is spotlighted in today's jewelry fashions.

The alternate birthstone for March is the bloodstone. Abracadabra, those who wore it were believed to disappear into thin air, just by saying a few magic words.

The legend attributed to the bloodstone was that it was formed at the Crucifixion of Christ. When a Roman soldier thrust his spear into His side, drops of blood fell on some pieces of dark green jasper lying at the foot of the cross. The blood could not be removed, and since then all these stones have been regarded as bloodstones.

It was also believed that it could make water boil and stop nose bleeds.

Since the bloodstone has a simple cut and subdued color, it is particularly suited to men's jewelry. Today's gold tie tacs and increasingly popular cuff links are attractive when set with bloodstones.

Whether you favor the blue of the aquamarine or the red of the bloodstone, it is said that both stones will assure wisdom and happiness to those who wear them, even if you weren't born in March, the council says.

Plan Weekend Seminar

A Prophecy Seminar will be held Friday and Saturday, March 4 and 5, at the Seventh-day Adventist church, Benton Harbor.

The first session will be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. and will deal with the subjects of why prophecy was given and how to interpret Bible prophecy.

Pastor Norman A. Yeager, instructor of the seminar, said, "The purpose of the seminar is to probe the meaning of the prophecies of the book of Daniel for the times in which we are living. Also we will study the prophecies in relation to events predicted to take place at the end of the world."

According to Dr. C. Raymond Holmes, pastor of the church, topics to be covered during the seminar include: "Why Prophecy was Given, Principles of Prophecy Interpretation," "The Rise and Work of the Antichrist" and "The Secret Rapture and the Tribulation."

Those attending will receive the book, "The Secret of the Rapture," by Raymond H.

Woolsey, and a syllabus containing the outlines of the material presented and other information to aid in further personal study into prophecy.

Those interested in Bible prophecy are invited. There are no enrollment or tuition fees.

The second session during the church service Saturday morning at 11 o'clock will deal with the rise and work of the antichrist. The last session at 6 p.m. March 5 will deal with the place the Jews play in Bible prophecy and the Secret Rapture.

Pastor Yeager, who received his master of divinity degree from Andrews university, is pastor of the Adventist churches in Stanton, Lakeview and Howard City.

BH Seeks Ownership Of Fidelity Building

MENU AWARD: James Ford, manager of Berrien Hills Country club, displays plaque awarded him at recent 50th annual convention of Club Managers Association of America in Chicago. The City of Benton Harbor may soon become the owner of the six-story Fidelity building and 48 other properties that have reverted to the state because of delinquent property taxes.

The city commission last night approved an application to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to purchase the 49 parcels of land for a total price of $1.

City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. said about eight parcels are commercial and 41 are residential. The owners of the 49 parcels have not paid property taxes for at least three years, Farmer said.

After property taxes are delinquent for three years, ownership reverts to the state. The city gets the first opportunity to buy the delinquent properties before the state sells them at auction. Last year, the city acquired 35 parcels of land through the state tax sale.

David C. Madison, of Madison Real Estate company, closed the 50-year-old Fidelity building at 109 Michigan street in December.

Farmer said the city wants to acquire the properties and resell them so delinquent property taxes can be recovered and the property returned to the tax rolls under private ownership.

State Updating Freeway Safety

A multi-million dollar freeway safety improvement program is getting underway along I-94 from the Indiana line to the Jackson county line in Michigan and along I-196, from I-94 in Benton township, north to Holland. Clyde Maylath, assistant district construction engineer for the Michigan State Highway department at Kalamazoo told The Herald-Palladium details of the program.

Maylath said traffic won't be impeded during the project, scheduled for completion next fall, "but you'll see some activity just about every mile."

Most of the work will be flattening slopes off freeway shoulders and replacing existing guard rails along freeway shoulders with higher and stronger guard rails, Maylath said. He said no median guard rails are to be installed in this area.

Maylath said the earth moving work in some instances will extend drainage ditches. He said this will require installation of new drainage tiles.

Maylath, headquartered in the department's Kalamazoo district office, said the entire program will cost several million dollars.

The three social service programs, to be funded at $22,000 each, are the Benton Harbor senior citizens center, the Community Parents Child Care center, and the Dental Clinic.

The commission approved a $45,283 contract with John G. Yerrington Construction company to re-ave Pavone street. Funds for the repaving will come from the city's second-year Community Development grant.

Owners and employees of Rampart and Action ambulance companies appeared before the commission to question why the city commission approved joining the Community Emergency Service (CES), the public-owned ambulance service which has begun offering ambulance service in the Twin Cities and surrounding communities.

Leonard Reed, of 759 Broadway and father of Stephen L. Reed, president and manager of Rampart, asked the commission members why they voted to join CES which is competing with a business located in the city (Rampart).

The $264,170 for commercial development includes $100,000 to purchase 44 acres of urban renewal land in the Riverview drive and old fruit markets areas from HUD, $100,000 for salaries and administrative costs of the city's economic development department, and $64,170 for demolition of downtown buildings and paving of several downtown parking lots.

The $174,000 for street improvements includes repaving of Broadway from Pipestone to Empire and construction of Cross street from McAllister avenue to Ogden avenue.

Recreation funding includes $22,000 to build an access road and parking lot at the new recreation center, $49,000 for salaries and administrative costs of the recreation center staff, and $10,000 to make improvements to Broadway park.

Parole Officer Raps Capital Punishment

By LARRY MACINTYRE
Staff Writer

Is capital punishment a deterrent?

"Only to the one being punished," says a man who has dealt with quite a few murderers in the past 11½ years.

According to Lester Knickerbocker, a state parole and probation agent for Berrien Circuit court, capital punishment until now has been mainly used in crimes of passion.

"Crimes of passion are not going to be deterred by anything," he said yesterday

during a luncheon talk before the Twin Cities Rotary club at St. Joseph Elks lodge.

He said that for any punishment to be an effective deterrent, it must be inescapable and immediate. Capital punishment is neither, he said.

Knickerbocker, 35, has been a parole/probation agent in Berrien county since 1965. The holder of a master's degree from Western Michigan university, Knickerbocker is also an instructor for police recruits at Lake Michigan college.

In his talk, he outlined the workings of the criminal justice system in Berrien county and offered his views on some of the more controversial aspects of the system.

He said that before a convicted felon is sentenced by a Circuit court judge, the parole and probation office completes a pre-sentence investigation report to aid the judge in determining a sentence.

The report covers the felon's background, past criminal record and chances for rehabilitation.

"We do about 10 or 12 hours of work on each and every convicted felon we investigate," Knickerbocker said. "We take it very seriously."

Knickerbocker is one of 12 parole/probation agents working under Berrien's four Circuit judges.

He said he believes the system works well in Berrien county because the court takes the necessary time to deal properly with offenders.

Statistics show that efforts to rehabilitate inmates are proving successful in Michigan, he said.

At present, 75 per cent of all felons placed on probation stay out of jail for the next five years, he said. For those released from prison on parole, 60 per cent are successful at staying out for five years.

"So where do we get all the new crime waves? We keep raising them," he said.

More crimes are committed by 15-year-olds than any other age, and many of those 15-year-olds graduate from juvenile court to Circuit court when they turn 17, he said.

Knickerbocker said he did not think television police shows were helping the situation any. A person 14 or 15 has a very difficult time distinguishing between the fantasy of those shows and reality, he said.

The only police show that comes anywhere near reality is Barney Miller, he said. "It's the only one I allow my kids to watch."

He said inmates in Michigan prisons are not being overly coddled with soft living conditions.

"Being locked up is punishment enough," he said. There is no need for inhumane or uncomfortable living conditions.

He said he would like to see conjugal visits permitted.

BH 4-Mill Tax Would Be For Year

A four-mill tax increase the Benton Harbor board of education is asking in the March 15 special election, as one of three proposals on the ballot, would be for only one year.

A story in the Feb. 22 edition on The Herald-Palladium incorrectly said the four-mill levy for additional operating revenue would be for five years.

Two other millage requestions the ballot are for five years. One is for renewal of 21.35 mills for operations and the other is for one mill for school building maintenance. The 21.35-mill renewal would extend for five years the operating taxes that expired with the end of 1978. The one-mill maintenance proposal is new.

Laetz Is Moved To Memorial

Walter B. Laetz, vice president and secretary of Auto Specialties Manufacturing company, was transferred yesterday to St. Joseph Memorial hospital from Benton Harbor Mercy hospital where had been since sustaining a heart attack Feb. 11.

Laetz, 61, of St. Joseph, was reported in "improved" condition, but a Memorial hospital spokesman said visitors are restricted to members of his immediate family. Laetz is a member of the Memorial board of trustees.

Morrison Channel Marina Contract Okayed By SJ

The St. Joseph city commission last night approved a contract with the state Department of Natural Resources to jointly finance construction of a 70-slip marina in the Morrison channel of the St. Joseph river.

Under the contract, the city and DNR will each provide $200,000.

An additional $200,000 is to be sought from the U.S. Department of the Interior's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

If that application is approved, there would be a total of $600,000 available for the marina project which is to begin this summer.

If the application is rejected, the project will be scaled down to $400,000, according to City Manager Jerry Heppler. Additional slips would then be added as financing became available, he said.

Plans for the project were first announced last May. Since then, city officials have been meeting with representatives of the DNR's waterways commission to draft the contract approved last night.

Of the city's share of the cost, $150,000 is to be raised through the sale of revenue bonds. The bonds are to be repaid from slip rental fees. Each slip is to rent for $250 a season, Heppler said.

The remaining $50,000 of the city's share is to come from funds already accumulated in operations at the city-owned West Basin marina.

According to preliminary plans, slips in the new docking facility are to be 30 feet long and are to angle into the channel for easier access. The piers will all be floating and will be removed from the water in winter.

The new facility will be just upstream of the new Morrison channel bridge and will stretch along the west bank of the channel.

A sewage pumping facility, fresh water and electricity will be available to boaters. There will also be a parking lot.

The land along the shore was recently purchased by the city from the bankrupt Penn Central railroad in a deal that saw the city gain 20 acres for about $20,000. A portion of the land will be used for the marina.

If construction begins as planned this year, the facility would be opened for the summer of 1978. It would be operated by the St. Joseph Harbor Authority.

Under the terms of the city's contract with the DNR, the authority cannot give priority in slip rentals to city residents.

The first rentals will be chosen from an existing waiting list for docking facilities. After that, it will be first come, first served, Heppler said.

In other business last night, the commission approved on second reading an ordinance rezoning a 4.65-acre parcel at 1401 Langley avenue for single-family residential use.

The land had previously been zoned for multi-family use.

Commissioners passed the ordinance on first reading Jan. 24. Since then, the planning commission recommended that the commission take final action to rezone the land single-family.

The owner of the parcel, Michigan Baptist Homes, Inc., of Detroit, has protested the rezoning on the grounds it would spoil an agreement to sell the land for $75,000.

Leonard Smith, president of the Leonard Smith Construction Co., held an option to purchase the property. His proposal to build apartments there was rejected by the commission. His latest proposal to build duplexes on the property is prohibited by the new zoning.

The commission awarded a $12,634 contract to the Beaudoin-Stuekel Electric Co., St. Joseph, to install outdoor lighting at the Riverview Park boat ramp. The firm was lowest of three bidders.

Two Are Charged With Radio Thefts

BUCHANAN — Two Niles men were arrested here early this morning by the Buchanan police in connection with the reported theft of citizens' band radios from the autos of a Buchanan policeman and two other residents.

Blood Pressure Is Topic

A class in taking blood pressure at home will be taught Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the lecture room at Benton Harbor Mercy hospital by Jenny Bellows Hoster, R.N., hypertension clinic nurse.

The course is open to the public. Participants must bring their own sphygmomanometers and stethoscopes, which may be purchased at most area pharmacies.

Lockridge was also arrested on charges of driving while his license was suspended and on a traffic warrant from the Niles police department charging him with swerving.

Police reported they arrested two men shortly after a neighbor of police dispatcher Martin Skopek, 124 South Detroit street, called to report a radio was being taken from an auto parked at the officer's home.

An auto containing two men was stopped about two blocks from Skopek's home at 2:30 a.m. Confiscated from the auto were three CB radios, all believed stolen and valued at $300, police said.

One of the radios matched the description of one taken from Skopek's auto, while the other two matched description of radios subsequently reported as having been taken from the autos of Robert Jackson, 608 South Oak street, and Frank Wettraw, 608 Jordan street, police said.

Ex-Owner Sues Ambulance Firm

The former owner of Action Ambulance has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court against the ambulance company and its principal stockholders seeking $35,118 he claims is owed to him.

The plaintiff, Peter M. Huttenga, of Kent county, claims that in March, 1976, he agreed to sell his 25,000 shares of stock in Action for $21,118 but has only received $8,000. He also contends he was hired by Action as a consultant, and was allegedly to receive a total of $24,000 beginning in May, 1978, and running until April, 1981.

Named defendants besides

Action were Gary Fleetwood and Raymond Peterson, identified as principal stockholders and officers.

Huttenga contends Fleetwood and Peterson have only paid $2,000 of the consultant fees and claims a breach of contract in not fulfilling that contract or the one for the stock.

The suit identifies Action's principal office as 4751 Niles road, St. Joseph. Action is still in operation but recently lost some municipal subsidies when Twin Cities area communities formed the Community Emergency Service Corp. for ambulance service.

'Market Mammies' Appeal To Tourists

GHANA MARKETPLACE: In Ghana's thriving city market the market mammies gather early each morning to sell their wares. From cluttered stalls and kiosks in Accra's teeming Makola Market and from small roadside stands throughout the country, these women offer brightly colored bolts of Ghanaian cloth, fresh fruit and produce, leather goods, soaps and fragrant oils. Many carry their merchandise on their heads between their homes and the marketplace. In a role reserved almost exclusively for women, Ghana's traders are a strong economic force. In increasing numbers, North American tourists come to Makola and other city markets, finding dignity and courtesy among the traders, and a variety and excitement not available in supermarkets. A visitor need not buy; he is welcome if he merely wants to look.

ACCRA, Ghana, West Africa — The woman sits immobile as an ebony statue, the strong features of her broad face impassive. Were it not for the movement of the eyes across the goods displayed in front of her, a customer might think she was asleep.

The customer buys a bolt of the vivid Ghanaian cloth which the women had rolled and stuck tightly into a rainbow mound of colors displayed beside her under the African sun.

The buyer asks the woman if she would pose for a photograph. The woman, appearing to be in deep reverie, says with great dignity and firmness, "No!" A pause, and then she bursts into giggles and with a broad smile poses among her goods while the customer snaps away.

The woman is one of the women traders of Ghana — almost always called "market mammies" — and if her business is to sell cloth, then part of her customer's business is to buy goods and to take pictures.

Ghana's market mammies are seen everywhere, carrying on their heads bundles of fish, food, cloth, sandals, firewood and other items between village and market. At Makola Market — Ghana's biggest — there are 12,000 market mammies.

Some sell from stalls set up in the organized markets of Accra, Kumasi, Takoradi and other large cities. Many sell from the roadside, offering fresh food and fruit, shrimp and bread to the passengers of buses filled with people.

Babies are commonly strapped to their mothers' backs and there may be older children at their sides. Although their native language is Ga, Twi, Fante, Hausa or one of the other Ghanaian tongues, they know the English of commerce and their speed in computing numbers is reflexive.

They are not apt to bargain but if it appears to make the difference between a sale or not and if the volume is large enough, they may negotiate a lower price on some items. If the visitor wants to buy, that is fine; if he only wants to look, that is all right too. There'll be no sales pitch, no haggling, no muttered imprecations if the buyer moves on without buying.

After all, a buyer will likely end up making a purchase from another market mammy, a fellow member of the Market Women's Association of Ghana, formed 30 years ago to bring order in the marketplace.

It is a role reserved almost exclusively to women and they are a political and economic force in the country. Men and women work together in factories, shops and stores; men almost exclusively are the carvers of wood, the weavers of kente cloth and the samplers of adinkra cloth, crafts closely tied to Ghana's cultural history.

But in the teeming markets offering cooked food, fresh produce and fruit, oils, fragrances, leather, skins, perfumes, soaps and fabrics, the market mammies reign.

They — and the markets in which they earn a living — are one of the reasons increasing numbers of North Americans travel to Ghana.

Treat Hungry Children

What's a better treat for hungry youngsters than a combination of creamy smooth pudding and peanut butter?

Blend two and one-half cups cold milk into one-half cup chunky peanut butter in a bowl.

Add one package (four-serving size) butterscotch, chocolate or vanilla instant pudding and pie filling. Beat slowly with a rotary beater or at lowest speed of electric mixer for about two minutes, until well blended.

Makes about two and one-half cups or five servings.

This is a great after-school treat and, better yet, you can make use of an individual serving thermos for a nutritious school-lunch dessert.

More Consumer-Farmer Joint Action Seen As Step To Improve Food System

HARTFORD — Laura Heuser, Hartford area national director of the Agriculture Council of America (ACA), reported that an overwhelming number of consumers see joint action with farmers as a major step in improving the nation's food system, according to a nationwide survey of 2,500 consumers.

Results of the survey sponsored by the ACA were announced during a special news conference at ACA's Washington, D.C., office.

"Consumers all over the country are very concerned about the price, quality and nutritional value of food that reaches the supermarket," said ACA chairman Dale Hendricks, a dairy producer from Bloomfield, Iowa.

"They are looking for solutions and are anxious to work with the food producer to do something about the situation. I am particularly encouraged by the fact that 81 per cent say they feel the interests of farmers and consumers are similar enough to warrant joint action."

Hendricks also explained that the questionnaire is being used as a tool in a comprehensive effort to identify ways farmers and consumers can work together. "The results of this project, have set the stage for concrete action," he said.

According to the questionnaire, which was distributed by teams of farm couples who traveled to major metropolitan centers in the United States, a majority of consumers are seeking changes in the food system. Many of the consumers seemed to be calling for a "no frills supermarket" as an alternative to the supermarket.

An overwhelming majority favor less convenience preparation and packaging and want more bulk purchasing. Similarly, more than 73 per cent want less service and more price competition in food processing and retailing. Less government regulation in food production and processing was cited by 42 per cent as a way to cut food costs, although written comments indicated wide support for health and safety standards.

A large majority of consumers are apparently dissatisfied with food prices, and 90 per cent see more direct farm to consumer marketing as a possibility for cutting costs. But in addition to food costs, the quality and nutritional value of food is a big concern. Less than half said they were satisfied with the quality and nutritional value of food, and written comments on the questionnaire served to emphasize their concern. One man wrote, "We'd probably fare better eating the package and throwing the food away."

Dissatisfaction in a large degree seemed to be directed to what consumers apparently feel are over-processed and highly-advertised "empty foods." Although a slim majority opposed reducing the variety and number of food items carried by supermarkets, written comments indicated that many want more unprocessed foods. A Berkeley respondent said, "There's too much plastic food and preservatives. I'm concerned with the lack of variety of fresh foods."

Opinions on trade were also asked on the questionnaire. A slim majority of consumers favored food exports, and an almost equal number said farm export decisions should be made by farmers.

"There seems to be a great deal of confusion on some aspects of the trade issue," Hendricks said. "For example, cross tabulation of the data shows that among those people who oppose farm exports, a large majority say farmers should make farm export decisions."

Consumers are about evenly split on the question of restricting the importation of food products that are cheaper because they are subsidized by foreign governments, with 39 per cent in favor of restriction and 44 per cent opposing it.

A cross-tabulation of questions relating to trade indicates that opinions are split on ideological grounds of either "free trade" or, as one man said, "America first — the heck with foreigners."

Among those who opposed exports, the sentiment, as judged from written comments, tended to be anti-foreigner, anti-communist or nationalistic. One man wrote, "Let them eat oil," while another commented "Let the Russians eat Communism."

Referring to the comments, Hendricks said they often were valuable in analyzing the computerized data. He also pointed out that the questionnaire did not employ a rigid statistical and demographical approach because it was seen as an extension of the direct communications by the teams of farm couples who visited the cities polled. The relatively large sample also increased the questionnaires' validity. More than 2,500 of the 20,000 questionnaires distributed were completed and returned. This 32.5 per cent response is particularly high, as most questionnaires have a one to three per cent response rate average.

The fact-finding tour and distribution of the questionnaires were preceded by a National Conference last November, at which time 40 prominent farm and consumer leaders began identifying potential areas of agreement. One outgrowth of the attempt so far has been the formation of a "Farmer/Consumer Roundtable" that will seek solutions to problems confronting farmers and consumers on a continuing basis. The Roundtable members, including farm and national consumer representatives, have already begun planning a major national conference for April 6 and 7 in Washington, D.C.

Several topics that offer promise for joint action have already been identified, and they will be further explored at the April conference. The conference is expected to identify, more specifically, areas of cooperation and to provide the understanding and impetus necessary for farmers and consumers to work together on a regular basis.

The questionnaires were distributed in supermarkets and shopping centers between Nov. 15 and Dec. 11 in the following areas: Pittsburgh, Albany, Boston, Kansas City, Dallas, Denver, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Chicago, Phoenix, Sacramento, Berkeley, Portland, Atlanta, Memphis, Jacksonville and northern Virginia.

The Agriculture Council of America, a non-partisan, non-legislative organization founded in 1973 is supported by individual farmers, farm and commodity organizations and companies that supply farmers. Its purpose is to improve communications between farmers and urban consumers.

March Birthstone Is Aquamarine

Mirror, mirror, on the wall, what birthstone is most magic of all? March's birthstone — the aquamarine might well be, reports the Jewelry Industry Council.

During the Middle Ages the aquamarine was used in telling fortunes by suspending it on a string and hanging it over a bowl of water. The bowl was marked on the sides with letters of the alphabet. After a question was asked, the stone spelled out answers by moving from letter to letter.

While soothsayers took advantage of the aquamarine's powers, it is possible Hippocrates, the father of medicine, was telling his patients to take aquamarines, get plenty of rest and contact him in the morning, because the Romans regarded the stone as having medical and healing powers.

Later, in Germany, eyeglasses were made of aquamarine which was thought to cure short-sightedness before regular glass lenses were used.

According to an old Roman legend, aquamarines came from the sea where they were washed ashore from jewelry caskets on the sea floor. The blue-green aquamarine is found all over the world with the best source in Brazil. In fact, in the 1930's, the Brazilian government presented a large stone of rare quality to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

During the 1920's and 30's, the aquamarine was popular in a setting of rubies and diamonds in gold. Today, aquamarines are still most exciting set with diamonds.

Aquamarines are most attractive suggests the council, when the gem is surrounded by a rich diamond pave, which is spotlighted in today's jewelry fashions.

The alternate birthstone for March is the bloodstone. Abracadabra, those who wore it were believed to disappear into thin air, just by saying a few magic words.

The legend attributed to the bloodstone was that it was formed at the Crucifixion of Christ. When a Roman soldier thrust his spear into His side, drops of blood fell on some pieces of dark green jasper lying at the foot of the cross. The blood could not be removed, and since then all these stones have been regarded as bloodstones.

It was also believed that it could make water boil and stop nose bleeds.

Since the bloodstone has a simple cut and subdued color, it is particularly suited to men's jewelry. Today's gold tie tacs and increasingly popular cuff links are attractive when set with bloodstones.

Whether you favor the blue of the aquamarine or the red of the bloodstone, it is said that both stones will assure wisdom and happiness to those who wear them, even if you weren't born in March, the council says.

Lenten Luncheons

Women's Fellowship of First Congregational church, Benton Harbor, will hold a Lenten luncheon in Sonner hall of the church Tuesday, March 8, at 1 p.m.

Circle one will act as hostesses.

Mrs. Florence Van Antwerp will present "A Minute of Missions."

Mrs. James (Jan) Williams, wife of a Belding minister, will present slides and a talk on "Christian Nurture Centers."

BUCHANAN — Annual Lenten luncheons for men, sponsored by the Buchanan Ministerial Association, will be held each Wednesday beginning March 2 and continue through April 6.

Luncheons will be held at the First United Methodist church and will be served at noon by women of the church at cost.

Men from all Buchanan churches, as well as men who live or work in Buchanan, are invited.

A program will be presented at each luncheon by laymen from the various churches. Programs will conclude at 12:30 p.m.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Family Life Falling Apart?

Dear Readers: Yesterday's column, filled with letters reporting on the shocking behavior of students of all ages, was depressing to say the least. It would be unfair to let you twist slowly in the wind without printing a letter of explanation, with a suggestion on what might be done to improve the situation. Here it is:

Dear Ann Landers: When I read the letter from the Iowa teacher who complained about students being rude, unmotivated and hostile — and your response (you felt students had shaped up considerably since 1968 and asked "the teachers out there" to let you know if you were wrong) — I knew you were in for a real shellacking. College students have shaped up and with good reason. First: The Vietnam war which tore our country and campuses apart has ended. Second: Minorities (blacks and women) are getting a better break. Third: Making a living has suddenly become important. The economic downturn in 1970 made college students aware of the stiff competition for jobs. The goofs decided they had better get with it if they wanted to eat after graduation. But the grammar school, junior and senior high school students are not concerned with economics, jobs or anything else. They simply behave at home — which is to say rotten. Let's face it. Family life is falling apart and Women's Lib has had a lot to do with it. Mothers have been made to feel inferior if they "do nothing" but stay home and take care of their children. So the kids are left with incompetent help, or nobody. They grow up insecure, hostile, with no models to learn from. Daddy is divorced or busy working, or there is NO daddy and never was. A whole generation of young people has grown up with no respect for authority. They do not respect their parents, their grandparents, their neighbors, their teachers, or the law. (The statistics on juvenile shoplifting and crime are staggering.) The root of the trouble is lack of parental guidance. "As the twig is bent so grows the tree" — and too many twigs are being bent these days in odd and frightening shapes. We are pazing for it in the classrooms, in juvenile courts and in our prisons. There were over 75,000 assaults on teachers last year by students. Millions of dollars worth of school property was ruined by vandals and this does not include what was stolen. Something has gone haywire in our society and it all goes back to the lack of parental guidance. The solution to the problem lies in the home. I say to every mother and father who reads this column, take Ann Landers' advice. She has been telling you for over 20 years that discipline is a special kind of love — that kids want guidelines, they need to be told how far they can go. They don't want everything they ask for. They often hope you'll say NO. (It takes them off the hook with their peers.) The child who can boss his parents and call the shots is miserable and insecure. He feels unloved — that nobody cares enough to take charge. What a pity! — Spoke My Piece

Dear Spoke: You certainly did, and I am grateful. A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 14, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Investigate a proposition coming through a reliable friend or associate, even though it is unique. That could be its big attraction.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's a problem affecting you and your family—that can be eliminated if you use a bold and imaginative approach.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Speak up. Defend your interests to superiors today. You might find that long-awaited opening to bring your work to their attention.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Something already bringing you a reasonable return could be made even more profitable. See if you can discover ways to do so.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Luck may favor you in a unique way today. Don't analyze it too closely or you could be touted-off by your more practical side.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Pick the brains of clever associates to help find ways to accomplish things that have been difficult for you. Conceal your motives, however.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Share good fortune today with one who has been helpful to you in the past. You will need this person again in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If a social contact can do anything for you today, by all means solicit his aid. He'll be glad you called for help.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The closer you study situations today, the more you'll see in them. This is especially true of something serious that's been on your mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Though you seek no personal gain, your help to another in solving a business problem will pay off in the good feeling it gives you.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb. 19) Decisions affecting money or career must be hard-nosed and realistic today. Only then will you enjoy the results.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're very good at inspiring others today, particularly those you work closely with. You can lift them out of the doldrums.

Sam Fry Jr. of New York, one of that select group of players who have won both the Vanderbilt and Spingold cups, made one of the most successful, unusual first-trick plays on his way to one of his Spingold wins. His six-club call was a slight overbid but Sam was, and some 30 years later still is, an overbidder. Still, there was a fair play for the slam and who really needs anything more than that.

We don't know why West selected a diamond instead of a spade for his opening lead; but we do know that this gave Sam his chance to try an unusual play. He called for dummy's queen of diamonds.

East covered with the king and Sam won with his singleton ace. Then he entered dummy by leading the 10 of clubs and overtaking with the jack. Next came a heart and the finesse of the queen.

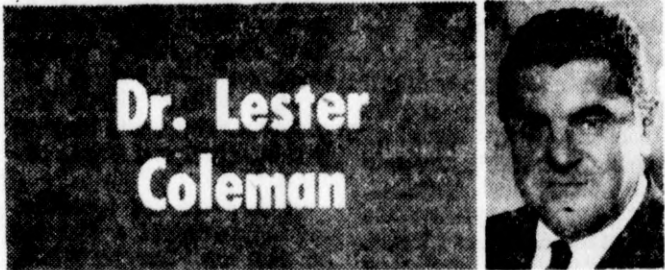

West was in with the king. What would you lead if you were West? You would lead a second diamond just as West did. Sam ruffed, drew trumps, ran his hearts to discard the three spades from dummy and wrapped up his slam.

A Qx x x x x x x x A J x x 10 x x. There is no really good response here. One notrump is inadequate; two notrump too strong. We hate to bid a heart with four small so we respond one diamond intending to make a second bid later.

I've been told that the only way to cure my snoring is to have an operation on my nasal septum. I can't get a guarantee from the surgeon. I want to explore every other avenue for relief. Do you have any suggestions? — Mr. D.S., Wash.

Dear Mr. S.: Ear, nose and throat specialists all agree that it is a rarity to ever see a perfectly straight septum. The nasal septum, composed of bone and cartilage, separates one side of the nose from the other.

A slight curve of the septum is almost always present. Unless there is a marked deviation of the septum that compresses vital parts of the nasal tissues, surgery is not routinely suggested.

It is true that, in some instances, snoring may be attributed to the shape of the septum. This is not common, however. This is undoubtedly why your doctor will not "guarantee" that the snoring will disappear following surgery.

I would suggest that you try other approaches first. Allergies, palate disorders, excessive dryness of the air in the bedroom, and positions during sleep may be contributing factors.

Every once in a while I get a salty taste in my mouth. It lasts for a few days, then disappears. No one seems to be able to explain this. — Mr. M.H., Va.

Dear Mr. H.: Only recently, a new patient complained to me about such a salty taste. He was not taking any drugs or medicines. He was not a smoker. And there were no changes in his diet.

The only clue was that he had not had his teeth cleaned for many years. I referred him to a dentist who found enormous collections of plaque, tartar and mineral deposits beneath the gums.

When all this was cleaned out and when the gums were returned to a healthy condition, the salty taste disappeared.

If you have ruled out drugs or unusual diet you might give thought to the possibility that your teeth and gums area is the causative factor.

PEARS AND YAMS

Sweet Treats To Eat

Winter pears make a nice and reasonably priced addition to menu plans, if you know how to choose and use them, according to Maryann Beckman, District Extension Consumer Marketing Information Agent.

Mrs. Beckman added: The d'Anjou pear dominates the winter market. These pears are oval to globular, with slightly unequal sides. They have a short thick neck with a stubby stem. When ripe, the skin is light yellowish green, but never pure yellow like the more popular Bartlett variety. Flesh of the fruit is creamy white, with a buttery, juicy texture.

The Bosc is another popular variety. It has a long, tapering neck and the skin is a dark yellow, overlaid with a cinnamon-russet color, varying in intensity. The Bosc has a buttery taste, too, and is very juicy. It is rated as one of the best dessert pears available.

Comice and Winter Nelis are other varieties that also have the yellowish-white flesh with a fine, buttery texture. All are somewhat sweeter than the d'Anjou. Most pears will be hard to the touch when you buy them, for pears must be picked when mature and green to ripen successfully. Unlike other fruits, they will not ripen well on the tree; they get mealy and grainy.

To ripen pears at home, put them in a brown paper bag at room temperature for two to five days. Test them gently at the stem end to see if they are eating soft. Then eat them or refrigerate them to slow further ripening. Use in salads, desserts, out-of-hand eating, baked with meat dishes or for snacks.

Pears have a lot of good eating virtues besides good taste. They are low in calories. One medium size pear has only about 75 calories.

Pears are easy to digest and contain a lot of other important nutrients. Best of all, price is reasonable, between 28 and 49 cents a pound, depending on the variety. The most popular d'Anjou is in much larger supply than a year ago and the quality is exceptionally good.

Another sweet treat available now at a reasonable price is the sweet potato. Two types are available, dry and moist. Dry, which are lighter in color, are becoming less and less common in markets. The most popular "yam" in the United States is the moist sweet potato which has a deep yellow to rosy orange flesh and is moist and sweet when cooked.

Botanically, this potato is not a yam, although it is sold as such. True yams, which are tropical vegetables, are much larger than sweet potatoes, have relatively tough, wrinkled skins and white flesh.

Choose sweet potatoes or yams that are well-shaped with smooth, uniformly colored skins that are free of blemishes and decay. Those in markets now have been "cured" by heat and moisture, to keep longer than the first fresh ones of the fall harvest. They will now keep two to five weeks at home if stored in a dry spot at room temperature. Do not store them in the refrigerator or at temperatures below 55 degrees, for cold causes starch changes, which alter flavor.

A pound of fresh sweet potatoes, mashed, sliced, or chunked, gives three to four half-cup servings. There are three medium sized potatoes per pound.

Sweet potatoes are an excellent source of vitamin A; one-half cup serving provides more than the United States Recommended Daily Allowance. You also get a fifth of the RDA of vitamin C and lesser amounts of several other vitamins.

Since many of the other winter vegetables that are high in vitamin A are in short supply, due to seasonally dwindling supplies or bad weather problems, sweets are an ideal choice in menus now. The price of sweet potatoes, now about 15 cents a pound, offers another plus.

'Market Mammies' Appeal To Tourists

GHANA MARKETPLACE: In Ghana's thriving city market the market mammies gather early each morning to sell their wares. From cluttered stalls and kiosks in Accra's teeming Makola Market and from small roadside stands throughout the country, these women offer brightly colored bolts of Ghanaian cloth, fresh fruit and produce, leather goods, soaps and fragrant oils. Many carry their merchandise on their heads between their homes and the marketplace. In a role reserved almost exclusively for women, Ghana's traders are a strong economic force. In increasing numbers, North American tourists come to Makola and other city markets, finding dignity and courtesy among the traders, and a variety and excitement not available in supermarkets. A visitor need not buy, he is welcome if he merely wants to look.

ACCRA, Ghana, West Africa — The woman sits immobile as an ebony statue, the strong features of her broad face impassive. Were it not for the movement of the eyes across the goods displayed in front of her, a customer might think she was asleep. The customer buys a bolt of the vivid Ghanaian cloth which the women had rolled and stuck tightly into a rainbow mound of colors displayed beside her under the African sun. The buyer asks the women if she would pose for a photograph. The woman, appearing to be in deep reverie, says with great dignity and firmness, "No!" A pause, and then she bursts into giggles and with a broad smile poses among her goods while the customer snaps away. The woman is one of the women traders of Ghana — almost always called "market mammies" — and if her business is to sell cloth, then part of her customer's business is to buy goods and to take pictures. Ghana's market mammies are seen everywhere, carrying on their heads bundles of fish, food, cloth, sandals, firewood and other items between village and market. At Makola Market — Ghana's biggest — there are 12,000 market mammies. Some sell from stalls set up in the organized markets of Accra, Kumasi, Takoradi and other large cities. Many sell from the roadside, offering fresh food and fruit, shrimp and bread to the passengers of buses filled with people. Babies are commonly strapped to their mothers' backs and there may be older children at their sides. Although their native language is Ga, Twi, Fante, Hausa or one of the other Ghanaian languages, they know the English of commerce and their speed in computing numbers is reflexive. They are not apt to bargain but if it appears to make the difference between a sale or not and if the volume is large enough, they may negotiate a lower price on some items. If the visitor wants to buy, that is fine; if he only wants to look, that is all right too. There'll be no sales pitch, no haggling, no muttered imprecations if the buyer moves on without buying. After all, a buyer will likely end up making a purchase from another market mammy, a fellow member of the Market Women's Association of Ghana, formed 30 years ago to bring order in the marketplace. It is a role reserved almost exclusively to women and they are a political and economic force in the country. Men and women work together in factories, shops and stores; men almost exclusively are the carriers of wood, the weavers of kente cloth, crafts closely tied to Ghana's cultural history. But in the teeming markets offering cooked food, fresh produce and fruit, oils, fragrances, leather, skins, perfumes, soaps and fabrics, the market mammies reign. They — and the markets in which they earn a living — are one of the reasons increasing numbers of North Americans travel to Ghana.

Treat Hungry Children

What's a better treat for hungry youngsters than a combination of creamy smooth pudding and peanut butter?

Add one package (four-serving size) butterscotch, chocolate or vanilla instant pudding and pie filling. Beat slowly with a rotary beater or at lowest speed of electric mixer for about two minutes, until well blended.

Makes about two and one-half cups or five servings.

This is a great after-school treat and, better yet, you can make use of an individual serving thermos for a nutritious school-lunch dessert.

India Questions Nuclear, Industrial Spy Suspects

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several Indian officials suspected of passing nuclear and industrial secrets to foreigners are under arrest in their own country, and one source says Americans may be involved.

U.S. embassy officers in New Delhi and State Department officials here declined all comment, citing President Carter's statement last week that the administration will not discuss live security issues.

Foreigners involved in the case were not identified, but one Indian source said, "Probably they are Americans."

The Indian officials were arrested in early February and have been undergoing weeks of intensive interrogation, sources say. There was no official announcement from the New Delhi government about the arrests.

First sketchy accounts about the discovery of an espionage network were confirmed Monday when India's national news agency, Samachar, reported the arrests of some senior civil servants. The news agency indicated the officials were being held for passing economic intelligence to foreigners.

One newspaper, the Indian Express, reported that two foreigners — presumably diplomatic spies — had been expelled from India as a result of what the paper said was "one of the biggest ever espionage cases" to hit the country.

The Indian government did not identify the two who were expelled and U.S. officials refused comment when asked if they were Americans.

Those arrested by the Indian Intelligence Bureau were said to include a senior assistant to Foreign Minister Y.B. Chavan, who had access to top-secret documents; one senior and two lower-ranking members of the State Planning Commission, and other personnel familiar with Indian industrial, economic and state planning programs.

The Indian sources said they knew some of the subjects by name but declined to identify them because, as far as the sources knew, no charges have yet been lodged against them.

There is no clear-cut evidence from information available here that the espionage system under investigation concerns only nuclear matters. And Indian newspapers are suggesting that the spying operation had to do mainly with the country's iron and steel industry.

But knowledgeable experts here cast doubt on that, noting that no major foreign power needs to know much about India's potential in the iron and steel industry, while its nuclear technology is the subject of a great deal of interest.

One source, familiar with most aspects of Indian policies in the industrial and technological sectors, observed: "Our country's aims and intentions are an open book. You don't need a crystal ball or a secret document when you can read it all in our state plans."

The espionage case comes at a time of improving political relations between the United States and India. Illustrating this is a report that the Carter administration may approve fulfilling a contract to provide India with a 12-ton shipment of low grade uranium ore for India's civil nuclear power plant at Tarapur, near Bombay.

The delivery has been held up since last November. Before the recent upturn in U.S.-Indian relations, Indian authorities, led by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, complained both publicly and privately about CIA activities in their country.

One-Shot Fuel Aid Proposed For Needy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee weighing President Carter's tax cut and rebate plan wants the economic stimulation program to help needy Americans pay their fuel bills.

The conferees proposed such a one-shot program, costing $200 million, as part of a package of tax cuts and increased spending designed to pump up the economy over the next seven months. A compromise budget amendment that would make room for up to $17 billion worth of tax cuts and government spending was approved Monday night and sent to the House and Senate for final consideration late this week. Once that process is complete, Congress can pass legislation to prime the sluggish economy.

The conferees' action would accommodate the program proposed by Carter, which includes $50 tax rebates or direct payments for an estimated 200 million Americans.

The conferees gave in to the demands of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, and recommended the $200-million plan to help needy persons pay for fuel this winter. Details of the proposal have yet to be worked out.

Increases Retroactive To Jan. 1

Hartford's Police Get Pay Hikes

HARTFORD — The city clerk here was instructed by the city council last night to pay four city policemen pay increases due them since Jan. 1 under a policy adopted previously by the city council.

The hikes had been withheld because of an oversight in the city's budget, city officials indicated.

The budget provided funds to cover the increases for just three of the four. Mayor Wayne Nelson said that, in essence, the council action last night expanded the funds to cover the four.

Under the decision, officer William Strong will be receive the increase based on a rate of $4.80 per hour from Jan. 1 through Jan. 18 and at a rate of $5.04 afterward.

The three other patrolmen, George Keeler, James Padgett and Kevin English are to be paid the boosts based on rates of $5.04 an hour.

Nelson said the $4.80 rate, which would produce a $9,975 annual salary, included a five per cent boost over what Strong had received prior to Jan. 1. He had been getting $9,500.

The $5.04 rate would put all four at a $10,500 yearly income level. The other three officers had been getting $10,000 prior to Jan. 1.

Nelson said the increases were due under a council policy whereby officers with one-year on the force should be paid $10,500 yearly.

In a related area, the council was informed by a letter from the state department of labor that a state mediator, Howard Case, had been appointed to mediate the request by policemen to be represented in contract negotiations with the city by the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) lodge 96.

The council had tabled action on the police request for recognition at a special meeting last Thursday.

In other areas, the council approved two policy changes, one saying no amount of money in excess of $25 should be spent by city department heads between council meetings. Exceptions are filling the city vehicle gasoline tanks and in cases of emergency if approval of two committee (administrative, public works finance or police) members is received. The second is that the finance committee is to have access to the treasurer's books at all times. If the treasurer is not available, the books should be left with the police department.

Representatives from Wightman & Associates, St. Joseph, were on hand to discuss preliminary drawings on remodeling city hall (old A&P store); advertising for bids for installation and repair of city sidewalks; and hiring a rate consultant and bonding counsel for the city sewer project.

The old A&P store needs to have additional floor structure support to hold a meeting hall crowd and the weight of files and the ceiling should be lowered, Wightman representatives said.

The city will begin advertising for bids on the sidewalk project Saturday in two area newspapers. The city recently received a $294,000 federal grant for the project which will include 42,000 lineal feet of sidewalk work. Bid opening would be 30 days after initial advertising publication, with construction expected to begin in another 30 days, Wightman representatives said.

The city attorney will be contacted in regards to hiring the sewer rate consultant and bonding counsel.

The council approved correcting a sewer billing to Mrs. Robert Brookfield from $210 to $102. The bill was for 1975 and 1976 service.

A request for a meeting of the city building board of appeals was granted to Mrs. Todd Eiting, who's contesting a stop-work order issued by the city. Her home was recently moved into the city without a building permit and she has not been allowed to hook-up to city services.

The council agreed to an insurance settlement of $16,966 for damage caused by a recent fire at the city garage in January. The board also approved paying for a new pair of glasses for Homer Jackson, public works superintendent, which were destroyed in the fire, but not included in the insurance settlement.

Lee Spencer, police chief, was told to draw up specifications for a new police car and present it to the police committee for presentation at the next meeting.

Most Property Taxes Paid By Deadline, Pipestone Told

EAU CLAIRE — The Pipestone township board was informed last night that 90 per cent of the 1976 township property taxes had been collected prior to yesterday's deadline.

Richard Skibbe, township treasurer, said the 90 per cent figure is "right in the ballpark" as compared to collections prior to deadline in previous years. He said its usually 89 to 91 per cent.

Township residents who did not pay their property taxes by Feb. 28 must now pay a four per cent penalty, plus three-quarters of a percent per month, Skibbe said. Property taxes must now be paid at the county courthouse.

In other areas, the board voiced no objection on a request to the state by Mrs. Virginia Schilling, route 2, Eau Claire, that her land be kept or classified as agricultural for the next 10 years. The request was made so that property assessments for tax purposes are based on the agricultural use and not as determined by values of surrounding properties.

The board is also in the process of preparing its new budget for presentation at the annual meeting, April 2, according to Skibbe. Budget requests should be made early for consideration, he said.

HARTFORD — The city council meeting here was temporarily interrupted last night when a man with blood on his face entered city hall and collapsed unconscious.

City police identified the man as Philip Soleske Jr., of Fairhope drive, Hartford, and said no determination had been made yet on how the man was injured.

Soleske was reported in fairly good condition in Community hospital, Watervliet, this morning. He was taken to the hospital from city hall by Hartford ambulance last night.

Bloom'dale High Expansion Topic For Architects

BLOOMINGDALE — Area architects are to be asked to attend a special March 14 school board meeting here to outline possible ways to expand Bloomingdale high school.

The school board last night instructed Dr. Donald Dragoo, schools superintendent, to contact architects and ask them to attend. The board did not specify what architects would be invited.

A citizens advisory committee on district building needs is to be present also. The meeting is to be held in the high school starting at 8 p.m.

The board is seeking input from the community in an effort to expand the present facilities to eliminate split sessions. Dragoo has previously stated that 12 more teaching stations, a library resource center, a music room and a drafting room are needed to end split sessions.

The school district was recently denied a $1.5 million federal grant application for additions to the Pullman school and remodeling or additions at Grand Junction elementary or at the high school.

In other areas, the board approved a request from Michael Jurgensen, middle school science teacher, to take 12 of his students at a time on nature-vacations to Isle Royal National Park and the Upper Peninsula at various times from July 15 through Aug. 20.

The students would pay full expenses and would be joined by middle school science students from Gladwin, taught by Jurgensen's brother.

The board was informed that the state education department has reversed a Van Buren county intermediate board decision which denied transferring the James Lisowski property to the Gobles school district. The state decision has transferred the property to Gobles district from the Bloomingdale district.

The Lisowski family until last year lived on the Gobles side of 38th street, until selling some of their property and moving across the street, which is in the Bloomingdale district. They have seven children in grades 1-10 and wanted their children to continue to attend Gobles schools with their friends.

A letter of resignation from Gerry Doolittle, board member and secretary was accepted, effective May 1. Doolittle has accepted a job as director of the Twin Wells school in Sun Valley, Ariz. His term on the board ends in June, 1978. An appointment to replace Doolittle would be made in the future.

It was announced that the terms of board members Roger Templeman and Ronald Bodtke expire this June and nominating petitions are now available at the superintendent's office.

A request from the Van Buren county health department for $300 to continue its mental health program in conjunction with county public schools was approved by a 4-2 vote. Voting for the donation were Kay Johnson, Ray Melvin, Templeman and Doolittle. Voting against it were Fred Rawson and James Muenser.

The board also accepted the gift of a bookkeeping machine from the Bloomingdale branch of the Citizens Trust and Savings bank.

Yemen Airliner Crashes At Aden

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A South Yemen Airways DC3 airliner crashed near Aden today, killing all persons aboard, the Iraqi news agency reported.

The dispatch did not say how many persons were aboard or what their nationalities were. But it said the plane was on a domestic flight inside South Yemen.

SOUTH HAVEN

Bid To Rebuild House Accepted

SOUTH HAVEN — The low $19,600 bid of Henry Wiatrowski construction of South Haven to rebuild a burned-out home in the city's public housing project was accepted by the housing commission last night.

The home was extensively damaged by fire last summer. An infant child died from burns suffered in the blaze.

In other matters, the commission was notified by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that it can give an additional $10 utility credit in March for tenants in the family housing program. The additional credit is to help offset utility bills which have escalated because of the cold weather.

The commission authorized seeking bids for placing additional insulation in the crawl spaces in houses in the family housing program. Cost of work to the 50 homes is $13,000.

Commission members were asked to investigate possible sites for a proposed tot lot to serve children in the family housing program area. Creation of the tot lot will funded by a federal community block grant recently awarded the city.

BH Man, 20, Is Reported Missing

REGINALD HARRIS

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Reginald Arnel Harris, 20, of 507 Britain avenue, Benton Harbor, is asked to contact either the Benton Harbor police department or his mother, Lenora Harris.

He disappeared from home on Feb. 23, after 10 p.m., according to his mother, who added that he requires regular medication and did not take his medicine with him.

He was wearing a blue three-quarter length jacket with a fur-trimmed hood.

Meeting Halted By Hurt Man

HARTFORD — The city council meeting here was temporarily interrupted last night when a man with blood on his face entered city hall and collapsed unconscious.

City police identified the man as Philip Soleske Jr., of Fairhope drive, Hartford, and said no determination had been made yet on how the man was injured.

Soleske was reported in fairly good condition in Community hospital, Watervliet, this morning. He was taken to the hospital from city hall by Hartford ambulance last night.

Twelve Chicago Firms Indicted By Grand Jury

CHICAGO (AP) — Twelve Chicago-area corporations and three executives have been charged by a federal grand jury with bid rigging and mail fraud involving $51.5 million in contracts for work at O'Hare International Airport and on the Stevenson Expressway.

U.S. District Atty. Samuel Skinner said Mohday in announcing the return of the indictments that they contain "some of the most serious charges ever brought in cases such as this in the country ... Everyone should get the message."

Two of the executives also were charged with racketeering in one of the indictments, involving a July 1974 runway project at O'Hare International Airport. They are Thomas J. Bowler, owner and chief executive officer of the Brighton Building and Maintenance Co. and George B. Krug Sr., major stockholder and secretary of Krug Excavating Co.

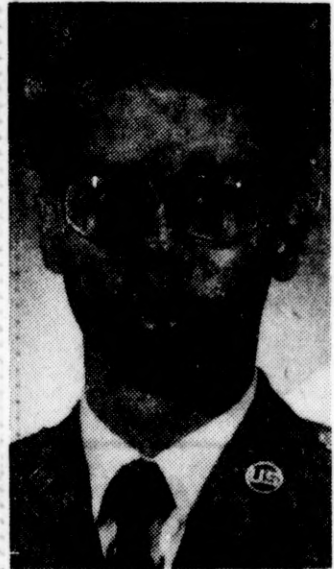

Brighton and Krug have worked together on many highway projects in the Chicago area.

Brighton Building and Maintenance employed Chicago Mayor Michael Bilandic as attorney and registered agent when Bilandic was 11th ward alderman. A spokesman for Bilandic said the law firm severed its relationship with Brighton in 1972 at Bilandic's request.

Besides Bowler, Krug and their companies, those charged with violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act and mail fraud in the 1974 O'Hare project are: Arcole Midwest Corp. of Evanston, Allied Asphalt Paving Co. of Chicago, Union Contracting & Materials Co. of Chicago and Robert R. Anderson Co. of Chicago.

A second indictment charges violation of the Sherman Act and mail fraud involving bid rigging involving an O'Hare runway project in May 1975. Those named are: Bowler and his company, Marterial Service Corp. and its senior vice president, Gerald R. Nagel, Allied Asphalt, Arcole Midwest and Robert R. Anderson Co.

Bangor Graduate Recruiting In BH

Airman Basic David L. Johnson, a recent graduate of the Air Force Technical Training center at Wichita Falls, Tex., and a 1976 Bangor high school graduate, is temporarily assigned to recruiting duty at Fairplain Plaza.

Johnson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson, 522 Lincoln avenue, Bangor, will work with T-Sgt. Wayne L. Roberts, Air Force recruiter at the recruiting office at Fairplain Plaza.

Johnson completed dental specialist school at Sheppard AFB Technical Training center, and has been assigned to Patrick AFB in Florida. He is to report to Patrick AFB after completing the recruiting stint here.

RIVER VALLEY

New Pacts Offered To Administrators

THREE OAKS — The River Valley school board voted last night to offer new contracts to all its administrative faculty members.

Board members said 1977-78 salaries are to be determined at a later date. The contracts would start with the 1977-78 school year.

A three-year contract was offered Dr. Charles Williams, superintendent, and two-year contracts were offered Dr. John Dooley, assistant superintendent; Donald Bussler, high school principal; Thomas Shook, Three Oaks elementary and middle school principal; Peter Petros, New Troy elementary and middle school principal; Robert Schroeder, Chikaming elementary principal; and Larry Fisher, community school director.

One-year contracts were offered to James White, assistant high school principal and athletic director; Jay Medek, assistant principal at the Three Oaks school and junior high athletic director; and Mrs. Margaret Topping, library coordinator.

In other personnel action, Tom Wilcox, head football coach, was approved by the board to serve, in addition, as head track coach in the coming school year.

A blue ribbon committee to study alternatives to River Valley building and curriculum problems was selected by the board.

The committee, which is to work with Dr. Williams, is to submit its report to the board at the second board meeting in June.

Committee members include Jim Hall, Michael Mendus, George Lozmack, Mrs. Millie Dinges, Mrs. Elizabeth Mercier, Rev. Larry Irvine, Mrs. Lillian Merich, Ed Leonard, Gary Sommers, James Zabel, Mrs. Vicki Hauch and Mrs. Judy Pongaleak.

The board also approved Friday, June 3, as the date for the 1977 River Valley graduation ceremony. Classes and final exams for students in grades 9-11 will continue through the following week.

Schuler's Honors 14 At Awards Banquet

Fourteen employees of Win Schuler's Stevensville restaurant were honored recently for service ranging from five to 25 years.

Richard Tysman and John Moore were cited for 25 years of service during the chain's service awards banquet in Ann Arbor, recently.

Others from the Stevensville restaurant were, Emma Malone and Hazel Whittemeyer, 20 years each; Jessie Anderson, Barbara Eckel, Frieda Yerke, Peggy Huebner, and Lulu Taylor, 10 years each; and Shirley Demler, Yvonne Vidt, Denise Klann, Talia Grieger, and Elaine Burnett, five years each.

Schuler's has operated its Stevensville restaurant on Red Arrow highway since July, 1954. Schuler's also operates restaurants at Marshall, headquarters for the chain, and at Jackson, Ann Arbor, East Lansing, Flint and West Bloomfield.

Bloom'dale High Expansion Topic For Architects

BLOOMINGDALE — Area architects are to be asked to attend a special March 14 school board meeting here to outline possible ways to expand Bloomingdale high school.

The school board last night instructed Dr. Donald Dragon, schools superintendent, to contact architects and ask them to attend. The board did not specify what architects would be invited.

A citizens advisory committee on district building needs is to be present also. The meeting is to be held in the high school starting at 8 p.m.

The board is seeking input from the community in an effort to expand the present facilities to eliminate split sessions. Dragon has previously stated that 12 more teaching stations, a library resource center, a music room and a drafting room are needed to end split sessions.

The school district was recently denied a $1.5 million federal grant application for additions to the Pullman school and remodeling or additions at Grand Junction elementary or at the high school.

In other areas, the board approved a request from Michael Jurgensen, middle school science teacher, to take 12 of his students at a time on nature-vacations to Isle Royal National Park and the Upper Peninsula at various times from July 15 through Aug. 20.

The students would pay full expenses and would be joined by middle school science students from Gladwin, taught by Jurgensen's brother.

The board was informed that the state education department has reversed a Van Buren county intermediate board decision which denied transferring the James Lisowski property to the Gobles school district. The state decision has transferred the property to Gobles district from the Bloomingdale district.

The Lisowski family until last year lived on the Gobles side of 38th street, until selling some of their property and moving across the street, which is in the Bloomingdale district. They have seven children in grades 1-10 and wanted their children to continue to attend Gobles schools with their friends.

A letter of resignation from Gerry Doolittle, board member and secretary was accepted, effective May 1. Doolittle has accepted a job as director of the Twin Wells school in Sun Valley, Ariz. His term on the board ends in June, 1978. An appointment to replace Doolittle would be made in the future.

It was announced that the terms of board members Roger Templeman and Ronald Bortke expire this June and nominating petitions are now available at the superintendent's office.

A request from the Van Buren county health department for $300 to continue its mental health program in conjunction with county public schools was approved by a 4-2 vote. Voting for the donation were Kay Johnson, Ray Melvin, Templeman and Doolittle. Voting against it were Fred Rawson and James Muenser.

The board also accepted the gift of a bookkeeping machine from the Bloomingdale branch of the Citizens Trust and Savings bank.

Yemen Airliner Crashes At Aden

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A South Yemen Airways DC3 airliner crashed near Aden today, killing all persons aboard, the Iraqi news agency reported.

The dispatch did not say how many persons were aboard or what their nationalities were. But it said the plane was on a domestic flight inside South Yemen.

SOUTH HAVEN

Bid To Rebuild House Accepted

SOUTH HAVEN — The low $19,600 bid of Henry Wiatrowski, construction of South Haven to rebuild a burned-out home in the city's public housing project was accepted by the housing commission last night.

The home was extensively damaged by fire last summer. An infant child died from burns suffered in the blaze.

In other matters, the commission was notified by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that it can give an additional $10 utility credit in March for tenants in the family housing program. The additional credit is to help offset utility bills which have escalated because of the cold weather.

The commission authorized seeking bids for placing additional insulation in the crawl spaces in houses in the family housing program. Cost of work to the 50 homes is $13,000.

Commission members were asked to investigate possible sites for a proposed lot to serve children in the family housing program area. Creation of the lot will fund by a federal community block grant recently awarded the city.

New Buffalo Review Board Meetings Set

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo township board of review will review township tax rolls from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., March 14; from 4 to 10 p.m., March 15; and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., March 19, according to Supervisor Edward Ohme.

BH Man, 20, Is Reported Missing

REGINALD HARRIS

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Reginald Arnel Harris, 20, of 507 Britain avenue, Benton Harbor, is asked to contact either the Benton Harbor police department or his mother, Lenora Harris.

He disappeared from home on Feb. 23, after 10 p.m., according to his mother, who added that he requires regular medication and did not take his medicine with him.

He was wearing a blue three-quarter length jacket with a fur-fringed hood.

Oldsters' Housing Plan Unveiled To Coloma Twp.

COLOMA — A committee appointed by Coloma township board to develop a senior citizens housing project unveiled plans for the development to the Coloma township planning commission last night.

But John Chiviges, chairman of the Coloma township senior citizen building committee, said today he fears the proposal will run into some opposition at a March 28 rezoning hearing at the township hall.

He said he has already heard some criticism from the planning commission that proposed rentals will be so low on one end that "riff-raff" will be attracted and so high on the other end that senior citizens will be unable to afford the apartments.

Proposed, according to Chiviges, are six two-story buildings which would hold a combined 48 apartment units.

The project, to be developed by Ray Cato Architects of Kalamazoo, would cost between $500,000 and $750,000 and would cost Coloma township taxpayers no money for construction or maintenance, Chiviges said.

He said the architectural firm would get long-term financing through the Farmer's Home

Hartford Buys Shelving

HARTFORD — The Hartford school board last night voted to purchase $35,055 in book and equipment shelving for three buildings, including the building where a 10-year-old girl student was fatally injured by a falling book case last September.

The board purchased the 100 units, all on casters, from the Michigan School Service in Lansing, and allocated 50 of the units for Red Arrow elementary school, 25 for Woodside elementary school and 25 for the middle school. The board labelled the equipment "mobile equipment and easements."

It was at Red Arrow elementary school last September that Tracey Heater, a fifth grade student, was injured when a book case that was allegedly overloaded, toppled over on her. She died at a Kalamazoo hospital two days after the accident.

Her parents have accused the school of negligence and of using unsafe equipment in a four-count, $40,000 lawsuit filed against the school and two administrators.

School officials last night said the new shelving units were purchased from the second-high of four bidders because it is built of better materials and is safer. The low bid was also submitted by Michigan School Service, but on a different type of unit. The low bid was $30,539 on Fleetwood units. Purchased was Stevens brand equipment.

In other action, the board set baccalaureate this year for Sunday, June 5, and commencement for June 9.

Eugene Snider, principal at Red Arrow elementary school, was granted a sabbatical leave. The board granted the leave, effective from Feb. 28 to June 30, upon reconvening after an executive session, according to school officials.

St. Joe Man Gets Veterans Fund Post

Joel D. Arnette, 319 Court street, St. Joseph, has been appointed as a member of the Berrien County Veterans Trust Fund committee for a term ending Dec. 31, 1978. He will serve as the Amvets representative on the committee.

The appointment was announced by the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund board of trustees.

Last year, the Berrien county committee aided 622 veterans, widows and dependents of veterans with assistance totaling $33,608. Throughout the state, 38,202 veterans, widows and dependents were assisted with expenditures totaling $1,625,408, according to the state fund trustees.

Carl Wicks Is Douglas Draw Victor

ALLEGAN — Carl Wicks, former Douglas mayor, was the winner of a drawing here yesterday morning giving him a Republican nomination for one of three Douglas village council seats in the March 14 village election.

Wicks had tied incumbent councilman Bruce Troutman in the GOP primary Feb. 21, causing yesterday's drawing at the Allegan county courthouse, here, according to Russell Sill, county clerk. Troutman is currently Douglas mayor-pro-tem.

Wicks, 55, was mayor of Douglas for five years. He is owner and operator of West Shore Golf club, in Douglas. He along with other GOP primary winners, Larry Phillips and incumbent Richard Snyder will face two Democratic opponents, Larry Hosely and William Shook, for the three available council seats in the village election, March 14.

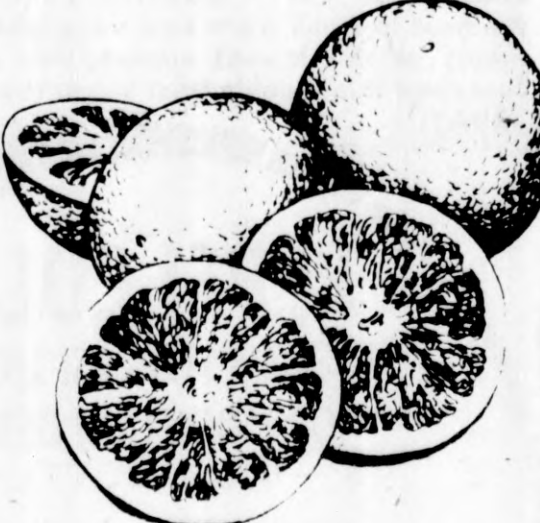

Spain Train Crash Kills 22

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Rescue crews worked all night removing survivors and bodies from the wreckage of two commuter trains that collided head-on in Barcelona's industrial belt.

Officials said the toll so far was 22 killed and 102 injured. About 30 of the injured were reported in serious condition.

The private company that operated both trains said one of the engineers ignored a red light barring him from the one-way track.

Coloma Accepts Drawings For New Car Wash

COLOMA — Drawings for a car wash project approved Feb. 14 by the city commission here were accepted last night by the commission.

The plans for the $50,000 car wash were presented by Louis (Corky) Hubert, DeField road, Coloma township. The plans call for constructing the car wash on the north side of Washington street, just west of a service station.

Hubert told the commission the car wash would contain a total of five bay areas, four for cars, and one truck bay. The cement block building, with brick front, will measure 28 by 72 feet with construction to begin next week.

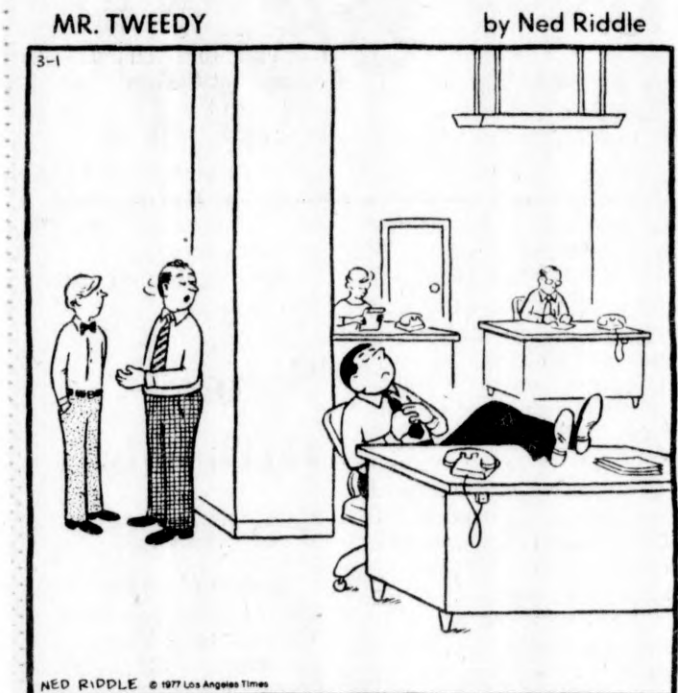

In other areas, the commission approved adjusting the June water billing to offset the amount of water being used by households to prevent water lines from freezing.

Mayor Glenn Randall called for city water users to continue to run water taps until further notice.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, March 1, the 60th day of 1977. There are 305 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

- On this date 1781, the American Articles of Confederation were adopted, paving the way for a Federal union.
- On this date:
 - In 1562, 1,200 French Huguenots were slain in a massacre at Vassy, France, provoking the First War of Religion in France.
 - In 1780, the Pennsylvania legislature passed an act abolishing slavery.
 - In 1867, Nebraska became the 37th state.
 - In 1872, Congress authorized the creation of Yellowstone National Park.
 - In 1932, the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh was kidnapped from the couple's home near Hopewell, N.J.
 - In 1954, five Congressmen were wounded as three Puerto Rican nationalists fired wildly from the gallery of the House of Representatives in Washington.
 - Ten years ago: New York Democratic Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, accused of misconduct, was denied his seat in the 90th Congress by a vote of 307 to 116.
 - Five years ago: The Supreme Court ruled that the Federal Trade Commission has broad powers to bar unfair or deceptive merchandising practices.

Today's birthdays: National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle is 51. Poet Robert Lowell is 60.

Thought for today: The result proves the wisdom of the act. — Ovid, Roman poet, about 43 B.C. to 17 A.D.

V.A. Nurses' Trial Starts

DETROIT (AP) — Two Filipina nurses go on trial today in U.S. District Court after being accused of murdering two patients and poisoning seven others at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The nurses, Leonara Perez, 32, of Ann Arbor and Filipina Narciso, 30, of Ypsilanti, both worked at the hospital's intensive care unit where the mysterious breathing failures occurred in the summer of 1975.

The nurses are charged with using Pavulon or a similar muscle relaxant drug to murder two patients and poison seven others. They were indicted last June following an intensive federal investigation.

The nurses also are charged with conspiring to poison a dozen hospitalized veterans. The women have declared they are innocent of all charges. They face possible life prison terms if convicted on any one of the poisoning or murder counts.

The nurses originally were charged with five murders and 10 poisonings.

The most recent charge dropped was that the nurses poisoned Richard Neely, 63, a retired factory worker from Oshtemo, Ind., who is dying of cancer.

Neely had been considered a key government witness because he was the only surviving victim who claimed to have seen one of the two accused nurses at the time of an attack. U.S. Atty. Philip Van Dam, however, said Neely will not be called to testify for the prosecution at the trial.

Defense witnesses damaged Neely's credibility during preliminary hearings when they testified Neely had a history of heavy drinking and memory problems. It also was revealed that Neely had given numerous conflicting statements to FBI agents and others.

Coloma School Board Approves Limitations On Visitors To Prom

COLOMA — The Coloma school board last night approved a high school student council proposal to limit visiting by non-participants at the annual junior-senior prom.

The proposal would permit non-guests, including parents, to visit for the 45 minutes before the prom begins and for 30 minutes after the prom officially gets underway.

Some of the reasons given for the limitation included visiting had been abused in the past, and the event is primarily for juniors and seniors.

In other areas, the board approved raising the hourly wage for driver education teachers from $5.50 to $6 effective today, March 1.

The board approved a proposal from Coloma high school art teacher Mrs. Carol Johnson to permit 11 third-year art students to paint murals in the high school during class periods.

Supt. William Barrett announced a 14-member committee has been formed to work out arrangements for furnishing cheerleaders for both boys and girls basketball and boys football next year.

The board approved a purchase of air compressor from Ingersoll-Rand Co., Goshen, Ind., for $2,123, including installation. The air compressor, to be purchased from vocational education funds, will be used by the vocational shop and art department.

Oldsters' Housing Plan Unveiled To Coloma Twp.

COLOMA — A committee appointed by Coloma township board to develop a senior citizens housing project unveiled plans for the development to the Coloma township planning commission last night.

But John Chiviges, chairman of the Coloma township senior citizens building committee, said today he fears the proposal will run into some opposition at a March 28 rezoning hearing at the township hall.

He said he has already heard some criticism from the planning commission that proposed rentals will be so low on one end that "riff-raff" will be attracted and so high on the other end that senior citizens will be unable to afford the apartments.

Proposed, according to Chiviges, are six two-story buildings which would hold a combined 48 apartment units.

The project, to be developed by Ray Cato Architects of Kalamazoo, would cost between $500,000 and $750,000 and would cost Coloma township taxpayers no money for construction or maintenance, Chiviges said.

He said the architectural firm would get long-term financing through the Farmer's Home

Hartford Buys Shelving

HARTFORD — The Hartford school board last night voted to purchase $35,055 in book and equipment shelving for three buildings, including the building where a 10-year-old girl student was fatally injured by a falling book case last September.

The board purchased the 100 units, all on casters, from the Michigan School Service, in Lansing, and allocated 30 of the units for Red Arrow elementary school, 25 for Woodside elementary and 25 for the middle school. The board labelled the equipment "mobile equipment and easements."

It was at Red Arrow elementary school last September that Tracey Healer, a fifth grade student, was injured when a book case that was allegedly overloaded, toppled over on her. She died at a Kalamazoo hospital two days after the accident.

Her parents have accused the school of negligence and of using unsafe equipment in a four-count, $40,000 lawsuit filed against the school and two administrators.

School officials last night said the new shelving units were purchased from the second-high of four bidders because it is built of better materials and is safer. The low bid was also submitted by Michigan School Service, but on a different type of unit. The low bid was $30,539 on Fleetwood units. Purchased was Stevens brand equipment.

In other action, the board set baccalaureate this year for Sunday, June 5, and commencement for June 8.

Eugene Snider, principal at Red Arrow elementary school, was granted a sabbatical leave. The board granted the leave, effective from Feb. 28 to June 30, upon reconvening after an executive session, according to school officials.

St. Joe Man Gets Veterans Fund Post

Joel D. Arnette, 319 Court street, St. Joseph, has been appointed as a member of the Berrien County Veterans Trust Fund committee for a term ending Dec. 31, 1978. He will serve as the Arnette representative on the committee.

The appointment was announced by the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund board of trustees.

Last year, the Berrien county committee aided 622 veterans, widows and dependents of veterans with assistance totaling $33,608. Throughout the state, 38,202 veterans, widows and dependents were assisted with expenditures totaling $1,025,408, according to the state fund trustees.

Carl Wicks Is Douglas Draw Victor

ALLEGAN — Carl Wicks, former Douglas mayor, was the winner of a drawing here yesterday morning giving him a Republican nomination for one of three Douglas village council seats in the March 14 village election.

Wicks had tied incumbent councilman Bruce Troutman in the GOP primary Feb. 21, causing yesterday's drawing at the Allegan county courthouse, here, according to Russell Sill, county clerk. Troutman is currently Douglas mayor-pro-tem.

Wicks, 55, was mayor of Douglas for five years. He is owner and operator of West Shore Golf club, in Douglas. He along with other GOP primary winners, Larry Phillips and incumbent Richard Snyder will face two Democratic opponents, Larry Hosely and William Shook, for the three available council seats in the village election, March 14.

Spain Train Crash Kills 22

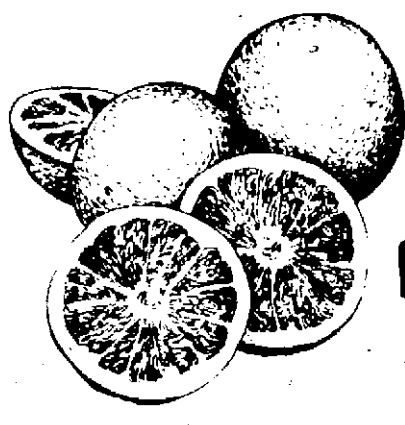

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Rescue crews worked all night removing survivors and bodies from the wreckage of two commuter trains that collided head-on in Barcelona's industrial belt.

Officials said the toll so far was 22 killed and 102 injured. About 90 of the injured were reported in serious condition.

Carter Asking New Energy Department

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is asking Congress to form a new Cabinet Department of Energy that administration officials say will lodge most of the government's existing energy programs under one roof.

Carter planned to send his request to Congress today.

The legislation would abolish the Federal Energy Administration, the Energy Research and Development Administration and the Federal Power Commission and transfer their functions to the new department, along with parts of seven other agencies that deal with energy.

James R. Schlesinger, whom Carter plans to nominate as the nation's first Secretary of Energy, said the move is a "means to coordinate" the nation's now-fragmented energy policy and should not be viewed as a solution to energy shortages.

"We need both conservation and production if our energy program is to be effective," Schlesinger told a National Governors Conference luncheon on Monday as he highlighted parts of the President's program.

A key part of the plan, Schlesinger said, is that it leaves with the Interior Department the primary responsibility for leasing federal lands and the Outer Continental Shelf for energy development.

But it also gives the new agency a say on the rate at which these gas, oil and coal leases are to be issued, he said.

According to congressional sources, this represents a major compromise aimed at appeasing environmentalists in Congress who had vowed to fight any plan that stripped Interior of its leasing responsibilities.

Under the President's plan, other units in the Interior Department dealing exclusively with energy development — including four regional power authorities and parts of the Bureau of Mines, Bureau of Land Reclamation and U.S. Geological Survey — would be transferred to the new department.

It would also take in energy programs now contained in the Departments of Commerce, Housing and Urban Development, the Security and Exchange Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In all, the proposal would consolidate 19 separate energy programs now scattered throughout the federal government, according to Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., who plans to introduce the President's bill in the Senate.

Ribicoff said his Governmental Affairs Committee will begin hearings on the legislation next Monday.

Congressional sources said that issues involved in the reorganization are so complex, however, that Congress will probably take most of the year before completing work on the President's proposal.

Carter has said he also will send Congress around April 20 a comprehensive energy policy bill dealing with conservation and fuel supplies.

CBS News said Monday night it learned from authoritative sources that Carter is giving serious consideration to proposing "a tax in the range of 25 cents a gallon" on gasoline as part of that comprehensive energy policy.

Schlesinger declined to respond to an inquiry about the report.

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, was skeptical. "They've not consulted me about it," he said. "I'd think they would."

Jackson added: "Congress is not about to approve any 25-cent tax on gasoline. That's 90 cents a gallon (total price). Candidly, that's not going to fly." He said gasoline prices have doubled in the past three years and demand has not dropped.

The senator said consumption elasticity figures indicate the price of gasoline would have to be doubled — to more than $1.20 a gallon — before consumption would drop 15 percent.

Carter's proposal to include the FPC and other energy-regulation units in the same department with programs that promote energy development may be controversial, congressional leaders are claiming.

It was a desire to separate these functions that led Congress in 1974 to replace the Atomic Energy Commission with two agencies — ERDA and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Carter's proposal leaves the NRC alone. And it attempts to resolve the competing interests of development and regulation by proposing an energy regulation administration with the new department to deal with rate-making and fuel allocation,

POLICE ROUNDUP

Armed Robbery At Dairy Store

A man carrying what witnesses said was a .22 caliber rifle robbed the Cass Dairy Store, 868 Euclid avenue, Monday night of an undetermined amount of cash, Benton township police said.

Two store employees, who were behind the counter when the robbery occurred, said a man, wearing a brown coat, tan pants and a green stocking cap, walked through the front door with a rifle pointed at them.

After telling employees Jack Hensley and Barbara Morris to put all the money from the store's cash register into a brown paper sack, the man fled with the sack in his hand, Benton township Detective Sgt. Roger Peters said. No one was injured during the robbery which was reported about 8:30, township police said.

The youth refused at first to turn over the knife and threatened to kill both patrolmen. However the boy turned over the knife voluntarily, police said.

The youth was lodged in the Berrien Juvenile Detention Center, Berrien Springs, pending the issuance of a petition for him to appear in juvenile court.

Benton Harbor police said they are seeking a man in connection with the alleged assault Monday afternoon with a five-inch long hunting knife on Ed Parmer, Jr., 17, of 191 Windsor road, St. Joseph township.

Parmer, who was unhurt, told police he was assaulted by a male acquaintance in the 700 block of Highland avenue, Benton Harbor.

Parmer said the man wanted to meet him to repay Parmer some money. But when they met, the man drew a knife, Parmer said. Police said Parmer was able to disarm his alleged attacker, who fled on foot after the incident.

A Benton Harbor youth and a 15-year-old juvenile were arrested and charged with breaking and entering early this morning after patrolmen received a report that two men were inside Cavalier's Record Shop, 918 Broadway, Benton Harbor police said.

Benton Harbor police Sgt. Dwight Claustre and Patrolman Delmar Lange said they were summoned to the store at 4:20 a.m. today.

Duncan Williams, 17, of 649 McGowan avenue was arrested and lodged in the Berrien county jail, and the boy was lodged in the Berrien Juvenile Detention Center, Berrien Springs, police said.

Police said two persons were inside the store when Claustre and Lange arrived. They pair surrendered to police inside the store without a struggle, police said.

— $215 cash in a $5, $10 and $20 bills from a drawer in the apartment of Ida Bassette, 66, of 922 Lake boulevard, St. Joseph police said.

— A 21-inch black and white television from the home of Albert A. Self, 23, of 370 Hignman Park road, Benton township, Berrien county deputies reported.

— Four hubcaps valued at $208 from a car belonging to Stanley Miller of 2163 Samuel avenue, St. Joseph township, while the car was parked at Gersondes Bowling Alley, 2705 Cleveland avenue, St. Joseph township police reported.

— A furnace motor and a shag rug valued together at $80 from an unoccupied house, 559 East Blackwell, 31, of Covert, Benton Harbor police said.

— A bicycle valued at $100, owned by Eugene McAndrews, 14, of 1236 Jennings avenue, from the yard near his home, Benton Harbor police said.

— Two batteries valued together at $60, owned by Racho Jeschke, 47, of Stevensville, from Jeschke's auto and garage, Berrien county deputies reported.

A 16-year-old Benton township boy was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon for allegedly threatening his father with a paring knife, township police said.

Benton township Patrolmen Steve Hansen and Robert Polmanteer said they were summoned about 6 p.m. Monday to 547 Boynton street on a report of a family argument there.

When the patrolmen arrived they found a youth threatening L.D. Fuse in the basement of the house, police said.

asked. "To an extent," Figlus said. "At first she refused but she consented after I punched her in the nose." He added that he was unsure if Miss Armstrong knew he had a knife.

Byrns asked why the young women was stabbed so many times, and Figlus responded: "I don't know."

He said after he had stabbed her he took a shower at the Armstrong home, then went to a grocery store and purchased two cans of pop "because I was thirsty."

He said he then went to St. Joseph high school, where he was a tenth grader, and visited the school nurse to have his fingers bandaged "because when I was stabbing her I cut myself."

In a press release issued this morning, Smetanka said Miss Armstrong "was stabbed some 33 times and killed at her home by the defendant (Figlus) acting alone. He also raped her."

Smetanka said the knife used in the murder has not been found.

Smetanka's statement said: "On the evening of the killing, the investigating officers, members of our staff and I thoroughly discussed the evidence we had available to us, the likelihood of a conviction, and the immediate necessity of assuring that the act was the act of the defendant and him alone."

"Realizing that the maximum penalties for first and second degree murder are, in practice, virtually the same (life maximum for both), with the full agreement of the St. Joseph police department officers, I offered David Figlus, through his attorney, the opportunity to plead guilty to second degree murder in return for a full statement of how the killing occurred. They accepted this offer."

"Later events have not changed my assessment of the case. In any trial to a jury or a judge, there is always an element of chance of a verdict of not guilty. The public welfare demands that in this case that chance be eliminated."

"The St. Joseph police have expressed their unqualified agreement with this decision."

"There remains something to be clarified about this case. Unfortunately in all such cases, rumors tend to spread through the community. Some can never be traced and stopped. However, the scientific evidence in this case clearly established that Dona Armstrong had no alcohol in her system at her death nor was there the slightest indication of any use of drugs."

"Both these findings were made by the Michigan Public Health Laboratory chemist David DeVries after careful examination. The evidence shows further, no provocation of any kind by Dona Armstrong."

"This case has affected everyone involved in it very deeply, (causing) intense hurt and tragedy in the Armstrong and Figlus families. I will have a strong recommendation to the sentencing judge and the correction authorities, but final disposition of this case is theirs."

Washington and the state capitals.

"We discussed the need for collaboration to deal with our economic problems, to overcome our energy shortages, to deal with the cold and the drought and make government work more economically and effectively at all levels," Askew said. "The President concluded by saying that the job will be easier for the federal government if the states meet it halfway."

Askew said Carter and his top aides are "trying to listen to what we say."

"Now having a former governor in the White House unquestionably in our minds will make a substantial amount of difference in what will be a meaningful relationship," he said. "But we also are trying to be candid with each other in recognizing that this has been the goal of many past administrations."

He added, "It's difficult to perfect the mechanism to establish it."

Askew said the administration already has enlisted the governors to work on welfare reform and on changes in the Medicaid system of care for the needy. They also have been invited to make proposals for the energy policy message Carter has promised by about April 20.

Askew said the day to day system of communication will have to be perfected so that a governor with a problem or an idea to offer knows "who you talk to, and to insure that the telephone calls are returned...."

The Florida governor said his aides are not only by Carter aides but by the President.

But there were no calls to the governors before Carter announced the cancellation of 19 water resources development projects to cut $288 million from his revised budget. All told, it would take $5.1 billion to complete those projects, located in 14 states.

crushed off East Africa, President Carter and other administration officials said there was no cause for alarm. The White House said Monday that the President sent a message to Amin thanking him for his assurances that the U.S. citizens in Uganda were not in danger.

Radio Uganda said Amin, in a "joyful mood," met Monday with a small group of Americans and other foreigners working for Uganda Airlines, thanked them for their work and called them "brothers and sisters" of Ugandans.

The Swiss charter airline Balair reported that a "third party" acting for the U.S. government approached it during the weekend while the situation was still tense and inquired whether it could evacuate the Americans in Uganda.

"We said yes," said a spokesman for the airline, which has headquarters in Basel and which flown many missions for the International Red Cross.

The spokesman added that the approach to it was viewed as a "cautious inquiry."

Convicted On New Gun Law

DETROIT (AP) — Three Detroit men who committed two armed robberies on the same day managed to get concurrent two and five-year jail sentences under the state's new gun law.

Recorder's Judge Susan Borman gave the trio two-year terms for the first felony and five for the second. She also gave each a sentence of a year and a day to five years for armed robbery and assault with intent to rob.

All three will have to serve at least a year and a day on the robbery charges, the court said.

The new law, which took effect Jan. 1, made a two-year sentence mandatory for anyone using a gun in a felony and five years mandatory for a second offense. Several persons have been sent to jail on the two-year clause but the sentences Monday were the first on the five-year section of the law.

The defendants were Gilbert Moore, 19; Billy Ray Davis, 17; and Billy Willis, 24. They pleaded guilty Feb. 14 to charges in the two incidents Jan. 4.

School Officials To Meet

Members of the Berrien-Cass school boards association will hold their annual spring meeting March 17 at the Ramada Inn, south of Benton Harbor.

The program, which begins with dinner at 7 p.m., will feature a video tape presentation by Dr. Morris Massey, director of graduate studies at the University of Colorado.

The association is made up of 17 boards of education from school districts in Berrien and Cass counties.

Coloma Accepts Drawings For New Car Wash

COLOMA — Drawings for a car wash project approved Feb. 14 by the city commission here were accepted last night by the commission.

The plans for the $50,000 car wash were presented by Louis (Corky) Hubert, DeField road, Coloma township. The plans call for constructing the car wash on the north side of Washington street, just west of a service station.

Hubert told the commission the car wash would contain a total of five bay areas, four for cars, and one truck bay. The cement block building, with brick front, will measure 28 by 72 feet with construction to begin next week.

In other areas, the commission approved adjusting the June water billing to offset the amount of water being used by households to prevent water lines from freezing.

Mayor Glenn Randall called for city water users to continue to run water taps until further notice.

Commissioner William Weybright reported he is researching a new telephone program for the city police department which would reduce the number of telephone calls being answered by the county sheriff's department. The sheriff's department now gets the calls to the city department when no one is at the station to answer.

According to Weybright, the sheriff department is overloaded with calls and the new system is one of several proposals being reviewed.

Coloma Police Chief Kenneth Unruh said approximately 60 per cent of the calls into the police station are administrative (non-emergency type).

Mayor Randall suggested the Coloma Gladiolus festival committee consider relocating the Key to the Cities tour by Blossomtime, Inc., in Coloma from Baker park to the Coloma high school parking lot. The festival committee makes arrangements for the stop on the tour.

Randall said he made the suggestion because the weather is unpredictable and the move to the high school parking lot would permit a move into the building, if necessary. He also said the change would permit better attendance and eliminate a traffic thump near the park.

announced load limit signs have been posted on city streets, coinciding with county weight limits being placed into effect on county roads.

V.A. Nurses' Trial Starts

DETROIT (AP) — Two Filipino nurses go on trial today in U.S. District Court after being accused of murdering two patients and poisoning seven others at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The nurses, Leonora Perez, 32, of Ann Arbor and Filipina Narciso, 30, of Ypsilanti, both worked at the hospital's intensive care unit where the mysterious breathing failures occurred in the summer of 1975.

The nurses are charged with using Pavulon, a similar muscle relaxant drug to murder two patients and poison seven others. They were indicted last June following an intensive federal investigation.

The nurses also are charged with conspiring to poison a dozen hospitalized veterans. The women have declared they are innocent of all charges. They face possible life prison terms if convicted on any one of the poisoning or murder counts.

The nurses originally were charged with five murders and 10 poisonings.

The most recent charge dropped was that the nurses poisoned Richard Neely, 63, a retired factory worker from Decatur, Ind., who is dying of cancer.

Neely had been considered a key government witness because he was the only surviving victim who claimed to have seen one of the two accused nurses at the time of an attack. U.S. Atty. Philip Van Dam, however, said Neely will not be called to testify for the prosecution at the trial.

Defense witnesses damaged Neely's credibility during preliminary hearings when they testified Neely had a history of heavy drinking and memory problems. It also was revealed that Neely had given numerous conflicting statements to FBI agents and others.

Coloma School Board Approves Limitations On Visitors To Prom

COLOMA — The Coloma school board last night approved a high school student council proposal to limit visiting by non-participants at the annual junior-senior prom.

The proposal would permit non-guests, including parents, to visit for the 45 minutes before the prom begins and for 30 minutes after the prom officially gets underway.

Some of the reasons given for the limitation included visiting had been abused in the past, and the event is primarily for juniors and seniors.

In other areas, the board approved raising the hourly wage for driver education teachers from $5.50 to $6 effective today, March 1.

The board approved a proposal from Coloma high school art teacher Mrs. Carol Johnson to permit 11 third-year art students to paint murals in the high school during class periods.

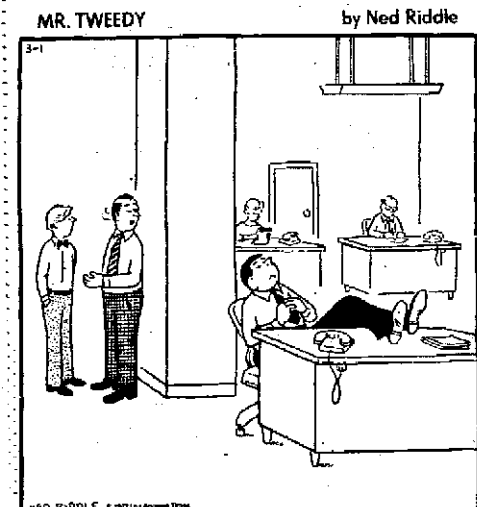

Supt. William Barrett announced a 14-member committee has been formed to work out arrangements for furnishing cheerleaders for both boys and girls basketball and boys football next year.

The board approved a purchase of air compressor from Ingersoll-Rand Co., Gushen, Ind., for $2,123, including installation. The air compressor, to be purchased from vocational education funds, will be used by the vocational shop and art department.

Fraud's Up, MESC Director Concedes

DETROIT (AP) — A lack of investigators has prevented officials from determining how much fraud has hit the Michigan Employment Security Commission, according to the head of the agency.

Conceding that fraud has increased alarmingly, MESC Director S. Martin Taylor said at a news conference Monday the office has more fraud now than it used to.

(During a Jan. 26 speech before the members of the Southwestern Michigan Personnel Roundtable in St. Joseph, Taylor said MESC would have to triple its number of employees to check the honesty of people receiving compensation.)

"But we are so inadequately staffed that it is hard to ferret out all incidence of fraud," he explained.

Taylor called the press conference to rebut published reports that the agency was beset by sweeping fraud on the part of the unemployed and MESC employees.

While fraud is a problem, Taylor said, it is not as bad as the reports indicated. He also took issue with the tone of a story in the Detroit Free Press, which he accused of portraying the unemployed and MESC employees as crooks.

Taylor said he was not personally "thin-skinned" but thought it was unfair "to slander a social program that is so vitally needed by so many people."

In the past 2½ years, 22

MESC employees have been fired or prosecuted for fraud totaling $87,000, Taylor said. But he said the amount of employee fraud probably was greater than that.

The MESC is seeking restitution of some $7 million in claims paid out during the past five years, but Taylor said only 14 per cent of the claims involved fraud. The majority of the cases involved questions of eligibility and clerical errors, he said.

The MESC has about 4,000 employees and in fiscal 1976, 20 million claim forms were processed.

The agency has 32 MESC investigators, Taylor said, terming the situation "preposterous."

Taylor said he had requested at least double the number of investigators from the federal government to cope with the increasing caseload.

Taylor said the fraud increase "almost hinges on the recession." During the recent recession, the MESC was forced to hire many temporary employees and set up makeshift offices in armories to handle the increased number of laidoff workers, Taylor said.

"The whole system was strained," he said. "When the system is taxed beyond its limits, you make more mistakes and are open to fraud."

He also said in recent years, there was a greater propensity for people to "rip the system off."

Taylor said the MESC was "doing all that we can, given our staff, to clean our own house and keep it fraud-free."

Workers Strike At Manley

BRIDGMAN — Workers at the Manley Brothers, Inc., sand mining plant here went on strike this morning, a company spokesman confirmed.

Plant manager Robert Dixon declined however to say what dispute caused the strike that began at 7 a.m.

He did say however, that fewer than 100 men are involved and added that the company plans to continue with production.

The workers are reported to be members of Local 7 of the Teamsters' union. Union officials could not be located for comment this morning.

Berrien county sheriff's deputies said there have been no reports of vandalism or violence.

Galien Adopts Tax Roll For Sewer Project

GALIEN — The Galien village council last night in a special meeting adopted the special assessment tax roll for the proposed $1.3 million village sewer construction project.

Adoption of the tax roll came after a public hearing attended by about 45 people. The assessment district covers the entire village.

The village has to raise $415,000 as the local share for sewer construction with some $946,000 to come from state and federal funds.

The local share is to be raised through the special assessment district, a six-mill levy and a $5 per month service charge.

The special assessment includes a $4 per front foot cost for lines in front of properties and a $400 tap-in fee.

Village officials said the first payment of the special assessment would be due by May 1. The six-mill levy would be imposed this year also.

In a related matter, the council adopted a resolution to apply for and accept federal housing and urban development funds to be earmarked for helping families pay for sewer tap-in fees.

Council officials said that first in line for up to $700 in assistance under the program will be people 62 and over who qualify.

Qualifications include that applicants must own their homes, cannot have assets in excess of $10,000 and shall repay tap-in loans at the rate of 12 per cent per annum.

Village Clerk Sandra Ostrander said assistance application forms will be available through her.

Construction on the sewer collection and treatment system is expected to start in June and be completed in July, 1978, village officials said.

BUCHANAN — A reappraisal of industrial property here could result in an estimated loss of $165,000 in tax revenue for the city, the Buchanan school district and Berrien county, according to Mayor Richard Gault.

Gault made the statement in a press conference held prior to last night's meeting of the city commission where the reappraisal report was adopted.

The reappraisal dropped the city's tax base by an estimated $2,493,575.

In approving the measure, the commission also approved a split tax equalization factor — one to be applied to industrial real property (buildings and land), and a second for other property classifications. The industrial real property was the area covered by the reappraisal report.

The factors adopted by the city must still get approval by the state and county, according to Francis Rawlinson, director of the Berrien county tax equalization department.

Rawlinson added that there are no objections to split factors so long as different classifications of property — commercial, residential and industrial — are not assessed at different percentages of their market value.

He also said the state tax commission is studying the reappraisal for possible errors.

The reappraisal was done by United Appraisal Co., Chagrin Falls, Ohio, for $6,500. It set an assessed value on industrial real property for 1977 at $4,765,450, a figure the city pegged as the state equalized value (SEV) for the year. In 1976, the industrial SEV was $7,258,025. It was part of a city-wide SEV of just over $25 million.

Because of the drop, city tax revenue would go down $46,298, if the city again set a 14.5-mill tax rate, according to figures released in the press conference.

School income would drop $89,404 and county revenue by $29,694, again based on last year's tax rates.

The revenue is determined by multiplying the SEV by the tax rate. Under state guidelines, the SEV is figured by multiplying the assessed value by the tax factor to bring the figure up to what the state considers 50 per cent of true market value.

To offset the loss of city revenue, Gault said the city's budget might be reduced or the tax rate increased.

The split factor set by the commission because of the reappraisal was 1.0 for the industrial real property and 1.47 for other classifications.

On the split, the mayor said in the press conference the move, "...puts us in the position of fighting the battle, not our taxpayers."

By electing to set down different factors, the commission hopes to prevent the tax burden from being shifted to other property classes, he said.

Faulhaber and Gault both said that a reappraisal of the remaining classes is in order, but cannot be completed for 12 to 16 months. The commission during its meeting approved seeking bids on completing the reappraisal.

In other areas, the commission patched up what Gault termed a "misunderstanding" with the city's library board. The mayor told library board members they could decide whether or not to sell 375 shares of Clark Equipment Co. stock given to the library. The board had been questioning a commission decision to sell the shares. Following a public hearing, the commission approved goals and objectives for the community as presented by the city planning commission.

The commission again tabled action on the garage sale ordinance after objections were raised to proposed limits on the number of sales and a $3 permit fee.

Objectors claimed the commission should draft an ordinance aimed at controlling those who create eyesores and hold sales continuously, and not one which controlled all sales. Some said the $3 permit fee was too high, while others claimed that more than two sales should be allowed. Most of the 50 people present for the meeting attended because of the proposed ordinance.

Mrs. Ned Reitz, Liberty avenue, presented a petition signed by 43 of her neighbors asking the city to regulate the hauling of steel shavings by trucks on the avenue. She said the shavings drop from trucks leaving Clark Equipment Co. and damage automobile tires. She also claimed the trucks traveled too fast and posed a danger to children.

The commission approved a resolution saying it had no objection to the transfer of a class C liquor license for Jim's Bar, 259 East Front street, from James Lohmuth to P & J Gursion Inc. (Paul and Jan Gursion of Niles).

Gobles School Bond Vote Is April 26

GOBLES — The Gobles school board last night voted to put a $3,150,000 school construction bond issue up to a special, April 26 election vote.

If approved, school board officials said, the bond issue would finance construction of a new, 82,100 square foot high school; remodeling that would permit the present high school to be used as a middle school; and repair work to the elementary school.

The school board vote on the bond issue came after school architects, Binda Associates, Battle Creek, said it would take a 7.07 property tax mill levy the first year — with subsequently declining tax levies — to make bond payments if school district residents approve the proposed bond issue.

The new building would be erected on 35 acres of school owned land northwest of present school buildings.

Supt. Guy Leversee was ordered by the board to take the bonding and construction proposals to Lansing for state department of education approval.

The school district has 1,125 students, with the middle school and high school students sharing a building.

In other action, the board approved a $16,000 project to block off every other window in the high school as a means of cutting heat loss. The architectural estimate of cost for the project is $16,000, school officials said.

The board also approved an appropriation of $300 to the Youth Service agency in Paw Paw and a like amount to the Van Buren mental health department and voted to co-sponsor summer baseball at the school.

More Testing Needed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Although drinking water appears safe near a Gratiot County landfill where PBB-tainted wastes were dumped, state officials say they need more tests to be sure. "There's reason for relief that it's not already in the drinking water supplies, but we aren't totally convinced that it isn't in the ground water somewhere," said John Hesse of the Department of Natural Resources' water quality division. "To be perfectly safe, we've got to look a little further," he said. Tests of ground water very close to the 20-acre landfill may be necessary to convince officials that the ground water is not contaminated, Hesse said. Weekend tests of water from local wells showed no detectable levels of the toxic chemical PBB, although surface water from ditches near the landfill did turn up small amounts of PBB. Hesse says he's convinced that PBB was not present in that well water in the past. The Michigan Chemical Co., which once produced PBB at its St. Louis plant, dumped some 269,000 pounds of chemical waste on the nearby landfill between 1971 and 1973, without the required permission of local health officials.

Mobile Home Fire Hits Nearby Firm

SOUTH HAVEN — Firemen here this morning saved the Blue Star Glass Co., South Haven township, from extensive fire damage, but were unable to save a neighboring mobile home where the fire started.

Firemen said they were able to extinguish flames that had spread from the mobile home owned by Lester Birmingham to the nearby Blue Star Glass Co., before any major damage was done to the building. Both the mobile home and company are located, about 15 feet apart, on Blue Star Memorial highway.

Birmingham told firemen he was awakened by an explosion at about 4 a.m. and was confronted by flames in the hallway of his mobile home near an oil burner furnace. Birmingham who lived alone, escaped uninjured but had to go to a neighbor's to call firemen.

Firemen said that when they arrived, the mobile home was engulfed in flames and the southside wall of the glass company was on fire.

Birmingham told firemen his mobile home and contents were insured for $9,000. Damage to the glass company was estimated at $1,000.

Cass Deeds Office Reports Taking In $81,938 In 1976

CASSOPOLIS — The Cass county register of deeds office took in $81,938 during 1976 — the highest total reported in eight years, according to Sally Foust, county register of deeds. The fees received by the register of deeds office are payment for recording and filing of various documents, copies and certifications, and real estate transfer taxes. The $81,938 collected during 1976 compares with $61,247 collected during 1975.

Mrs. Foust said the register of deeds office recorded 6,957 real estate documents during 1976, compared to 6,183 in 1975. The total amount of mortgages recorded in 1976 was $51,497,033, compared to $32,038,906 in 1975, she said. Real estate transfer tax receipts increased from $26,264 in 1975 to $29,025, according to Mrs. Foust. The rate of the tax is $1.10 for every $1,000 worth of consideration of each deed or transfer of property.

Heart, Cancer Risk Tests To Be Offered

EAU CLAIRE — Tests to determine cancer and heart disease risk will be offered at Eau Claire high school Sunday, March 6, from 7 a.m. until 11 a.m.

The tests are being offered by the Eau Claire Seventh-day Adventist church community health education team in conjunction with Andrews university, according to Mary Dockerty, program coordinator.

A fee of $15 per person or $25 per couple, to cover lab charges, will be charged.

People planning to take the Sunday morning tests should consume nothing else but water after 7 the Saturday night before, the coordinator said.

Carter Asking New Energy Department

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is asking Congress to form a new Cabinet Department of Energy that administration officials say will combine most of the government's existing energy programs under one roof.

Carter planned to send his request to Congress today.

The legislation would abolish the Federal Energy Administration, the Energy Research and Development Administration and the Federal Power Commission and transfer their functions to the new department, along with parts of seven other agencies that deal with energy.

James R. Schlesinger, whom Carter plans to nominate as the nation's first Secretary of Energy, said the move is a "means to coordinate" the nation's now-fragmented energy policy and should not be viewed as a solution to energy shortages.

"We need both conservation and production if our energy program is to be effective," Schlesinger told a National Governors Conference luncheon on Monday as he highlighted parts of the President's program.

A key part of the plan, Schlesinger said, is that it leaves with the Interior Department the primary responsibility for leasing federal lands and the Outer Continental Shelf for energy development.

But it also gives the new agency a say on the rate at which these gas, oil and coal leases are to be issued, he said.

According to congressional sources, this represents a major compromise aimed at appeasing environmentalists in Congress who had vowed to fight any plan that stripped Interior of its leasing responsibilities.

Under the President's plan, other units in the Interior Department dealing exclusively with energy development — including four regional power authorities and parts of the Bureau of Mines, Bureau of Land Reclamation and U.S. Geological Survey — would be transferred to the new department.

It would also take in energy programs now contained in the Departments of Commerce, Housing and Urban Development, Defense and Transportation, the Security and Exchange Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In all, the proposal would consolidate 19 separate energy programs now scattered throughout the federal government, according to Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., who plans to introduce the President's bill in the Senate.

Ribicoff said his Governmental Affairs Committee will begin hearings on the legislation next Monday.

Congressional sources said that issues involved in the reorganization are so complex, however, that Congress will probably take most of the year before completing work on the President's proposal.

Carter has said he also will send Congress around April 20 a comprehensive energy policy bill dealing with conservation and fuel supplies.

CBS News said Monday night it learned from authoritative sources that Carter is giving serious consideration to proposing "a tax in the range of 25 cents a gallon" on gasoline as part of that comprehensive energy policy.

Schlesinger declined to respond to an inquiry about the report.

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, was skeptical. "They've not consulted me about it," he said. "I'd think they would."

Jackson added: "Congress is not about to approve any 25-cent tax on gasoline. That's 90 cents a gallon (total price). Candidly, that's not going to fly." He said gasoline prices have doubled in the past three years and demand has not dropped.

The senator said consumption elasticity figures indicate the price of gasoline would have to be doubled — to more than $1.20 a gallon — before consumption would drop 15 per cent.

Carter's proposal to include the FPC and other energy-regulation units in the same department with programs that promote energy development may be controversial, congressional leaders are claiming.

It was a desire to separate these functions that led Congress in 1974 to replace the Atomic Energy Commission with two agencies — ERDA and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Carter's proposal leaves the NRC alone. And it attempts to resolve the competing interests of development and regulation by proposing an energy regulation administration within the new department to deal with rate-making and fuel allocation.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Armed Robbery At Dairy Store

A man carrying what witnesses said was a .22 caliber rifle robbed the Cass Dairy Store, 868 Euclid avenue, Monday night of an undetermined amount of cash, Benton township police said.

The youth was lodged in the Berrien Juvenile Detention Center, Berrien Springs, pending the issuance of a petition for him to appear in juvenile court.

Benton Harbor police said they are seeking a man in connection with the alleged assault Monday afternoon with a five-inch long hunting knife on Ed Farmer, Jr., 17, of 191 Windsor road, St. Joseph township.

Farmer, who was unhurt, told police he was assaulted by a male acquaintance in the 700 block of Highland avenue, Benton Harbor.

Farmer said the man wanted to meet him to repay Farmer some money. But when they met, the man drew a knife, Farmer said. Police said Farmer was able to disarm his alleged attacker, who fled on foot after the incident.

Twin Cities area police reported the following thefts Monday:

- $215 cash in $5, $10 and $20 bills from a drawer in the apartment of Ida Bassette, 66, of 922 Lake boulevard, St. Joseph police said.
- A 21-inch black and white television from the home of Albert A. Self, 23, of 370 Higman Park road, Benton township, Berrien county deputies reported.
- Four hubcaps valued at $208 from a car belonging to Stanley Miller of 2163 Samuel avenue, St. Joseph township, while the car was parked at Gersondes Bowling Alley, 2705 Cleveland avenue, St. Joseph township police reported.
- A furnace motor and a shag rug valued together at $80 from an unoccupied house, 559 East Empire avenue, owned by Betty Blackwell, 31, of Covert, Benton Harbor police said.
- A bicycle valued at $100, owned by Eugene McAndrews, 14, of 1236 Jennings avenue, from the yard near his home, Benton Harbor police said.
- Two batteries valued together at $80, owned by Racho Jeschke, 47, of Stevensville, from Jeschke's auto and garage, Berrien deputies reported.

A 16-year-old Benton township boy was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon for allegedly threatening his father with a paring knife, township police said.

Benton township Patrolmen Steve Hansen and Robert Polmanteer said they were summoned about 6 p.m. Monday to 547 Boynton street on a report of a family argument there.

When the patrolmen arrived they found a youth threatening L.D. Fuse in the basement of the house, police said.

Polmanteer and Hansen said

the youth refused at first to turn over the knife and threatened to kill both patrolmen. However the boy turned over the knife voluntarily, police said.

A Benton Harbor youth and a 15-year-old juvenile were arrested and charged with breaking and entering early this morning after patrolmen received a report that two men were inside Cavalier's Record Shop, 918 Broadway, Benton Harbor police said.

Benton Harbor police Sgt. Dwight Claustre and Patrolman Delmar Lange said they were summoned to the store at 4:20 a.m. today.

Duncan Williams, 17, of 649 McGuigan avenue was arrested and lodged in the Berrien county jail, and the boy was lodged in the Berrien Juvenile Detention Center, Berrien Springs, police said.

Police said two persons were inside the store when Claustre and Lange arrived. They pair surrendered to police inside the store without a struggle, police said.

asked. "To an extent," Figlus said. "At first she refused but she consented after I punched her in the nose." He added that he was unsure if Miss Armstrong knew he had a knife.

Byrns asked why the young women was stabbed so many times, and Figlus responded: "I don't know."

He said after he had stabbed her he took a shower at the Armstrong home, then went to a grocery store and purchased two cans of pop "because I was thirsty."

He said he then went to St. Joseph high school, where he was a tenth grader, and visited the school nurse to have his fingers bandaged "because when I was stabbing her I cut myself."

In a press release issued this morning, Smetanka said Miss Armstrong "was stabbed some 33 times and killed at her home by the defendant (Figlus) acting alone. He also raped her."

Smetanka said the knife used in the murder has not been found.

Smetanka's statement said: "On the evening of the killing, the investigating officers, members of our staff and I thoroughly discussed the evidence we had available to us, the likelihood of a conviction, and the immediate necessity of assuring that the act was the act of the defendant and him alone."

"Realizing that the maximum penalties for first and second degree murder are, in practice, virtually the same (life maximum for both), with the full agreement of the St. Joseph police department officers, I offered David Figlus, through his attorney, the opportunity to plead guilty to second degree murder in return for a full statement of how the killing occurred. They accepted this offer."

"Later events have not changed my assessment of the case. In any trial to a jury or a judge, there is always an element of chance of a verdict of not guilty. The public welfare demands that in this case that chance be eliminated."

"The St. Joseph police have expressed their unqualified agreement with this decision."

"There remains something to be clarified about the case. Unfortunately in all such cases, rumors tend to spread through the community. Some can never be traced and stopped. However, the scientific evidence in this case clearly established that Dona Armstrong had no alcohol in her system at her death nor was there the slightest indication of any use of drugs."

"Both these findings were made by the Michigan Public Health laboratory chemist David DeVries after careful examination. The evidence shows further, no provocation of any kind by Dona Armstrong."

"This case has affected everyone involved in it very deeply, (causing) intense hurt and tragedy in the Armstrong and Figlus families. I will have a strong recommendation to the sentencing judge and the correction authorities, but final disposition of this case is theirs."

Washington and the state capitals.

"We discussed the need for collaboration to deal with our economic problems, to overcome our energy shortages, to deal with the cold and the drought and make government work more economically and effectively at all levels," Askew said. "The President concluded by saying that the job will be easier for the federal government if the states meet it halfway."

Askew said Carter and his top aides are "trying to listen to what we say"

"Now having a former governor in the White House unquestionably in our minds will make a substantial amount of difference in what will be a meaningful relationship," he said. "But we also are trying to be candid with each other in recognizing that this has been the goal of many past administrations."

He added, "It's difficult to perfect the mechanism to establish it."

Askew said the administration already has enlisted the governors to work on welfare reform and on changes in the

Askew said the day to day system of communication will have to be perfected so that a governor with a problem or an idea to offer knows "who you talk to, and to insure that the telephone calls are returned"

The Florida governor said his aides returned, not only by Carter aides but by the President.

But there were no calls to the governors before Carter announced the cancellation of 19 water resources development projects to cut $288 million from his revised budget. All told, it would take $5.1 billion to complete those projects, located in 14 states.

cruised off East Africa, President Carter and other administration officials said there was no cause for alarm. The White House said Monday that the President sent a message to Amin thanking him for his assurances that the U.S. citizens in Uganda were not in danger.

Radio Uganda said Amin, in a "jovial mood," met Monday with a small group of Americans and other foreigners working for Uganda Airlines, thanked them for their work and called them "brothers and sisters" of Ugandans.

The Swiss charter airline Balair reported that a "third party" acting for the U.S. government approached it during the weekend while the situation was still tense and inquired whether it could evacuate the Americans in Uganda.

"We said yes," said a spokesman for the airline, which has headquarters in Basel and which flown many missions for the International Red Cross.

The spokesman added that the approach to it was viewed as a "cautious inquiry."

Convicted On New Gun Law

DETROIT (AP) — Three Detroit men who committed two armed robberies on the same day have become the first defendants to get concurrent two and five-year jail sentences under the state's new gun law.

Recorder's Judge Susan Borman gave the trio two-year terms for the first felony and five for the second. She also gave each a sentence of a year and a day to five years for armed robbery and assault with intent to rob.

All three will have to serve at least a year and a day on the robbery charges, the court said.

The new law, which took effect Jan. 1, made a two-year sentence mandatory for anyone using a gun in a felony and five years mandatory for a second offense. Several persons have been sent to jail on the two-year clause but the sentences Monday were the first on the five-year section of the law.

The defendants were Gilbert Moore, 19; Billy Ray Davis, 17; and Billy Willis, 24. They pleaded guilty Feb. 14 to charges in the two incidents Jan. 4.

School Officials To Meet

Members of the Berrien-Cass school boards association will hold their annual spring meeting March 17 at the Ramada Inn, south of Benton Harbor.

The program, which begins with dinner at 7 p.m., will feature a video tape presentation by Dr. Morris Massey, director of graduate studies at the University of Colorado.

The association is made up of 17 boards of education from school districts in Berrien and Cass counties.

Dedicates Season To Killed Friend State Title Magic's Goal Now

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — To Lansing Everett star Earvin (Magic) Johnson the state high school basketball tournament is more than just a crack at the state championship. It's a final tribute to a friend.

Johnson has dedicated his superb season to his friend Reggie Chastine, who was killed in a car accident last August. Johnson's goal is to lead Everett all the way to the championship.

"He (Chastine) told me to do it this year," Johnson said. "He said 'You got to lead the team. You're the big boy.'"

Johnson and Chastine are old neighborhood buddies.

"He helped me to be what I am as a person," Johnson said. "I didn't have a lot of confidence my junior year, but I'd watch Reggie. If you could score real good, he wanted to guard you. He wasn't scared. I wanted to be like him. No one could tell him,

"You can't do it. He was going to succeed."

Johnson certainly has succeeded as a player. The 6-foot-8½ senior has averaged 22, 26 and 31 points in his three years at Everett.

A professional recruiting service in Toledo has ranked him as one of the six best college prospects in the country. He has attracted the attention of college recruiters and even some pro scouts.

Johnson said when he heard about Chastine's death, "I just walked all around — for miles. I wondered how I was going to make it through."

"But I knew he wanted me to go on and be the best I could. Reggie knew that he couldn't be great, so he wanted me to do it for him."

Everett finished No. 1 in the final Associated Press poll of the season and should be a strong candidate to wind up with the state title. Monday Everett crushed old rival Lansing Eastern, 63-41, in their district opener. Johnson scored 27 points and helped hold fellow All-Stater Jay Vincent of Eastern to four points.

Eastern is the only team to have defeated Everett this season.

Johnson hasn't decided where he's going to play college ball, but he has made some plans for the immediate future.

He'll play in a post-season all-star game in Landover, Md., then make a three-week tour of Europe with a team sponsored by a fast-food restaurant.

"I pretty much have got my life planned," Johnson said. "I want to go to college. I want to go into business or TV, and I want to own my own business. I want to play pro ball."

"Now I'm dreaming about going to Ann Arbor and winning that state title."

South Haven Hands Coach 150th Win

G-Man Trio Lifts Rams Over River Valley

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

THREE OAKS — South Haven's G-Men helped give Ram coach M. H. White a 150th victory celebration here Monday night.

William Gamble, Mike Grimes and Robert Getman combined for 40 points as South Haven dumped River Valley 60-49 in a Class B district basketball game.

Paw Paw (12-8) battles Coloma (3-16) at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the River Valley Gym. South Haven will take on Dowagiac (5-13) Wednesday.

The Ram victory was White's 150th at South Haven but as the veteran mentor said, "I never feel coaches win games. It's the kids who win the games."

And South Haven's G-Men did exactly that for White against the Mustangs. Gamble pumped in 18 points and pulled down seven rebounds. Grimes tallied 14 points and grabbed 18 caroms and Getman added eight points and dished out five assists.

White was obviously pleased with the play of all three.

"Gamble had a lot of good shots," White said. "Grimes was driving well and was getting the foul in the fourth quarter when they had to get the ball. He was hitting the free throws, too."

"Getman played a good floor game. He was penetrating the ball well and did a good job of bringing the ball down against their press."

South Haven, now 15-6, never trailed in the game and the score was tied just once at 4-4. The Rams broke the tie with six straight points to close the first quarter with a 10-4 lead.

After River Valley closed to within 21-20 with 1:17 left in the half, the Rams reeled off nine straight points for a 30-20 margin. The Mustangs never got closer than seven after that.

As usual, White felt it was defense which won the game for the Rams.

"We won it at the defensive end of the floor," he grinned. "And that's where most games are won. We didn't press them because we wanted to move well in our zone. Also, they're a good spot shooting team."

"We wanted to rush them at their spots. Overall we contained the big kid (6-7 Mustang center Werner Maak). We didn't stop him, but we contained him. We moved real well in our zone."

South Haven's defense limited River Valley to a poor 35 per cent shooting effort on 19 of 55 from the floor. The Rams, on the other hand, connected on 20 of 47 for 43 per cent.

The Rams also held a commanding 45-23 board edge.

"And rebounding is defense," White said. "Most of our rebounds were defensive rebounds. The fact that we were rushing their shooting spots did that."

"I can recall very few times when they had good inside position on us. That kept them away from the boards and that was the key."

Probably the best indication of the Ram defense was that Maak was limited to just seven shots, nine points and seven rebounds.

"To win you have to shoot and you have to rebound," River Valley coach Jerry Schaffer lamented. "And we didn't. Our defense didn't cost us the ballgame. Our inability to shoot was the difference."

About the only phase of South Haven's game which did not please White was turnovers. The Rams turned the ball over 25 times to just 12 miscues for River Valley.

"That was the one poor phase of our game," White said. "We had more turnovers than I would have liked. But with their scrappy defense, that sometimes happens. We forced a few passes."

The win was also sweet revenge for South Haven, which was upset 42-41 by River Valley in last year's district.

"My kids were ready to play because of that," White said. "But I felt they would have been ready for anybody."

"Last year I think we were playing the quarterfinals and semifinals before the district games. This was a good win, but it's just one in the tournament. Dowagiac is just as far as we are. And Lakeshore is just as far as we are."

River Valley, which finished the season at 12-9, got 12 points from Gary Schaffer, 11 from Jo Jo White and 10 from Steve Copeland.

Fraud's Up, MESC Director Concedes

DETROIT (AP) — A lack of investigators has prevented officials from determining how much fraud has hit the Michigan Employment Security Commission, according to the head of the agency.

Conceding that fraud has increased alarmingly, MESC Director S. Martin Taylor said at a news conference Monday the office has more fraud now than it used to.

(During a Jan. 26 speech before the members of the Southwestern Michigan Personnel Roundtable in St. Joseph, Taylor said MESC would have to triple its number of employees to check the honesty of people receiving compensation.)

"But we are so inadequately staffed that it is hard to ferret out all incidence of fraud," he explained.

Taylor called the press conference to rebut published reports that the agency was beset by sweeping fraud on the part of the unemployed and MESC employees.

While fraud is a problem, Taylor said, it is not as bad as the reports indicated. He also took issue with the tone of a story in the Detroit Free Press, which he accused of portraying the unemployed and MESC employees as crooks.

Taylor said he was not personally "thin-skinned" but thought it was unfair "to slander a social program that is so vitally needed by so many people."

In the past 2½ years, 22

MESC employees have been fired or prosecuted for fraud totaling $87,000, Taylor said. But he said the amount of employee fraud probably was greater than that.

The MESC is seeking restitution of some $7 million in claims paid out during the past five years, but Taylor said only 14 per cent of the claims involved fraud. The majority of the cases involved questions of eligibility and clerical errors, he said.

The MESC has about 4,000 employees and in fiscal 1976, 20 million claim forms were processed.

The agency has 32 MESC investigators, Taylor said, terming the situation "preposterous."

Taylor said he had requested at least double the number of investigators from the federal government to cope with the increasing caseload.

Taylor said the fraud increase "almost hinges on the recession." During the recent recession, the MESC was forced to hire many temporary employees and set up makeshift offices in armories to handle the increased number of laidoff workers, Taylor said.

"The whole system was strained," he said. "When the system is taxed beyond its limits, you make more mistakes and are open to fraud."

He also said in recent years there was a greater propensity for people to "rip the system off."

Taylor said the MESC was "doing all that we can, given our staff, to clean our own house and keep it fraud-free."

Workers Strike At Manley

BRIDGMAN — Workers at the Manley Brothers, Inc., sand mining plant here went on strike this morning, a company spokesman confirmed.

Plant manager Robert Dixon declined however to say what dispute caused the strike that began at 7 a.m.

He did say however, that fewer than 100 men are involved and added that the company plans to continue with production.

The workers are reported to be members of Local 7 of the Teamsters' union. Union officials could not be located for comment this morning.

Berrien county sheriff's deputies said there have been no reports of vandalism or violence.

Galien Adopts Tax Roll For Sewer Project

GALIEN — The Galien village council last night in a special meeting adopted the special assessment tax roll for the proposed $1.3 million village sewer construction project.

Adoption of the tax roll came after a public hearing attended by about 45 people. The assessment district covers the entire village.

The village has to raise $415,000 as the local share for sewer construction with some $946,000 to come from state and federal funds.

The local share is to be raised through the special assessment district, a six-mill levy and a $5 per month service charge.

The special assessment includes a $4 per front foot cost for lines in front of properties and a $400 tap-in fee.

Village officials said the first payment of the special assessment would be due by May 1. The six-mill levy would be imposed this year also.

In a related matter, the council adopted a resolution to apply for and accept federal housing and urban development funds to be earmarked for helping families pay for sewer tap-in fees.

Council officials said that first in line for up to $700 in assistance under the program will be people 62 and over who qualify.

Qualifications include that applicants must own their homes, cannot have assets in excess of $10,000 and shall repay tap-in loans at the rate of 12 per cent per annum.

Village Clerk Sandra Ostrander said assistance application forms will be available through her.

Construction on the sewer collection and treatment system is expected to start in June and be completed in July, 1978, village officials said.

GOBLES DOCTOR: Dr. Bert Carrion, M.D., has opened general practice office at Gobles Medical clinic on M-40 in village. He and his wife Becky have three children.

Could Reduce Buchanan Revenue Reappraisal Is Approved

BUCHANAN — A reappraisal of industrial property here could result in an estimated loss of $165,000 in tax revenue for the city, the Buchanan school district and Berrien county, according to Mayor Richard Gault.

Gault made the statement in a press conference held prior to last night's meeting of the city commission where the reappraisal report was adopted.

The reappraisal dropped the city's tax base by an estimated $2,493,575.

In approving the measure, the commission also approved a split tax equalization factor — one to be applied to industrial real property (buildings and land), and a second for other property classifications. The industrial real property was the area covered by the reappraisal report.

The factors adopted by the city must still get approval by the state and county, according to Francis Rawlinson, director of the Berrien county tax equalization department.

Rawlinson added that there are no objections to split factors so long as different classifications of property — commercial, residential and industrial — are not assessed at different percentages of their market value.

He also said the state tax commission is studying the reappraisal for possible errors.

The reappraisal was done by United Appraisal Co., Chagrin Falls, Ohio, for $6,500. It set an assessed value on industrial real property for 1977 at $4,765,450, a figure the city pegged as the state equalized value (SEV) for the year. In 1976, the industrial SEV was $7,258,025. It was part of a citywide SEV of just over $25 million.

Because of the drop, city tax revenue would go down $46,298, if the city again set a 14.5-mill tax rate, according to figures released in the press conference.

School income would drop $89,404 and county revenue by $29,894, again based on last year's tax rates.

The revenue is determined by multiplying the SEV by the tax rate. Under state guidelines, the SEV is figured by multiplying the assessed value by the tax factor to bring the figure up to what the state considers 50 per cent of true market value.

To offset the loss of city revenue, Gault said the city's budget might be reduced or the tax rate increased.

The split factor set by the commission because of the reappraisal was 1.0 for the industrial real property and 1.47 for other classifications.

On the split, the mayor said in the press conference the move "...puts us in the position of fighting the battle, not our taxpayers."

By electing to set down different factors, the commission hopes to prevent the tax burden from being shifted to other property classes, he said.

Faulhaber and Gault both said that a reappraisal of the remaining classes is in order, but cannot be completed for 12 to 16 months. The commission during its meeting approved seeking bids on completing the reappraisal.

In other areas, the commission patched up what Gault termed a "misunderstanding" with the city's library board. The mayor told library board members they could decide whether or not to sell 375 shares of Clark Equipment Co. stock given to the library. The board had been questioning a commission decision to sell the shares.

Following a public hearing, the commission approved goals and objectives for the community as presented by the city planning commission.

The commission again tabled action on the garage sale ordinance after objections were raised to proposed limits on the number of sales and a $3 permit fee.

Objectors claimed the commission should draft an ordinance aimed at controlling those who create eyesores and hold sales continuously, and not one which controlled all sales. Some said the $3 permit fee was too high, while others claimed that more than two sales should be allowed. Most of the 50 people present for the meeting attended because of the proposed ordinance.

Mrs. Ned Reitz, Liberty avenue, presented a petition signed by 43 of her neighbors asking the city to regulate the hauling of steel shavings by trucks on the avenue. She said the shavings drop from trucks leaving Clark Equipment Co. and damage automobile tires. She also claimed the trucks traveled too fast and posed a danger to children.

The commission approved a resolution saying it had no objection to the transfer of a class C liquor license for Jim's Bar, 258 East Front street, from James Lomaugh to P & J Gursion Inc. (Paul and Jan Gursion of Niles).

More Testing Needed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Although drinking water appears safe near a Gratiot County landfill where PBB-tainted wastes were dumped, state officials say they need more tests to be sure. "There's reason for relief that it's not already in the drinking water supplies, but we aren't totally convinced that it isn't in the ground water somewhere," said John Hesse of the Department of Natural Resources' water quality division. "To be perfectly safe, we've got to look a little further," he said. Tests of ground water very close to the 20-acre landfill may be necessary to convince officials that the ground water is not contaminated, Hesse said. Weekend tests of water from local wells showed no detectable levels of the toxic chemical PBB, although surface water from ditches near the landfill did turn up small amounts of PBB. Hesse says he's convinced that PBB was not present in that well water in the past. The Michigan Chemical Co., which once produced PBB at its St. Louis plant, dumped some 269,000 pounds of chemical waste on the nearby landfill between 1971 and 1973, without the required permission of local health officials.

Mobile Home Fire Hits Nearby Firm

SOUTH HAVEN — Firemen here this morning saved the Blue Star Glass Co., South Haven township, from extensive fire damage, but were unable to save a neighboring mobile home where the fire started.

Firemen said they were able to extinguish flames that had spread from the mobile home owned by Lester Birmingham to the nearby Blue Star Glass Co., before any major damage was done to the building. Both the mobile home and company are located, about 15 feet apart, on Blue Star Memorial highway.

Birmingham told firemen he was awakened by an explosion at about 4 a.m. and was confronted by flames in the hallway of his mobile home near an oil burner furnace. Birmingham who lived alone, escaped uninjured but had to go to a neighbor's to call firemen.

Firemen said that when they arrived, the mobile home was engulfed in flames and the southside wall of the glass company was on fire.

Birmingham told firemen his mobile home and contents were insured for $9,000. Damage to the glass company was estimated at $1,000.

Cass Deeds Office Reports Taking In $81,938 In 1976

CASSOPOLIS — The Cass county register of deeds office took in $81,938 during 1976 — the highest total reported in eight years, according to Sally Foust, county register of deeds. The fees received by the register of deeds office are payment for recording and filing of various documents, copies and certifications, and real estate transfer taxes. The $81,938 collected during 1976 compares with $61,247 collected during 1975.

Mrs. Foust said the register of deeds office recorded 6,957 real estate documents during 1976, compared to 6,183 in 1975. The total amount of mortgages recorded in 1976 was $51,497,933, compared to $32,038,906 in 1975, she said. Real estate transfer tax receipts increased from $26,264 in 1975 to $29,025, according to Mrs. Foust. The rate of the tax is $1.10 for every $1,000 worth of consideration of each deed or transfer of property.

Heart, Cancer Risk Tests To Be Offered

EAU CLAIRE — Tests to determine cancer and heart disease risk will be offered at Eau Claire high school Sunday, March 6, from 7 a.m. until 11 a.m.

The tests are being offered by the Eau Claire Seventh-day Adventist church community health education team in conjunction with Andrews university, according to Mary Dockerty, program coordinator.

A fee of $15 per person or $25 per couple, to cover lab charges, will be charged.

People planning to take the Sunday morning tests should consume nothing else but water after 7 the Saturday night before, the coordinator said.

PANTHERS DEFEAT BANGOR, 42-37

Watervliet Squelches Upset Bid

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer
BANGOR — Watervliet almost became one of the first rated teams to get knocked off in the post-season basketball playoffs.

The Panthers, ranked in the honorable mention of the last Class C poll, overcame a 20-point effort from Bangor's Dave Gregory to post a 42-37 win over the Vikings here Monday night in the first round of district action.

Play will resume tonight when Lake Michigan Catholic (2-18) faces Bloomingdale (10-8) at 7:30 p.m.

The final score would indicate some sort of stall by either Watervliet or Bangor...but just the opposite occurred.

Both squads used tough zone defenses which completely stymied the other team's offense. This fact was born out in the shooting percentages as the Panthers canned just 17 of 52 tries (32.7 per cent) while the Vikings hit just 17 of 55 attempts (30.9).

"I think both teams had the first night pitters a bit," commented Watervliet's head coach Gene Bednarski. "It's a whole new game in the tournament."

Pat Curtis was the only Panther in double figures, netting 10 points. Oddly enough, in the past two games, the senior hadn't scored a point. Chuck Brock added nine points.

Gregory also didn't get much scoring help as the next high scorer for the Vikings was Bob Garvison with eight points.

A factor which hurt Bangor was that Ricky Ross, a 15.6 per game scorer, netted just two points.

"I don't think Watervliet really stopped him," commented coach Norm Johnson of Bangor. "I think he really stopped himself."

Although the senior center only hit one of 16 field goal attempts, he held a lock on the defensive boards and ended up pulling down 14 caroms.

Bangor ended up with a 41-37 edge in rebounding as Jim Weaver had 11 and Tom Hutchinson 10 for the Panthers.

Both teams played good floor games. Bangor committed only 14 turnovers while Watervliet had 12.

The Panthers, now 18-3 on the season, went out to an 11-6 lead after the first quarter as the Vikings had virtually no penetration inside. They ended up hitting just three of 17 in that eight-minute span from the floor.

They increased that to 22-10 with 2:31 left, but the hosts ran off the last six points of the first half and hit the initial bucket of the third quarter to make it a 22-18 game.

After trading buckets, Bangor blew a golden opportunity to grab the lead. With the score 26-22, the Vikings brought the ball down five straight times and didn't get a shot off at the basket while Watervliet couldn't buy a hoop at the other end.

The Panthers increased their lead to 33-22 with 2:48 remaining in the third quarter, but Bangor, which ends the year at 10-11, fought back to only trail by seven, 37-30, after three quarters of play.

And that's where the score stayed until Garvison hit a baseline layup with 3:52 left in the game. John Vojtko then made a free throw and Gregory hit a layup on the left side to bring the Vikings to within two at 37-35, with 2:36 left.

But Brock hit a free throw with 2:16 left and Jon Hinkelman made the Panthers' one and only field goal of the fourth quarter with 1:14 remaining to ice the game.

"I can't quibble," Bednarski grinned. "I'll take them any way I can get them."

"I can't complain defensively," Johnson said. "Offensively, we had enough good shots to do the job."

"We've had some other teams on the ropes this season, but couldn't put them away. I guess we can't handle the pressure."

Watervliet will take on Decatur, which drew a first-round bye, Wednesday night.

Rated Cage Teams Roll

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Of Michigan's 40 high school basketball teams ranked in today's final Associated Press poll, 19 played state district tournament openers Monday and only one lost.

The only game matching ranked teams was in Lansing, where top-ranked Lansing Everett easily beat seventh-ranked Lansing Eastern, 63-41.

Superstar Earvin Johnson scored 27 points and helped hold fellow All-Stater Jay Vincent to four points in leading Everett to the victory, its 20th in 21 games. Eastern closed its season with a 17-4 record.

Pontiac Central, the No. 2-ranked Class A squad, routed

Waterford Mott, 101-64, while No. 3 Grand Rapids Creston disposed of Grand Rapids Otawa Hills, 71-61.

Fifth-ranked Detroit Catholic Central beat Hazel Park, 76-55, and No. 10 Bloomfield Hills Lahser nipped Southfield Lathrup, 56-53 in overtime, in the other "A" games involving rated teams.

Only two ranked Class B teams saw action. No. 1 Fenton beat Hartland, 42-16. Fenton led only 8-0 after the first quarter and neither team scored a point in the second period as Hartland employed a slowdown.

Muskegon Heights, rated seventh, ousted Muskegon Orchard View, 76-67.

Five rated "C" teams all won, but not all easily. Second-ranked Unionville-Sebewaing raised its record to 21-0 by slipping past Bad Axe, 67-64. No. 10 Williamston edged Whitmore Lake, 59-57, in overtime. Detroit Lutheran West, ranked third, eliminated Detroit Benedictine, 80-62. No. 4 Capac upended Armada, 58-42. And seventh-ranked White Cloud floated past Howard City Tri-County, 72-38.

Detroit East Catholic emphasized it's No. 1 Class D ranking by annihilating Roseville Baptist, 129-38. Fourth-ranked Powers North Central crushed Rock, 68-47. No. 6 Concord got by Camden-Frontier, 48-42.

Defending state champion Detroit DePores, rated seventh, overwhelmed Allen Park Inter-City Christian, 60-29. Eighth-ranked Maple City Glen Lake clobbered Leland, 99-48. And No. 10 Deerfield smashed Ann Arbor Greenhills, 73-41.

The Everett-Eastern game was the first in Michigan High School Athletic Association tournament history to be televised live. Lansing and other mid-Michigan points saw the game on WJIM-TV, Channel 6.

More than 4,000 spectators jammed the Eastern gym for the third showdown between the intra-city rivals.

Coach Johnny Orr of the University of Michigan, one of many college coaches eager to recruit Johnson, was in attendance along with assistants Bill Frieder and Jim Boyce. Rickey Green and Phil Hubbard, star players for the third-ranked Wolverines, also were on hand.

District games continue through Saturday. Survivors in the one-loss elimination begin regional competition next Monday. Quarterfinals are March 17, semifinals March 19 and finals March 26 at the University of Michigan's Crisler Arena.

Marcellus Holds Off Constantine

WHITE PIGEON — Marcellus held off a late Constantine rally here Monday night to post a 64-58 Class C district tournament victory.

The Wildcats, now 15-3, moved into Wednesday's district semifinals against Bronson with the victory.

Marcellus got 18 points from Dave Mason, 12 from Jerry Cornwell and 10 apiece from Lonnie Lewis and Steve Bradley.

Joe Wood's quintet led all four quarter stops, holding margins of 8-7, 28-25 and 49-41.

White Pigeon faces Mattawan at 7:30 p.m. tonight here.

Meet Wednesday

The regular monthly meeting of the Lakeshore Youth Baseball and Softball Association will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 2, at the First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan on Red Arrow Highway.

By-laws, a land purchase and funding raising projects will be voted on at the meeting.

Dedicates Season To Killed Friend

State Title Magic's Goal Now

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — To Lansing Everett star Earvin (Magic) Johnson the state high school basketball tournament is more than just a crack at the state championship. It's a final tribute to a friend.

Johnson has dedicated his superb season to his friend Reggie Chastine, who was killed in a car accident last August. Johnson's goal is to lead Everett all the way to the championship.

"He (Chastine) told me to do it this year," Johnson said. "He said 'You got to lead the team. You're the big boy.'"

Johnson and Chastine are old neighborhood buddies.

"He helped me to be what I am as a person," Johnson said. "I didn't have a lot of confidence my junior year, but I'd watch Reggie. If you could score real good, he wanted to guard you. He wasn't scared."

"I wanted to be like him. No one could tell him,

"You can't do it." He was going to succeed."

Johnson certainly has succeeded as a player. The 6-foot-8 1/2 senior has averaged 22, 26 and 31 points in his three years at Everett.

A professional recruiting service in Toledo has ranked him as one of the six best college prospects in the country. He has attracted the attention of college recruiters and even some pro scouts.

Johnson said when he heard about Chastine's death, "I just walked all around — for miles. I wondered how I was going to make it through."

"But I knew he wanted me to go on and be the best I could. Reggie knew that he couldn't be great, so he wanted me to do it for him."

Everett finished No. 1 in the final Associated Press poll of the season and should be a strong candidate to wind up with the state title. Monday Everett crushed old rival Lansing Eastern, 63-41, in their district opener. Johnson scored 27 points and helped hold fellow All-Stater Jay Vincent of Eastern to four points.

Eastern is the only team to have defeated Everett this season.

Johnson hasn't decided where he's going to play college ball, but he has made some plans for the immediate future.

He'll play in a post-season all-star game in Landover, Md., then make a three-week tour of Europe with a team sponsored by a fast-food restaurant.

"I pretty much have got my life planned," Johnson said. "I want to go to college. I want to go into business or TV, and I want to own my own business. I want to play pro ball."

"Now I'm dreaming about going to Ann Arbor and winning that state title."

South Haven Hands Coach 150th Win

G-Man Trio Lifts Rams Over River Valley

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

THREE OAKS — South Haven's G-Men helped give Ram coach M. H. White a 150th victory celebration here Monday night.

William Gamble, Mike Grimes and Robert Getman combined for 40 points as South Haven dumped River Valley 60-49 in a Class B district basketball game.

Paw Paw (12-6) battles Coloma (3-18) at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the River Valley Gym. South Haven will take on Dowagiac (5-13) Wednesday.

The Ram victory was White's 150th at South Haven but as the veteran mentor said, "I never feel coaches win games. It's the kids who win the games."

And South Haven's G-Men did exactly that for White against the Mustangs. Gamble pumped in 18 points and pulled down seven rebounds. Grimes tallied 14 points and grabbed 18 cars and Getman added eight points and dished out five assists.

White was obviously pleased with the play of all three.

"Gamble had a lot of good shots," White said. "Grimes was driving well and was getting the foul in the fourth quarter when they had to get the ball. He was hitting the free throws, too."

"Getman played a good floor game. He was penetrating the ball well and did a good job of bringing the ball down against their press."

South Haven, now 13-6, never trailed in the game and the score was tied just once at 4-4. The Rams broke the tie with six straight points to close the first quarter with a 10-4 lead.

After River Valley closed to within 21-20 with 1:17 left in the half, the Rams reeled off nine straight points for a 30-20 margin. The Mustangs never got closer than seven after that.

As usual, White felt it was defense which won the game for the Rams.

"We won it at the defensive end of the floor," he grinned. "And that's where most games are won. We didn't press them because we wanted to move well in our zone. Also, they're a good spot shooting team."

"We wanted to rush them at their spots. Overall we contained the big kid (6-7 Mustang center Werner Maak). We didn't stop him, but we contained him. We moved real well in our zone."

South Haven's defense limited River Valley to a poor 35 per cent shooting effort on 19 of 55 from the floor. The Rams, on the other hand, connected on 20 of 47 for 43 per cent.

The Rams also held a commanding 45-23 board edge.

"And rebounding is defense," White said. "Most of our rebounds were defensive rebounds. The fact that we were rushing their shooting spots did that."

Probably the best indication of the Ram defense was that Maak was limited to just seven shots, nine points and seven rebounds.

"To win you have to shoot and you have to rebound," River Valley coach Jerry Schaffer lamented. "And we didn't. Our defense didn't cost us the ballgame. Our inability

Wilson Scores 18 As Spartans Edge OSU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Dowagiac's Edgar Wilson tossed in 18 points as Michigan State held off Ohio State for a 80-79 Big Ten victory here Monday night.

Michigan State's full-court zone press stymied the Buckeyes in the first half, allowing the Spartans to construct a 46-33 lead at intermission.

"We played well in the first half, but the game got completely out of control late in the game," said Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote.

"It seemed like a comedy of errors in the second half," Heathcote added. "It seemed like the officiating completely disappeared in the last five minutes. We got some weird calls out there."

With 1:39 to play and the Spartans riding an 80-68 lead, the Buckeyes struck for 11 straight points — the final two on a shot by guard Larry Bolden as time ran out.

Michigan State guard Bob Chapman pumped in a career-high 29 points and forward Greg Kelsier added 20.

Bolden led the Buckeye attack with 21 points, and forward Terry Burris added 16. Ohio State is still mired in the Big Ten basement at 4-13 and owns a 9-17 season record.

With MSU, 6-10 in the league and 9-16 overall, tied with Illinois for sixth place in the conference, Heathcote said he was pleased with the triumph.

"After all, this season a win is a win," Heathcote said. "I would have to say that our team did not have the patience and poise to win the game going away. I guess we just have to count our blessings because it's been one of those years."

In another Big Ten contest, Bruce King scored 28 points and grabbed 15 rebounds to lead Iowa to an 80-73 win over Indiana. Freshman Mike Woodsin poured in 34 to pace the Hoosiers, who had beaten Iowa in 11 games stretching back to 1970.

Fennville Will Face Hamilton

BYRON CENTER — Fennville will be hoping that the third time is a charm in the Class C district basketball tournament here Wednesday night.

The Blackhawks face Hamilton, a team that has already beaten Fennville twice this season. Hamilton won regular season games 69-62 and 83-58.

Hamilton gained a berth in Wednesday's game by beating Middletown 58-49 here Monday night. The winners, now 14-7, got 17 points and 16 rebounds from 6-6 center Scott Berens and 13 points from Bob Dekker.

Rue, Barefield Win Net Titles

Richard Rue and Sandy Barefield took tennis championships in a member singles tournament over the weekend at the South Shore Racquet Club.

Rue defeated Mark Latham 4-6, 7-5, 6-3 for the men's A crown, while Barefield bumped Bev Linn 3-6, 6-2, 6-0 for women's A honors.

In the men's B division, Jeff Baillif beat Daryl Delott 6-3, 7-5, while the women's B title went to Connie Monte in a 7-6, 6-3 win over Lynn Ward.

Consolation round winners included Bruce Conybeare and Brent Butler in men's A and B, respectively, and Connie Beck and Carla Cloud in women's A and B.

KINGMAN THE BUNTER: New York Mets Dave Kingman tries bunting in his first appearance at spring training. Kingman is reportedly asking $3,000,000 to sign his contract. Kingman hit 37 home runs last year, despite missing 40 games with a broken thumb. (AP Wirephoto)

Kingman Aims At 'Moon' For Home Runs, Salary

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dave Kingman is shooting for the moon.

"This season, I won't be satisfied with less than 50 home runs," says the New York Mets' slugger.

The Mets might think he is asking for the moon as well. General Manager Joe McDonald points out that he is "very far apart" in his contract negotiations with the unsigned player.

While not disclosing figures, McDonald said Monday that what the Mets have offered the rangy outfielder would put Kingman in the "category of the top three or four salaried players on the team."

McDonald also said that it would be "very difficult" for any Mets player to make more than pitcher Tom Seaver, who is in the category of $225,000 per year.

Kingman, who checked into the Mets' spring training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., Sunday and started hitting baseballs over the fence Monday, noted that there was a big disparity in his contract talks with McDonald.

"But I don't want to leave New York," Kingman reflected. "My goal is to be signed by the start of the season."

Tommy John of the Los Angeles Dodgers was another dissatisfied player. The left-handed pitcher reported to the Dodgers' camp at Vero Beach, Fla., in a huff over contract terms.

John, who came back after an arm injury that was expected to end his career, said he would sign a one-year contract and become a free agent at the end of the season.

Elsewhere, the Montreal Expos signed catcher-first baseman Earl Williams to a 1977 contract. At Cocoa, Fla.,

pitcher Floyd Bannister, the Houston Astros' No. 1 free-agent draft choice last spring, came to terms with the club. The former Arizona State southpaw signed a minor league contract with Charleston, W.Va., the Astros' International League affiliate.

The Chicago Cubs traded left-handed pitcher Buddy Schulttz to the St. Louis Cardinals for right-hander Mark Covert. Schulttz, 26, had a 1-1 record with the Cubs last season and also was 1-1 with the Cubs' farm team at Wichita. Covert, 24, had a 7-8 mark with Arkansas in the Texas League last season.

Three teams officially opened spring training camps — the Kansas City Royals at Fort Myers, Fla., the Baltimore Orioles at Miami and the Milwaukee Brewers at Sun City, Ariz.

Scores Nine Points In Half Tulane Cage Team 'Dies'

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

What do you say to a basketball team that died?

"I told them that they set Tulane's Roy Danforth after watching his players score only nine points in the first half against Marquette Monday night."

Marquette's Al McGuire also had something to say to his players after they scored only 25.

"I think both teams were thinking about something else," McGuire said.

The tempo picked up considerably after intermission, but still McGuire did not find anything artistic in his team's 63-44 triumph over Tulane.

"I think we were looking ahead to the last two games, against Creighton and Michigan, and they were looking ahead to the Metro-7 tournament," said McGuire.

McGuire's 19th-ranked Warriors are hopeful of a bid to the NCAA playoffs, and can establish their credentials with victories over their final two opponents. One more triumph would provide McGuire with a 20-victory season, something he has made a habit of at Marquette.

Danforth's players will have to do better than they did Monday night if they want to make the NCAA party. The Green Wave only hit three of 24 shots in the first half.

Bo Ellis scored 26 points in Marquette's victory. Ellis got 14 points in the first half, outscoring Tulane all by himself by intermission. In the second half, Tulane could not get any closer than 10 points, 29-19. At this point, the Warriors ran off 10 straight, clinching the victory.

Two other ranked teams were in action Monday night. Second-rated Kentucky defeated Mississippi State 77-64 and No. 12 Alabama nipped Vanderbilt 78-77.

Rick Robey scored 19 points and James Lee 14, leading Kentucky past Mississippi State in a Southeastern Conference game. The Wildcats were aided considerably when Mississippi State's Ricky Brown and Kay White fouled out with more than seven minutes to play.

T.R. Dunn scored 18 points, pacing Alabama over Vanderbilt in another SEC game. Alabama led most of the way, but had to hold off a furious rally by the Commodores at the end.

Meanwhile, Old Dominion won its 21st straight game and 24th in 26 starts with a 79-72 decision over Stetson behind Ronnie Valentine's 27 points; Bruce King scored 28 points and collected 15 rebounds as Iowa defeated Indiana 80-73, and Larry Bird equaled his school record with 47 points, leading Indiana State to an 80-65 decision over Butler.

Also, Steve Grant scored 26 points as Manhattan upset Seton Hall 92-81 and earned a berth in the ECAC's Metro Area playoffs; Ken Horoho had eight free throws in the final two minutes, helping St. Francis, Pa. beat Georgetown 94-87; Mike Mitchell's 26 points powered Auburn past Mississippi 97-84 and Michigan State edged Ohio State 80-79.

In first-round games of the Missouri Valley Conference playoffs, West Texas State defeated Tulsa 96-81 behind Melvin Jones' 29 points and Drake beat Bradley 80-73 as Terry Benka converted nine free throws in the final three minutes.

Dorothy Hamill Making 'Pitch' For Skate Fund

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-odd years ago a pretty, fresh-faced Norwegian named Sonja Henie whirled and pirouetted to three Olympic figure skating championships and landed smack on Hollywood's silver screen.

Americans were just surfacing from a terrible depression. It was only natural they should find an antidote in Sonja's movies — a boy-girl love story staged in a "Winter Wonderland" setting with lilted music.

Teen-agers sighed. Fathers experienced a quickened heart beat. Mothers gushed — and then went out and bought a pair of $4.50 skates for their daughters.

That's the way the figure skating boom exploded in the United States, producing in later years — in addition to a trio of men's stars — gold medalists such as Tenley Albright, Carol Heiss, Peggy Fleming and, most recently, Dorothy Hamill.

Now it's the gymnastic and dark-haired Dorothy who is wowing audiences, not only in ice Capades but on the home television screens where she is plugging a hair conditioner to match her hair style.

In living rooms the country over, one can envision dotting mothers, vowing, "I want my Suzie to be another Dorothy Hamill."

It is a wild and almost impossible dream. Of all competitive sports, the road to an Olympic gold medal in figure skating — and the treasure chest that lies at the end of it — is the most demanding and the most costly.

Exclusive of the hundreds of hours — five to six a day — spent in training, it's estimated that it cost Dorothy around $20,000 in the final year alone en route to her triumph at Innsbruck.

This was documented recently in the 632-page report of the President's Commission on Olympic Sports. Expenses for one world class figure skater for 1976-77 was placed at $30,500.

Not many bricklayers or bank clerks can afford that kind of an outlay.

No one is more conscious of the elusiveness of the Olympic gold medal than Miss Hamill herself, daughter of a well-to-do company executive in Riverside, Conn., who had to do some belt-tightening to keep Dorothy on the ice.

After signing a $300,000 contract with Clairor, said in the trade to be the biggest ever for a TV commercial, Miss Hamill confided to a friend, Rhonda Racz, how much more fortunate she had been than some of her contemporaries.

"There should be a way for those with less money to get a chance to be a world class and Olympic figure skater," she said.

The idea was put to Clairor by Miss Racz, a company project director, and out of it came a plan to take figure skating to the less privileged. The company pledged a minimum contribution of $25,000 and agreed to kick back 25 cents on every label returned from a package of Dorothy's favorite hair conditioner.

This smacked of commercialism, but it was decided that the fund should be administered by the U.S. Figure Skating Association's Memorial Fund, doled out to deserving talent on a local level.

This is the procedure recommended by the President's Commission — hands off the U.S. Olympic movement by the government, more participation by the nation's corporations.

PANTHERS DEFEAT BANGOR, 42-37

Watervliet Squelches Upset Bid

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

BANGOR — Watervliet almost became one of the first ranked teams to get knocked off in the post-season basketball playoffs.

The Panthers, ranked in the honorable mention of the last Class C poll, overcame a 20-point effort from Bangor's Dave Gregory to post a 42-37 win over the Vikings here Monday night in the first round of district action.

Play will resume tonight when Lake Michigan Catholic (2-18) faces Bloomington (10-8) at 7:30 p.m.

The final score would indicate some sort of stall by either Watervliet or Bangor...but just the opposite occurred.

Both squads used tough zone defenses which completely stymied the other team's offense. This fact was born out in the shooting percentages as the Panthers canned just 17 of 52 tries (32.7 per cent) while the Vikings hit just 17 of 55 attempts (30.9).

"I think both teams had the first night jitters a bit," commented Watervliet's head coach Gene Bednarowski. "It's a whole new game in the tournament."

Pat Curtis was the only Panther in double figures, netting 10 points. Oddly enough, in the past two games, the senior hadn't scored a point. Chuck Brock added nine points.

Gregory also didn't get much scoring help as the next high scorer for the Vikings was Bob Garvison with eight points.

A factor which hurt Bangor was that Ricky Ross, a 15.6 per game scorer, netted just two points.

"I don't think Watervliet really stopped him," commented coach Norm Johnson of Bangor. "I think he really stopped himself."

Although the senior center only hit one of 16 field goal attempts, he held a lock on the defensive boards and ended up pulling down 14 rebounds.

Bangor ended up with a 41-37 edge in rebounding, as Jim Weaver had 11 and Tom Hutchinson 10 for the Panthers.

Both teams played good floor games. Bangor committed only 14 turnovers while Watervliet had 12.

The Panthers, now 18-3 on the season, went out to an 11-6 lead after the first quarter as the Vikings had virtually no penetration inside. They ended up hitting just three of 17 in that eight-minute span from the floor.

They increased that to 22-10 with 2:31 left, but the hosts ran off the last six points of the first half and hit the initial bucket of the third quarter to make it a 22-18 game.

After trading buckets, Bangor blew a golden opportunity to grab the lead. With the score 26-22, the Vikings brought the ball down five straight times and didn't get a shot off at the basket while Watervliet couldn't buy a hoop at the other end.

The Panthers increased their lead to 33-22 with 2:48 remaining in the third quarter, but Bangor, which ends the year at 10-11, fought back to only trail by seven, 37-30, after three quarters of play.

And that's where the score stayed until Garvison hit a baseline layup with 3:52 left in the game. John Vojtko then made a free throw and Gregory hit a layup on the left side to bring the Vikings to within two at 37-35, with 2:38 left.

But Brock hit a free throw with 2:16 left and Jon Hinkelman made the Panthers' one and only field goal of the fourth quarter with 1:14 remaining to tie the game.

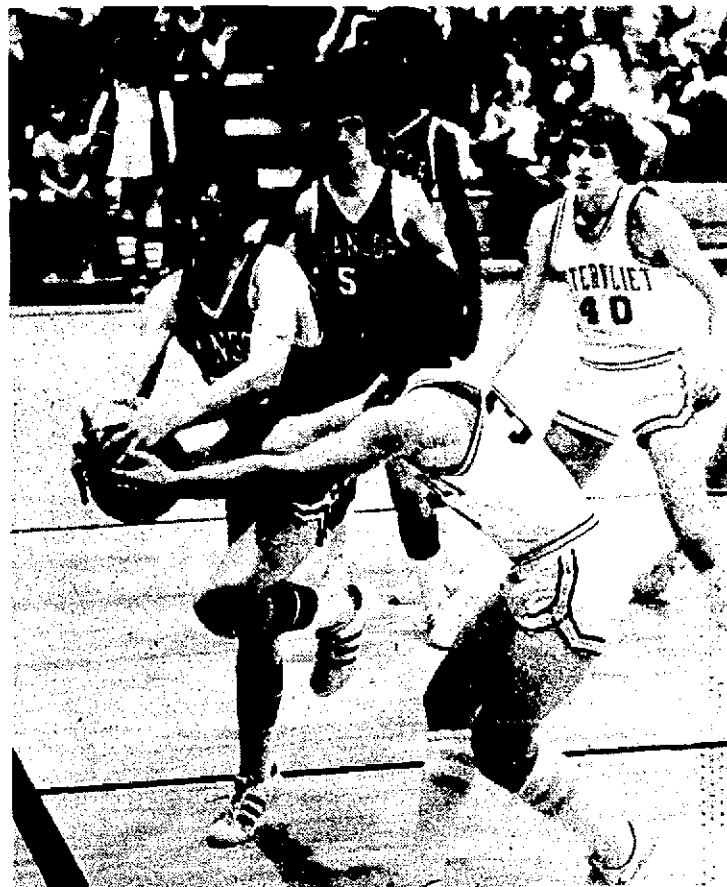

"I can't quibble," Bednarowski grinned. "I'll take them any way I can get them." "I can't complain defensively," Johnson said. "Offensively, we had enough good shots to do the job."

"We've had some other teams on the ropes this season, but couldn't put them away. I guess we can't handle the pressure." Watervliet will take on DeWatur, which drew a first-round bye, Wednesday night.

Rated Cage Teams Roll

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Of Michigan's 40 high school basketball teams ranked in today's final Associated Press poll, 19 played state district tournament openers Monday and only one lost.

The only game matching ranked teams was in Lansing, where top-ranked Lansing Everett easily beat seventh-ranked Lansing Eastern, 63-41.

Superstar Earvin Johnson scored 27 points and helped hold fellow All-Stater Jay Vincent to four points in leading Everett to the victory, its 20th in 21 games. Eastern closed its season with a 17-4 record.

Pontiac Central, the No. 2-ranked Class A squad, routed

Waterford Mott, 101-64, while No. 3 Grand Rapids Creston disposed of Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills, 71-61.

Fifth-ranked Detroit Catholic Central beat Hazel Park, 76-55, and No. 10 Bloomfield Hills Lahser nipped Southfield Lathrup, 56-53 in overtime, in the other "A" games involving rated teams.

Only two ranked Class B teams saw action. No. 1 Fenton beat Hartland, 42-16. Fenton led only 8-0 after the first quarter and neither team scored a point in the second period as Hartland employed a slowdown.

Muskegon Heights, rated seventh, ousted Muskegon Orchard View, 76-67.

Five rated "C" teams all won, but not all easily. Second-ranked Unionville-Sebewaing raised its record to 21-0 by slipping past Bad Axe, 67-64. No. 10 Williamston edged Whitmore Lake, 59-57, in overtime. Detroit Lutheran West, ranked third, eliminated Detroit Benedictine, 80-62. No. 1 Capac upended Ann Arbor, 58-42. And seventh-ranked White Cloud floated past Howard City Tri-County, 72-38.

Detroit East Catholic emphasized it's No. 1 Class D ranking by annihilating Roseville Baptist, 129-38. Fourth-ranked Powers North Central crushed Rock, 68-47. No. 6 Concord got by Camden-Frontier, 48-42.

Defending state champion Detroit DePue, rated seventh, overwhelmed Allen Park Inter-City Christian, 60-29. Eighth-ranked Maple City Glen Lake clobbered Leland, 99-48. And No. 10 Deerfield smashed Ann Arbor Greenhills, 74-41.

The Everett-Eastern game was the first in Michigan High School Athletic Association tournament history to be televised live. Lansing and other mid-Michigan points saw the game on WJTM-TV, Channel 6.

More than 4,000 spectators jammed the Eastern gym for the third showdown between the intra-city rivals.

Coach Johnny Orr of the University of Michigan, one of many college coaches eager to recruit Johnson, was in attendance along with assistants Bill Frieder and Jim Boyce. Ricky Green and Phil Hubbard, star players for the third-ranked Wolverines, also were on hand.

District games continue through Saturday. Survivors in the one-loss elimination begin regional competition next Monday. Quarterfinals are March 17, semifinals March 19 and finals March 26 at the University of Michigan's Crisler Arena.

IN FOR TWO: Jon Hinkelman (30) of Watervliet lays one up and in for the Panthers as Bob Garvison (51) of Bangor tries to swat the ball away. Watervliet advanced in the Class C district being played at Bangor with a 42-37 victory. (Staff photo by Harry Smith)

Brandywine Halts Eddies' Comeback

NILES — Brandywine held off a fourth-quarter Edwardsburg comeback to gain a 61-58 Class C district basketball victory here Monday night.

The win moved the Bobcats into Wednesday's semifinal game against Eau Claire. Buchanan (15-5) takes on New Buffalo (2-17) at 7:30 tonight at the Brandywine Gym.

The Bobcats, now 14-7, got 22 points from forward Tony Harris, 18 from Ed Pilarski and 12 from Greg Bestle. Guard Tim Reepka, averaging 15.2 points per game going into the contest, got in early foul trouble and did not score a point.

Meeting of the interdepartmental environmental review committee at 9 a.m. at Lansing's Baker-Olin Building.

Would you have believed 10 years ago that raccoon and fox would be valuable animals in 1977?

Many considered raccoon a nuisance back then and urged a no limits season to clean up the pests.

There was no closed season on fox. And the state even offered a $5 bounty as an incentive for hunters and trappers to harvest the rascals.

Times sure have changed.

Prime raccoon pelts are now ringing up to $35 each, and a shorter season is being urged to limit the take.

The change is just as spectacular for fox. The bounty is gone, prime pelts have brought up to $60 and a season on reynard is in the offing.

It all means that animals which were unwanted a few years ago are now a valuable resource in Michigan.

Frederick W. Stuewer of the Department of Natural Resources' wildlife division in Lansing, an expert on raccoon, recalls that masked bandits "caused so many problems that you couldn't even raise sweet corn...people wanted all protection taken off the miserable creatures, so we got a more liberal season."

The legislature now sets the raccoon season, but the DNR is seeking authority over raccoon and fox so it could change seasons as need dictates, without involving legislators.

Stuewer says the DNR would like to open the raccoon season about the middle of October and run it through December...the time when pelts are prime. Also, the DNR would like a fox season running from early October through the winter.

Stuewer says he has been "amazed" at the way raccoon have adapted to man's changing of his habitat. He calls it "one of wildlife's phenomena."

Where the raccoon once lived in hollow trees, he has now taken up residence in abandoned buildings and drainage culverts.

"The raccoon is a very intelligent animal," continues Stuewer. "It takes advantage of situations that man creates for it."

"And they'll eat anything...flesh, carrion, corn, acorns, nice, crayfish and frogs. They eat so many darn things. It's one of the secrets to their success."

The harvest of raccoon in Michigan has climbed to about 300,000 annually, making more than an $8 million business on their pelts last year.

LATE SEASON CATCH: Craig Archer of Niles pulls pike through hole in ice on Diamond Lake in Cass county. The tip-up catch was one of the last of season which ended Monday. Pike season will re-open May 15. Archer is studying to be a fisheries and wildlife biologist at Indiana University. (Jack Mell photo)

Fishing Report

Steelhead catches are picking up on the St. Joseph River below the Berrien Springs dam, and the Department of Natural Resources says success "should get better and better as spring progresses."

A recent creel survey showed 115 fishermen with 68 steelhead and 17 brown trout. Spawn sacks seems to be the main attraction for the steelies.

Anglers have also been taking coho on Lake Michigan at the nuclear plant near South Haven.

On inland waters, the deeper lakes are the best panfish producers, according to the DNR. Bluegills have been hitting mousies and waxworms, with the better waters including Swan Creek Refuge in Allegan county and Garver, Kirk and Little Crooked Lakes in Cass county. Good perch catches have also been noted at Diamond Lake in Cass county.

Krieger, who was touring western states with his wife, Donna, went fishing while on a visit with Harry Eglinsdoerfer, a former neighbor back in Michigan.

Fennville Will Face Hamilton

BYRON CENTER — Fennville will be hoping that the third time is a charm in the Class C district basketball tournament here Wednesday night.

The Blackhawks face Hamilton, a team that has already beaten Fennville twice this season. Hamilton won regular season games 69-62 and 83-58.

Hamilton gained a berth in Wednesday's game by beating Middletown 58-49 here Monday night. The winners, now 14-7, got 17 points and 16 rebounds from 6-6 center Scott Berens and 13 points from Bob Dekker.

Rue, Barefield Win Net Titles

Richard Rue and Sandy Barefield took tennis championships in a member singles tournament over the weekend at the South Shore Racquet Club.

Rue defeated Mark Latham 4-6, 7-5, 6-3 for the men's A crown, while Barefield bumped Bev Linn 3-6, 6-2, 6-0 for women's A honors.

In the men's B division, Jeff Baillif beat Daryl Deloit 6-3, 7-5, while the women's B title went to Connie Monte in a 7-6, 6-3 win over Lynn Ward.

Consolation round winners included Bruce Conybeare and Brent Butler in men's A and B, respectively, and Connie Beck and Carla Cloud in women's A and B.

KINGMAN THE BUNTER: New York Mets Dave Kingman tries bunting in his first appearance at spring training. Kingman is reportedly asking $3,000,000 to sign his contract. Kingman hit 37 home runs last year, despite missing 40 games with a broken thumb. (AP Wirephoto)

Kingman Aims At 'Moon' For Home Runs, Salary

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dave Kingman is shooting for the moon.

"This season, I won't be satisfied with less than 50 home runs," says the New York Mets slugger.

The Mets might think he is asking for the moon as well. General Manager Joe McDonald points out that he is "very far apart" in his contract negotiations with the unsigned player.

While not disclosing figures, McDonald said Monday that what the Mets have offered the rangy outfielder would put Kingman in the "category of the top three or four salaried players on the team."

McDonald also said that it would be "very difficult" for any Mets player to make more than pitcher Tom Seaver, who is in the category of $225,000 per year.

Kingman, who checked into the Mets' spring training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., Sunday and started hitting baseballs over the fence Monday, noted that there was a big disparity in his contract talks with McDonald.

"But I don't want to leave New York," Kingman reflected. "My goal is to be signed by the start of the season."

Tommy John of the Los Angeles Dodgers was another dissatisfied player. The left-handed pitcher reported to the Dodgers' camp at Vero Beach, Fla., in a huff over contract terms.

John, who came back after an arm injury that was expected to end his career, said he would sign a one-year contract and become a free agent at the end of the season.

Elsewhere, the Montreal Expos signed catcher-first baseman Earl Williams to a 1977 contract. At Coconia, Fla.,

pitcher Floyd Bannister, the Houston Astros' No. 1 free-agent draft choice last spring, came to terms with the club. The former Arizona State southpaw signed a minor league contract with Charleston, W.Va., the Astros' International League affiliate.

The Chicago Cubs traded left-handed pitcher Buddy Schuttz to the St. Louis Cardinals for right-hander Mark Covert. Schuttz, 26, had a 1-1 record with the Cubs last season and also was 1-1 with the Cubs' farm team at Wichita. Covert, 24, had a 7-8 mark with Arkansas in the Texas League last season.

Three teams officially opened spring training camps — the Kansas City Royals at Fort Myers, Fla., the Baltimore Orioles at Miami and the Milwaukee Brewers at Sun City, Ariz.

Dorothy Hamill Making 'Pitch' For Skate Fund

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-odd years ago a pretty, fresh-faced Norwegian named Sonja Henie whirled and pirouetted to three Olympic figure skating championships and landed smack on Hollywood's silver screen.

Americans were just surfacing from a terrible depression. It was only natural they should find an antidote in Sonja's movies — a boy-girl love story staged in a "Winter Wonderland" setting with lilting music.

Teen-agers sighed. Fathers experienced a quickened heart beat. Mothers gushed — and then went out and bought a pair of $4.50 skates for their daughters.

That's the way the figure skating boom exploded in the United States, producing in later years — in addition to a train of men's stars — gold medalists such as Tenley Albright, Carol Heiss, Peggy Fleming and, most recently, Dorothy Hamill.

Now it's the gymnastic and dark-haired Dorothy who is wowing audiences, not only in live Capades but on the home television screens where she is plugging a hair conditioner to match her hair style.

In living rooms the country over, one can envision dotting mothers, vowing, "I want my Suzie to be another Dorothy Hamill."

It is a wild and almost impossible dream. Of all competitive sports, the road to an Olympic gold medal in figure skating — and the treasure chest that lies at the end of it — is the most demanding and the most costly.

Exclusive of the hundreds of hours — five to six a day — spent in training, it's estimated that it cost Dorothy around $20,000 in the final year alone en route to her triumph at Innsbruck.

This was documented recently in the 832-page report of the President's Commission on Olympic Sports. Expenses for one world class figure skater for 1976-77 was placed at $30,000.

Not many bricklayers or bank clerks can afford that kind of an outlay.

No one is more conscious of the elusiveness of the Olympic gold medal than Miss Hamill herself, daughter of a well-to-do company executive in Riverside, Conn., who had to do some belt-tightening to keep Dorothy on the ice.

After signing a $300,000 contract with Clair, said in the trade to be the biggest ever for a TV commercial, Miss Hamill confided to a friend, Rhonda Racz, how much more fortunate she had been than some of her contemporaries.

"There should be a way for those with less money to get a chance to be a world class and Olympic figure skater," she said.

The idea was put to Clair by Miss Racz, a company project director, and out of it came a plan to take figure skating to the less privileged. The company pledged a minimum contribution of $25,000 and agreed to kick back 25 cents on every label returned from a package of Dorothy's favorite hair conditioner.

This smacked of commercialism, but it was decided that the fund should be administered by the U.S. Figure Skating Association's Memorial Fund, doled out to deserving talent on a local level.

This is the procedure recommended by the President's Commission — hands off the U.S. Olympic movement by the government, more participation by the nation's corporations.

Van Buren Judge Sends 2 To Prison

PAW PAW — Prison sentences were imposed on two men by Judge Meyer Warshawsky in Van Buren Circuit court here Monday.

The two were among five men sentenced. Eight other men were arraigned.

Anthony Vinson (also known as Marshall Anthony Vincent) 25, Hartford, was sentenced to a 2 to 15-year term in Southern Michigan prison, Jackson, as a result of his previous guilty plea to a charge of unarmed robbery. The charge alleged he and a woman robbed a stranded motorist on Red Arrow highway between Hartford and Lawrence late last year after giving him a ride. The motorist said one of the two people had a gun.

The woman, Janice Marie West, was sentenced last week to serve 90 days in jail and placed on two years probation.

When Warshawsky noted that a gun was involved, he told Vinson, "You're not here for armed robbery and that's the luckiest thing that has happened to you. Otherwise I would put you away so long that I wouldn't recognize you when you came out (of prison)."

Warshawsky said he would recommend that Vinson be transferred from prison to the Michigan Training unit at Ionia and receive vocational training.

Also sentenced to a term of from 2 to 15 years at Southern Michigan prison was Jose Garcia, 29, no permanent address, who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering a Columbia township home last June.

In other sentences, Donald Glenn Pasley, 18, route 2, Watervliet, was placed on a year's probation and ordered to spend four months in the Van Buren county jail as a result of his guilty plea to a charge of breaking and entering a Hartford home last September. Pasley was also sentenced to serve a concurrent four-month term in the county jail on a guilty plea to an accompanying charge of felonious assault. He was accused of pointing a rifle at a 12-year-old boy while in the house.

Timothy Allen Bard, 20, of 336 1/2 Park avenue, South Haven, was sentenced to nine months in the county jail on a previous guilty plea to a charge of breaking and entering a South Haven home last December.

Alan David Scott, 22, Railroad street, Hartford, was placed on probation for one year and ordered to serve the first six months in the county jail on a previous guilty plea to a charge of larceny in a building, a home in Hartford, last November.

In arraignments Monday, Anthony Joseph Dyrce, 22, rural Decatur, stood mute to a charge of resisting arrest in Decatur New Year's Eve and a plea of innocent was entered for him. Dyrce was arrested by Decatur Patrolman Donald E. Adams and the charge resulted from an ensuing scuffle.

Adams was suspended with pay by the Decatur council on Jan. 3 after Dyrce alleged police brutality in the arrest. Adams was reinstated Jan. 19 after cleared of the allegation. Adams sustained two broken ribs as a result of the fracas. A personal recognizance bond for Dyrce was continued.

Andrew Warren, 35, formerly of South Haven, pleaded innocent to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon and to supplemental information which alleges he has been convicted of two felonies previously. The weapon charge stems from his arrest in Covert township in June, 1975. His bond of $14,000 was continued.

Kenneth Madison, 20, Paw Paw road, Paw Paw, stood mute to a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property, a stereo, from a Paw Paw home, Jan. 1, and a plea of innocent was entered for him. A personal recognizance bond was continued.

Tony Stover, 19, of 313 LaGrave street, Paw Paw, stood mute to a charge of assault with intent to commit sexual penetration and a plea of innocent was entered. The charge stemmed from an incident Feb. 12 allegedly involving a 19-year-old Lawton girl. Bond of $5,000 was continued.

Dennis Versluis, 20, Paw Paw, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of larceny in a building and bond was reduced from $5,000 to $4,000. He was originally charged with breaking and entering LaCantina restaurant in Paw Paw, Dec. 31.

NEW PLANT STORE: Mrs. Joseph (Carol) Hyde, above, is the owner of The Window Box that recently opened at 5710 St. Joseph avenue, Stevensville. The store was formerly located in Coloma. Owner will take special orders and make area deliveries to homes, hospitals and rest homes. (Alice Koch photo)

SUSPECT HUNTED Woman's Wound Fatal At MSU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A 22-year-old woman employee at Michigan State University was shot and fatally wounded Monday in the hallway of a classroom-office building on the campus.

Police said the woman, Sheryl Luplow, was shot in the head and underwent surgery at nearby Sparrow Hospital. She died later.

Investigators believed the shooting in Olds Hall was the result of a domestic quarrel. They said they were seeking a man in his early 20s, who reportedly fled in a yellow car.

An MSU spokesman said Ms. Luplow, originally from Saginaw, was a secretary for the psychology department, whose offices are in Olds Hall. She also was enrolled as a freshman psychology student.

No one else was injured in the shooting.

Police Charged With Bias

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Troy police were accused by the state of sex discrimination in the case of a Detroit woman who tried to become a police officer. The woman, Deborah Koehler, passed a written test but failed a physical agility test. She challenged the validity of the test and police refused to consider her appeal, said the state Department of Civil Rights. The state ordered hearings on the matter.

Bangor Postpones Meeting

BANGOR — The Bangor city council postponed its Monday night meeting until tonight so council members could attend the Class C high school basketball tournament game between Watervliet and Bangor.

Watervliet won the game, 42-37.

Going To California

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State officials will travel to California later this week to discuss placing almost 100 youthful offenders with Synanon, the anti-drug abuse organization. Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, said the California agency has agreed to take 95 Michigan youths to ease overcrowding in a Detroit youth home. He said some of the youths placed with Synanon will come from the Detroit facility, while others will come from state institutions in Whitmore Lake and Adrian, which also are too crowded to accept the Detroit youths. Kehres said he and Department of Social Services officials will go to California to work out the details of the transfer. He said the state will save money in the switch, because Synanon's daily rates are less than the state pays now.

HASH 'N CASH

Food prices got you in a stew? Make the most of leftovers and do it in good taste with the recipes you'll find every week in this newspaper... along with price-off coupons that are as good as cash at the supermarket checkout.

We're not suggesting that the only reason you buy a newspaper is to save more than it costs. That would be overlooking the value of the in-depth news reportage you can get in no other place. It would be overlooking the fun of the features, the comics, the columns, the photos. It would be overlooking the ads—which women list as the most important part of the paper after news itself.

Laker Talk Set

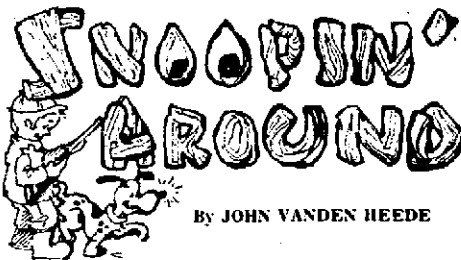

Lake trout experts Myrl Keller and Chuck Hiltz will address the monthly meeting of the Southwestern Michigan Steelheaders at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 8, at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn.

Resources' Great Lakes fish station at Charlevoix, and Hiltz, the manager of the Jordan River federal fish hatchery, will discuss the biology and habits of lake trout.

Meeting of the interdepartmental environmental review committee at 9 a.m. at Lansing's Baker-Olin Building.

Would you have believed 10 years ago that raccoon and fox would be valuable animals in 1977?

Many considered raccoon a nuisance back then and urged a no limits season to clean up the pests.

There was no closed season on fox. And the state even offered a $5 bounty as an incentive for hunters and trappers to harvest the rascals.

Times sure have changed.

Prime raccoon pelts are now ringing up to $35 each, and a shorter season is being urged to limit the take.

The change is just as spectacular for fox. The bounty is gone, prime pelts have brought up to $80 and a season on reynard is in the offing.

It all means that animals which were unwanted a few years ago are now a valuable resource in Michigan.

Frederick W. Stuewer of the Department of Natural Resources' wildlife division in Lansing, an expert on raccoon, recalls that masked bandits "caused so many problems that you couldn't even raise sweet corn....people wanted all protection taken off the miserable creatures, so we got a more liberal season."

The legislature now sets the raccoon season, but the DNR is seeking authority over raccoon and fox so it could change seasons as need dictates, without involving legislators.

Stuewer says the DNR would like to open the raccoon season about the middle of October and run it through December....the time when pelts are prime. Also, the DNR would like a fox season running from early October through the winter.

Stuewer says he has been "amazed" at the way raccoon have adapted to man's changing of his habitat. He calls it "one of wildlife's phenomena."

Where the raccoon once lived in hollow trees, he has now taken up residence in abandoned buildings and drainage culverts.

"The raccoon is a very intelligent animal," continues Stuewer. "It takes advantage of situations that man creates for it."

"And they'll eat anything....flesh, carrion, corn, acorns, nice, crayfish and frogs. They eat so many darn things. It's one of the secrets to their success."

The harvest of raccoon in Michigan has climbed to about 300,000 annually, making more than an $8 million business on their pelts last year.

NICE NORTHERN: Peter Miller of Gobles and his nephew, Chris Miller, speared this 15-pound, 39-inch northern pike recently on a lake near Gobles. (Margaret Norman photo)

LATE SEASON CATCH: Craig Archer of Niles pulls pike through hole in ice on Diamond Lake in Cass county. The tip-up catch was one of the last of season which ended Monday. Pike season will re-open May 15. Archer is studying to be a fisheries and wildlife biologist at Indiana University. (Jack Mell photo)

Fishing Report

Steelhead catches are picking up on the St. Joseph River below the Berrien Springs dam, and the Department of Natural Resources says success "should get better and better as spring progresses."

A recent creel survey showed 115 fishermen with 68 steelhead and 17 brown trout. Spawn sacks seems to be the main attraction for the steelies.

Anglers have also been taking coho on Lake Michigan at the nuclear plant near South Haven.

On inland waters, the deeper lakes are the best panfish producers, according to the DNR. Bluegills have been hitting mousies and waxworms, with the better waters including Swan Creek Refuge in Allegan county and Garver, Kirk and Little Crooked Lakes in Cass county. Good perch catches have also been noted at Diamond Lake in Cass county.

Van Buren Judge Sends 2 To Prison

PAW PAW — Prison sentences were imposed on two men by Judge Meyer Warshawsky in Van Buren Circuit court here Monday.

The two were among five men sentenced. Eight other men were arraigned.

Anthony Vinson (also known as Marshall Anthony Vincent) 25, Hartford, was sentenced to a 2 to 15-year term in Southern Michigan prison, Jackson, as a result of his previous guilty plea to a charge of unarmed robbery. The charge alleged he and a woman robbed a stranded motorist on Red Arrow highway between Hartford and Lawrence late last year after giving him a ride. The motorist said one of the two people had a gun.

The woman, Janice Marie West, was sentenced last week to serve 90 days in jail and placed on two years probation.

When Warshawsky noted that a gun was involved, he told Vinson, "You're not here for armed robbery and that's the luckiest thing that has happened to you. Otherwise I would put you away so long that I wouldn't recognize you when you came out (of prison)."

Warshawsky said he would recommend that Vinson be transferred from prison to the Michigan Training unit at Ionia and receive vocational training.

Also sentenced to a term of from 2 to 15 years at Southern Michigan prison was Jose Garcia, 29, no permanent address, who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering a Columbia township home last June.

In other sentences, Donald Glenn Pasley, 18, route 2, Watervliet, was placed on a year's probation and ordered to spend four months in the Van Buren county jail as a result of his guilty plea to a charge of breaking and entering a Hartford home last September. Pasley was also sentenced to serve a concurrent four-month term in the county jail on a guilty plea to an accompanying charge of felonious assault. He was accused of pointing a rifle at a 12-year-old boy while in the house.

Timothy Allen Bard, 20, of 3381 1/2 Park avenue, South Haven, was sentenced to nine months in the county jail on a previous guilty plea to a charge of breaking and entering a South Haven home last December.

Alan David Scott, 22, Railroad street, Hartford, was placed on probation for one year and ordered to serve the first six months in the county jail on a previous guilty plea to a charge of larceny in a building, a home in Hartford, last November.

In arraignments Monday, Anthony Joseph Dyrez, 22, rural Decatur, stood mute to a charge of resisting arrest in Decatur New Year's Eve and a plea of innocent was entered for him. Dyrez was arrested by Decatur Patrolman Donald E. Adams and the charge resulted from an ensuing scuffle.

Adams was suspended with pay by the Decatur council on Jan. 3 after Dyrez alleged police brutality in the arrest. Adams was reinstated Jan. 19 after a hearing of the allegation. Adams sustained two broken ribs as a result of the fracas. A personal recognizance bond for Dyrez was continued.

Andrew Warren, 35, formerly of South Haven, pleaded innocent to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon and to supplemental information which alleges he has been convicted of two felonies previously. The weapon charge stems from his arrest in Covert township in June, 1975. His bond of $11,000 was continued.

Kenneth Madison, 20, Paw Paw road, Paw Paw, stood mute to a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property, a stereo, from a Paw Paw home, Jan. 1, and a plea of innocent was entered for him. A personal recognizance bond was continued.

Tony Stover, 19, of 313 LaGrave street, Paw Paw, stood mute to a charge of assault with intent to commit sexual penetration and a plea of innocent was entered. The charge stemmed from an incident Feb. 12 allegedly involving a 19-year-old Lawton girl. Bond of $5,000 was continued.

Dennis Versluis, 20, Paw Paw, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of larceny in a building and bond was reduced from $5,000 to $1,000. He was originally charged with breaking and entering LaCantina restaurant in Paw Paw, Dec. 31.

Arraignment for Randall Routhaux, 17, route 1, Hartford, was adjourned until March 7 because he was not represented by an attorney. He is charged with breaking and entering a Keeler township restaurant Dec. 5. A personal recognizance bond was continued.

SUSPECT HUNTED Woman's Wound Fatal At MSU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A 22-year-old woman employee at Michigan State University was shot and fatally wounded Monday in the hallway of a classroom-office building on the campus.

Police said the woman, Sheryl Luplow, was shot in the head and underwent surgery at nearby Sparrow Hospital. She died later.

Investigators believed the shooting in Olds Hall was the result of a domestic quarrel. They said they were seeking a man in his early 20s, who reportedly fled in a yellow car.

An MSU spokesman said Ms. Luplow, originally from Saginaw, was a secretary for the psychology department, whose offices are in Olds Hall. She also was enrolled as a freshman psychology student.

No one else was injured in the shooting.

Police Charged With Bias

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Troy police were accused by the state of sex discrimination in the case of a Detroit woman who tried to become a police officer. The woman, Deborah Koehler, passed a written test but failed a physical agility test. She challenged the validity of the test and police refused to consider her appeal, said the state Department of Civil Rights. The state ordered hearings on the matter.

Bangor Postpones Meeting

BANGOR — The Bangor city council postponed its Monday night meeting until tonight so council members could attend the Class C high school basketball tournament game between Watervliet and Bangor.

Watervliet won the game, 42-37.

Going To California

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State officials will travel to California later this week to discuss placing almost 100 youthful offenders with Synanon, the anti-drug abuse organization. Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, said the California agency has agreed to take 85 Michigan youths to ease overcrowding in a Detroit youth home. He said some of the youths placed with Synanon will come from the Detroit facility, while others will come from state institutions in Whitmore Lake and Adrian, which also are too crowded to accept the Detroit youths. Kehres said he and Department of Social Services officials will go to California to work out the details of the transfer. He said the state will save money in the switch, because Synanon's daily rates are less than the state pays now.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Open On Up Side

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened on the up side today, continuing a rise that began late Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose about 2 1/2 points in early trading, and gainers outnumbered losers 5-3 among NPEW York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts saw the advance as a result of internal market forces.

"Of course, the market is scared to death of more inflation, but I think the inflation story is wearing a little thin, and some of the boys are getting their feet wet," said John J. Smith of Fehnestock & Co.

Today's early prices included Sony Corp., down 1/4 at 9 1/2; National Semiconductor, up 1 at 18 1/4; and Quaker State Oil, up 1/4 at 19 1/2.

On Monday, the Dow Jones industrial average rose 2.99 at 936.42.

Gainers outnumbered losers by a very slight margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume hit a three-month low of 16.22 million shares, down from 17.61 million on Friday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .14 to 54.23.

Federal Lid On Interest Ends Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal and banking industry officials agree the interest rate you earn on your savings is unlikely to rise, even though federal controls limiting them are lapsing.

The controls authorized by Congress in 1966 expire today, with committees in both the House and Senate debating legislation to reimpose them.

The Senate Banking Committee is working on a 90-day extension proposal while the House is prepared to take up its own Banking Committee's one-year plan.

Under the expiring controls, federally chartered savings and loans can offer their customers interest rates that range from maximums of 5.25 per cent interest on passbook savings accounts to 7.75 per cent on certificates of deposit held for six years or more.

Banks are limited to 5 per cent interest rates on passbook accounts and 7.5 per cent on certificates of deposit.

Askew Likes Carter Idea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Reuben Askew of Florida says President Carter's order to his Cabinet to read all of the regulations their departments issue was a good idea — even if the President has canceled it.

Askew, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, on Monday cited Carter's order as particularly pleasing to governors. After all, he noted, the governors have to read federal regulations and put them into effect in various programs.

Ex-AMC President Dies In Florida

DETROIT (AP) — Funeral services were pending today for Roy Abernethy, former president and chief executive officer of American Motors Corp., who died suddenly Monday in Tequesta, Fla. He was 70.

Abernethy joined AMC in 1954 as vice president of Nash sales. A year later he became vice president of distribution and marketing for the automotive division of the company when the Nash and Hudson sales organizations were consolidated.

He was elected executive vice president in charge of distribution and marketing and became a director of the company in 1960. Eleven months later, Abernethy was named executive vice president and general manager.

He was elected president, general manager and chief operations officer in 1962 and was later named chief executive officer. He resigned from AMC in 1967.

Abernethy had held executive positions with Packard Motor Car Co. and Willys Motors before joining AMC.

He is survived by his widow, Florence; a son and a daughter. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Pigeon River Oil Battle May End Up In Courts

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The controversy over gas and oil drilling in the Pigeon River Country State Forest appears likely headed for the courts.

Both environmentalists and oil companies vowed Monday to file suit if they come out the loser in the dispute.

Their comments came as the Department of Natural Resources held a hearing on 10 applications to drill in the semi-wilderness area in northern Lower Michigan.

"If they grant them, we'll sue 'em," promised Roger Conner, executive director of the West Michigan Environmental Action Council. He said opponents of drilling would argue it would damage the environment and that there are less sensitive lands available for drilling first.

Theodore Pfister, attorney for Shell Oil Co., said oil firms would certainly sue if all 10 applications are denied, and possibly if any are turned down for a poor reason.

He said the companies have environmental protection provisions under state law, and have a right to drill.

Further legal battles could extend the nine-year dispute over whether to drill in Pigeon River, which contains a small elk herd.

The state sold oil development leases in the forest in 1968, which clouded the state's legal position in ruling on applications. The oil industry says that $1.8 billion worth of fuel might lie under the range.

The DNR reached agreement with three major oil companies — Shell, Northern Michigan Exploration Co. and Amoco — last June to permit drilling in the southern third of the 97,000-acre forest while protecting the environment.

Since then, both environmentalists and oil companies have been dealt setbacks.

An Ingham County judge rejected a suit filed by Conner seeking to block the agreement. And the DNR turned down an application from Michigan Oil Co., saying the plan did not meet the environmental standards of the agreement with other firms.

Environmentalists crowded the hearing Monday to attack the 10 proposed wells as potential dangers to the area's ecology, and urged DNR Director Howard Tanner to deny them for the same reason he rejected the Michigan Oil Co. application.

Conner forecast "pollution, impairment and destruction" from widened roads, noise and contamination of swamps and rivers.

But the oil companies contended the agreement with the DNR adequately protected the environment and entitled them to proceed with drilling.

"This winter has demonstrated the impact of an energy shortfall on Michigan's economy," said Pfister.

The oil companies had an unusual ally in the Michigan United Conservation Clubs. Executive Director Thomas Washington pointed out that some of the royalties from drilling would go to a new state land acquisition fund, providing recreational facilities for persons who now don't have any.

Pigeon River Oil Battle May End Up In Courts

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The controversy over gas and oil drilling in the Pigeon River Country State Forest appears likely headed for the courts.

Both environmentalists and oil companies vowed Monday to file suit if they come out the loser in the dispute.

Their comments came as the Department of Natural Resources held a hearing on 10 applications to drill in the semi-wilderness area in northern Lower Michigan.

"If they grant them, we'll sue 'em," promised Roger Conner, executive director of the West Michigan Environmental Action Council. He said opponents of drilling would argue it would damage the environment and that there are less sensitive lands available for drilling first.

Thodore Pfister, attorney for Shell Oil Co., said oil firms would certainly sue if all 10 applications are denied, and possibly if any are turned down for a poor reason.

He said the companies have valid leases, have met the environmental protection provisions under state law, and have a right to drill.

Further legal battles could extend the nine-year dispute over whether to drill in Pigeon River, which contains a small elk herd.

The state sold oil development leases in the forest in 1968, which clouded the state's legal position in ruling on applications. The oil industry says that $1.5 billion worth of fuel might lie under the range.

The DNR reached agreement with three major oil companies — Shell, Northern Michigan Exploration Co. and Amoco — last June to permit drilling in the southern third of the 97,000-acre forest while protecting the environment.

Since then, both environmentalists and oil companies have been deadlocked.

An Ingham County judge rejected a suit filed by Conner seeking to block the agreement. And the DNR turned down an application from Michigan Oil Co., saying the plan did not meet the environmental standards of the agreement with other firms.

Environmentalists crowded the hearing Monday to attack the 10 proposed wells as potential dangers to the area's ecology, and urged DNR Director Howard Tanner to deny them for the same reason he rejected the Michigan Oil Co. application.

Conner forecast "pollution, impairment and destruction" from widened roads, noise and contamination of swamps and rivers.

But the oil companies contended the agreement with the DNR adequately protected the environment and entitled them for the purpose of reviewing and equalizing tax assessments in the City of St. Joseph.

Views On Tankers Differ

DETROIT (AP) — Witnesses at a state Senate committee hearing Monday differed over whether tankers hauling flammable fuels should be banned from freeways or whether that's the safest place for them.

Twelve witnesses testified at the hearing before the Senate Committee on Highways and Transportation, meeting here to consider legislation to regulate tankers hauling potentially dangerous cargoes.

Six tanker-trucks have overturned in the Detroit area since late November, causing serious injury to several persons.

Warren Vernier, St. Clair Shores fire chief and head of the Southeast Michigan Fire Chiefs Association, called the double-bottom tankers rolling bombs and recommended banning them from freeways within cities and towns.

Vernier said too-high speed is a main problem with the trucks. He said if drivers face an unexpected situation on the road, they can easily lose control of their rigs.

But Robert Hess, director of the Institute of Highway Safety Research at the University of Michigan, said tankers should not be banned from freeways.

"The safest place to have them — and you must have them — is on limited access highways," Hess said.

Gun Fired In Robbery; Bandi

A Benton Harbor man was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to 25 to 50 years in prison for the armed robbery of a Benton Harbor party store in 1974.

Receiving the prison term from Judge Chester J. Byrns was Billy H. Wright, 40, who gave an address of 1180 Union street. Wright was convicted of using a 9-millimeter automatic pistol to rob Tom Angelo of cash Dec. 7, 1974, at Angelo's party store, then located at 282 Territorial road.

"Armed robbery ranks within the first three types of heinous crimes that can be committed," Byrns told Wright. The judge also noted "a gun was fired within a foot or two of the victim, and you could well have been here for murder instead of armed robbery.

"Your sentence is greater because of the firing of the gun," Byrns said.

Prior to imposing sentence, Byrns denied defense motions seeking a new trial and granting bond during appeal. Wright has a suit pending in district court naming district Judge John T. and Berrien Sheriff (Nick) Jewell as but the prosecutor's the suit fails to stay action.

FOUR DEMAND HEARINGS

Twenty-Five Face District Judges

Four people demanded examination, one pleaded innocent to misdemeanor charges and 20 were sentenced yesterday in Berrien district court.

Demanding examination were:

William E. Carpenter, 27, of Elkhart, Ind., on charges of carrying a concealed weapon in an auto and possession of cocaine Feb. 26 in Niles. Bond was set at $15,000.

Willie Earl McDonald, 46, of 340 Ohio street, Benton Harbor, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon in an auto Feb. 27 in St. Joseph.

William L. Bailey, 35, of 1128 Pipestone road, Sodus, on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants, third offense, Feb. 26 in Benton township. He also pleaded innocent to a charge of driving with a suspended license, second offense, the same day. Bond was set at $5,000.

Timothy R. DeSchepper, 20, of Edwardsburg, on a charge of breaking and entering Gary's Checker station, US 31-33, Royalton township, Feb. 26.

Michael L. Hopkins, 34, of 1419 Forres avenue, St. Joseph, pleaded innocent to charges of fleeing and eluding a police officer, driving with a suspended license, and driving under the influence of intoxicants. He was arrested by Benton township police after a brief 90-mile-an-hour chase late Saturday.

Sentenced were:

Robert Saenz, 18, of Hartford,

10 days in jail and one year probation for assault and battery against Dennis Bower Jan. 6 at Mr. Lucky's Pool Hall, 102 East Ferry street, Berrien Springs.

Rickey Wysinger, 21, of 1159 Pearl street, Benton Harbor, 15 days in jail and $121 and one year probation for petty larceny, reduced from breaking and entering a motor vehicle, Jan. 8 in Benton Harbor.

Dale M. McIntosh, 21, of 529 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, $100 and one year probation for passing an insufficient fund check under $50, Oct. 31 at Lambrecht's Package Liquor store, 2926 Niles avenue, St. Joseph.

Michael A. Johns, 21, of Berrien Springs, $300 or one year in jail for possession of amphetamines Jan. 28 in Benton township.

Ronald K. Curtis, 19, of 634 Pearl street, Benton Harbor, $175 or 30 days in jail for receiving and concealing stolen property under $100 Jan. 21 in Benton Harbor.

Joel Thomas Alexander, 17, of Battle Creek, $121 or 30 days in jail for larceny under $100 Feb. 19 in Bridgman.

George Ollie Nelson, 22, of Galien, $50 or 10 days in jail for defrauding an innkeeper Oct. 3 at the Firebird restaurant, Sawyer.

Ollie J. Hornes, 20, of 448 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail for shoplifting in Benton Harbor.

Eddy M. Robinson, 31, of 680 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, $50 or 10 days in jail for attempting to cash an insufficient fund check Jan. 4 at Jewel Food store in Benton township.

Sentenced for the following offenses were:

Driving under the influence of intoxicants — Joe Johnson, 38, of 465 Broadway, Benton Harbor, $152 or 30 days in jail and 90 days probation; Lawrence M. White, 44, of Chicago, $152 or 30 days in jail.

Driving with a revoked license — Douglas M. Copeland, 22, of Three Oaks, 30 days in jail; and Duane M. LaPlante, 20, of 6941 Paw Paw avenue, Coloma, three days in jail and $60 or 90 days total.

Use of marijuana — William H. Wright, 20, of Judson, Ind., $100 and six months probation; Keith E. Howard, 22, of Judson, Ind., $100 and six months probation; Richard L. Strieter, 24, of LaPorte, Ind., $100 and six months probation; and Raul Stockard, 22, of Jackson, $50 or 10 days in jail; Timothy R. Allerton, 17, of 857 Superior street, Benton Harbor, $50 or 10 days in jail; Joel L. Kienzie, 21, of 2251 Glendale avenue, Benton township, $200 or 30 days in jail.

Impaired driving — Mark A. Kamaski, 18, of Chesterton, Ind., $75 or 15 days in jail.

License Tab Sales Lagging

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sales of 1977 auto license tabs are running 700,000 behind the pace last year when Michigan's new Bicentennial plates were offered. State officials urge motorists to order their tabs by mail before Tuesday, the last day mail applications will be accepted. The deadline for 1977 tabs is March 31. The more people order by mail, the shorter the lines will be at Secretary of State branch offices late next month, said Secretary of State Richard Austin.

Voters To Rule On 3 Issues

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Voters in three Michigan school districts will vote on bond issues of more than $4.6 million next month, says the state Board of Education. Benzie County Central Schools voters will decide March 7 on a $975,000 bond issue for remodeling and a school addition; Richmond Community Schools voters in Macomb County will vote March 29 on a $480,000 issue; and voters in East Jordan Public Schools in Charlevoix will decide March 31 on $3.1 million for a new high school and other projects.

As our life changes, so does the way we use electricity.

A lot of people believe that higher electric bills are caused by higher electric rates. In part, that's true.

But a big reason many electric bills are up is because the amount of electricity we use is up.

In 1950, most of the electricity used in the home was for lighting, cooking, refrigeration and washing clothes.

Now, less than half a family's electricity is used for that. Instead, more than 50% is used for air conditioning, color TV, dishwashing, clothes drying and hundreds of other electrical conveniences you wouldn't want to be without.

Unfortunately, inflation has drastically increased the cost of supplying the electricity needed to meet this steady growth in demand.

And with new families continuing to join the ranks of our customers every day, the demand is going to keep on growing.

So, keeping the power coming, and finding ways to keep its costs down, is getting tougher every day.

But, while we continue to do everything we can to hold down our costs as we keep up with this growth, there are some things you can do to help keep your costs in line, too.

Use the appliances you have more efficiently. Make sure your home is properly insulated. And, when it comes time to buy new appliances and systems, look into energy savers like the heat pump.

If everyone makes an effort to do just a few of these things, we'll have a brand new source of energy to rely on.

Ourselves.

Indiana & Michigan Electric Co.

Working together is the only way.

denied defense motions
a new trial and granting ring appeal. Wright has a suit pending in Federal District court naming Berrien District Judge John T. Hammond and Berrien Sheriff Forrester (Nick) Jewell as defendants, but the prosecutor's office said the suit fails to state a cause of action.

TESTIFIES: Secretary of State
Cyrus R. Vance testifies before the Senate Banking subcommittee Monday in Washington where he called for legislation to prohibit American firms from engaging in an economic boycott of Israel. (AP Wirephoto)

The suit complains of jail visitation and mail censorship rules regarding Jewell, and claims Wright was improperly held in contempt of court by Hammond for a speeding offense (to which he has since pleaded guilty).

The prosecutor's office said a motion has been filed to dismiss Wright's suit, and noted his suit will probably be moot in light of the prison term imposed by Byrns.

In another sentence by Byrns,
James M. Moore, 18, of 495
North Stevens street, Benton Harbor, was placed on two years probation, with the first four months in jail, for attempted breaking and entering Hatfield Electric Co., at 427 North Hull street, Benton Harbor, on Nov.
18. Byrns also ordered Moore to pay $200 fine and costs and make $50 restitution to Hatfield Electric Co.

In sentences by Judge Zoe S.
Burkholz:

James R. Tull, 19, of Baldwin road, Bridgman, drew a 15-year prison term for second degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly indecent liberties) with a young woman Nov. 18 in New Troy.
Donald A. Crowder, 17, of 710

South Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 2 to 5 years in prison for attempted breaking and entering the residence of Larry Mix in Benton township on Dec. 21.

Gary L. Peterson, 27, of Highland Park, Mich., was placed on two years probation and ordered to pay $350 fine and costs for possession of heroin
May 31 in Lincoln township.

Larry D. Porter, 25, of 1090
Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, was placed on two years probation, assessed $250 fine and costs, and ordered to make restitution of $50 for attempted breaking and entering the residence of Annie Sheffield in Benton Harbor on Dec. 11.

In an arraignment before Judge Burkholz, Larry E. Poor, 39, of Dannefel road, Watervliet,
pleaded guilty to attempted carrying a concealed weapon — a revolver — Oct. 30 in Benton township.

In arraignments before Judge
Julian E. Hughes:

Elroy Dekine, 44, of 833 Edgecumbe, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to possession of an unregistered gun Sept. 3 in Benton Harbor.

Girard Corley, 23, of 578
Green street, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon, a pistol, Dec.

20 in Benton Harbor.

Daniel Zinck, 19, of 215 Ward avenue, St. Joseph, pleaded guilty to larceny in a building — the theft of cash and keys from the Sand Bar tavern in St.
Joseph on Aug. 11.

In arraignments before Judge
Byrns:

Lloyd A. Glupker, 19, of 1265
Pearl street, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to attempted larceny over $100 — the attempted theft of a riding lawn mower from Martha Robinson Sept. 8 in St. Joseph township.

Harris Parks, Jr., 17, of 680
East Vineyard, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to attempted third degree criminal sexual conduct (sodomy) with a boy
Jan. 19 in Benton Harbor.

Dennis D. McGill, 29, of 604
South Norton, New Buffalo, pleaded innocent to a charge of resisting arrest by New Buffalo Patrolman Dale Zombory Feb. 4 in New Buffalo.

Johnnie Williams, 49, of 634
Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of possession of a .45 caliber machine gun Feb. 2 at the Bachelor 14 club in Benton township.

Gun Fired In Robbery; Bandit Gets 25 To 50 Years

A Benton Harbor man was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to 25 to 50 years in prison for the armed robbery of a Benton Harbor party store in 1974.

Receiving the prison term from Judge Chester J. Byrns was Billy H. Wright, 40, who gave an address of 1180 Union street. Wright was convicted of using a 9-millimeter automatic pistol to rob Tom Angelo of cash Dec. 7, 1974, at Angelo's party store, then located at 282 Territorial road.

"Armed robbery ranks within the first three types of heinous crimes that can be committed," Byrns told Wright. The judge also noted "a gun was fired within a foot or two of the victim, and you could well have been here for murder instead of armed robbery."

"Your sentence is greater than that of the firing of the gun," Byrns said.

Prior to imposing sentence, Byrns denied defense motions seeking a new trial and granting bond during appeal. Wright has a suit pending in Federal District court naming Berrien District Judge John T. Hammond and Berrien Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell as defendants, but the prosecutor's office said the suit fails to state a cause of action.

The suit complaints of jail visitation and mail censorship rules regarding Jewell, and claims Wright was improperly held in contempt of court by Hammond for a speeding offense (to which he has since pleaded guilty).

The prosecutor's office said a motion has been filed to dismiss Wright's suit, and noted his suit will probably be moot in light of the prison term imposed by Byrns.

In another sentence by Byrns, James M. Moore, 18, of 495 North Stevens street, Benton Harbor, was placed on two years probation, with the first four months in jail, for attempted breaking and entering Hatfield Electric Co., at 427 North Hall street, Benton Harbor, on Nov. 18. Byrns also ordered Moore to pay $200 fine and costs and make $50 restitution to Hatfield Electric Co.

TESTIFIES: Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance testifies before the Senate Banking subcommittee Monday in Washington where he called for legislation to prohibit American firms from engaging in an economic boycott of Israel. (AP Wirephoto)

In sentences by Judge Zoe S. Burkholz:

James R. Tull, 19, of Baldwin road, Bridgman, drew a to 15-year prison term for second degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly indecent liberties) with a young woman Nov. 18 in New Troy.

Donald A. Crowder, 17, of 710 South Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 2 to 5 years in prison for attempted breaking and entering the residence of Larry Mix in Benton township on Dec. 21.

Gary L. Peterson, 27, of Highland Park, Mich., was placed on two years probation and ordered to pay $350 fine and costs for possession of heroin May 31 in Lincoln township.

Larry D. Porter, 25, of 1090 Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, was placed on two years probation, assessed $250 fine and costs, and ordered to make restitution of $50 for attempted breaking and entering the residence of Annie Sheffield in Benton Harbor on Dec. 11.

In an arraignment before Judge Burkholz, Larry E. Poor, 39, of Danmel road, Watervliet, pleaded guilty to attempted carrying a concealed weapon — a revolver — Oct. 30 in Benton township.

In arraignments before Judge Julian E. Hughes:

Elroy Dekine, 41, of 833 Edgemoor, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to possession of an unregistered gun Sept. 3 in Benton Harbor.

Girard Corley, 23, of 578 Green street, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon, a pistol, Dec. 20 in Benton Harbor.

Dennis D. McGill, 29, of 604 South Norton, New Buffalo, pleaded innocent to a charge of resisting arrest by New Buffalo Patrolman Dale Zumbory Feb. 4 in New Buffalo.

Johnnie Williams, 48, of 634 Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of possession of a .45 caliber machine gun Feb. 2 at the Bachelor 14 club in Benton township.

FOUR DEMAND HEARINGS

Twenty-Five Face District Judges

Four people demanded examination, one pleaded innocent to misdemeanor charges and 20 were sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court.

Demanding examination were:

William E. Carpenter, 27, of Elkhart, Ind., on charges of carrying a concealed weapon in an auto and possession of cocaine Feb. 26 in Niles. Bond was set at $15,000.

Willie Earl McDonald, 46, of 340 Ohio street, Benton Harbor, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon in an auto Feb. 27 in St. Joseph.

Michael A. Johns, 21, of 448 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail for shoplifting in Benton Harbor.

Eddy M. Robinson, 31, of 680 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, 90 or 10 days in jail for attempting to cash an insufficient fund check Jan. 4 at Jewel Food store in Benton township.

Sentenced for the following offenses were:

Driving under the influence of intoxicants — Joe Johnson, 38, of 465 Broadway, Benton Harbor, $152 or 30 days in jail and 90 days probation; Lawrence M. White, 41, of Chicago, $152 or 30 days in jail.

William L. Bailey, 35, of 1128 Pipestone road, Sudus, on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants, third offense, Feb. 26 in Benton township. He also pleaded innocent to a charge of driving with a suspended license, second offense, the same day. Bond was set at $5,000.

Joel Thomas Alexander, 17, of Battle Creek, $121 or 30 days in jail for larceny under $100 Feb. 19 in Bridgman.

George Ollie Nelson, 22, of Gahen, $50 or 10 days in jail for defrauding a hunkper Oct. 3 at the Firebird restaurant, Sawyer.

Driving with a revoked license — Douglas M. Copeland, 22, of Three-Oaks, 30 days in jail; and Duane M. LaPlante, 20, of 6941 Paw Paw avenue, Coloma, three days in jail and $50 or 90 days total.

License Tab Sales Lagging

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sales of 1977 auto license tabs are running 700,000 behind the pace last year when Michigan's new Bicentennial plates were offered. State officials urge motorists to order their tabs by mail before Tuesday, the last day mail applications will be accepted. The deadline for 1977 tabs is March 31. The more people order by mail, the shorter the lines will be at Secretary of State branch offices late next month, said Secretary of State Richard Austin.

Voters To Rule On 3 Issues

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Voters in three Michigan school districts will vote on bond issues of more than $4.6 million next month, says the state Board of Education. Denzie County Central Schools voters will decide March 7 on a $975,000 bond issue for remodeling and a school addition; Richmond Community Schools voters in Macomb County will vote March 29 on a $480,000 issue; and voters in East Jordan Public Schools in Charlevoix will decide March 31 on $3.1 million for a new high school and other projects.

As our life changes, so does the way we use electricity.

A lot of people believe that higher electric bills are caused by higher electric rates. In part, that's true.

But a big reason many electric bills are up, is because the amount of electricity we use is up.

Today, for instance, an average family uses about four times more electricity than in 1950. And for a lot more things.

In 1950, most of the electricity used in the home was for lighting, cooking, refrigeration and washing clothes.

Now, less than half a family's electricity is used for that. Instead, more than 50% is used for air conditioning, color TV, dishwashing, clothes drying and hundreds of other electrical conveniences you wouldn't want to be without.

Unfortunately, inflation has drastically increased the cost of supplying the electricity needed to meet this steady growth in demand.

And with new families continuing to join the ranks of our customers every day, the demand is going to keep on growing.

So, keeping the power coming, and finding ways to keep its costs down, is getting tougher every day.

But, while we continue to do everything we can to hold down our costs as we keep up with this growth, there are some things you can do to help keep your costs in line, too.

Use the appliances you have more efficiently. Make sure your home is properly insulated. And, when it comes time to buy new appliances and systems, look into energy savers like the heat pump.

If everyone makes an effort to do just a few of these things, we'll have a brand new source of energy to rely on. Ourselves.
